Jetliner Crash Kills 64 Near Cincinnati Airport

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A team of federal investigators went to work today trying to determine why a TWA jet passenger plane crashed while approaching the Greater Cincinnati Airport Monday night, apparently killing 64 of 82 persons.

"We counted up all our passengers again, and now find there were 75 passengers and seven crew members," said TWA District Manager A. B. Krueger. "There are 18 survivors."

"That leaves 64 persons not accounted for. I don't want to say they are all dead, but I don't have much hope for finding any more survivors," Krueger added.

Six of the survivors were reported in serious or critical condition in various area hospitals.

Most of the injured were rushed to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, Ky. Two-thirds of the nurses at the hospital resigned last week in a dispute with the management—but most of them reported back to work Monday night to care for the injured.

The debris-strewn crash scene is in an orchard about 1.5 miles north of the airport and not far from the spot where an American Airlines passenger plane crashed in 1965 with heavy loss of life.

Greater Cincinnati Airport is built south of the edge of a plateau above the Ohio River. The American Airlines plane smashed against the hillside 50 feet below the edge of the plateau. The TWA plane that crashed Monday night came down a few hundred yards past the edge, in plain sight of the runway lights.

Members of the National Transport Safety Board team arrived during the night. Several of them visited the crash site in the dark, but one of them, Oscar Laurel, said nothing significant was found. He said the team would be fully organized today.

Woodrow McKay, chief tower controller at the airport, said "a pretty good fire broke out" after the plane hit.

More than a score of persons were waiting inside the airport restaurant for the arrival of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Maude Cuneo of Hebron, Ky., said she saw a "great ball of fire," that it looked to her as though the plane had "exploded in the air."

The airplane was Trans World Air Lines Convair 440 Flight 128 bound from Los Angeles to Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Boston. It was about two hours late, TWA said, because a faulty door of another plane caused passengers to be shifted in Los Angeles to the one that crashed.

Dense smoke hung over the area and debris covered the ground at the scene of the crash. Light snow fell sporadically as ambulances hauled bodies away from the orchard. Floodlights illuminated the area.

Among the first at the scene was Capt. Paul Dickermann, commander of the Hebron, Ky. life squad.

"We were running across the field past a man and when we went on, there was a man carrying a child from the burning wreckage of the plane," Dickermann said.

He said they were both badly hurt but told him to go on and help the others. Dickermann said the man then collapsed in his arms.

Dickermann said a man told him he thought it was just a hard landing at first. But he then said "The ceiling collapsed on my wife and then the plane burst into flames."

McKay said the plane was making a routine instrument approach. An airport spokesman said there had been no indication from the pilot of any trouble.

The cause of the crash was not determined.

The plane's pilot, Capt. Charles L. Cochran, 45, was listed as a resident of Spring Hill, Kan. and a veteran Marine Corps pilot. He had been flying commercial lines since 1952.

Surtax Chances High After British Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional passage of President Johnson's proposed income tax boost became a renewed possibility today as an indirect consequence of Britain's currency devaluation.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, which calls the tax signals for Congress, announced a Nov. 28 hearing to consider a new administration surtax and cost-cutting package.

Matching Ends
White House press secretary George Christian told newsmen Monday the package calls for the $7 billion, 10 per cent income tax surcharge Johnson requested Aug. 3, plus a matching $7 billion paring of expenditures.

But congressional sources said they understood the cost-cutting actually would amount only to about $4 billion in this fiscal year, which ends next June 30, including about $1 billion of cuts already made by Congress.

The surtax proposal had been considered dead for this session. If the British action has changed congressional sentiment, it could be enacted in time to take effect Jan. 1, Capitol Hill experts said, but only if Congress remains in session almost until Christmas.

The Ways and Means Committee shelved the Johnson tax plan on Oct. 3. It said the surtax would be considered again only if there was a firm agreement with the administration on reduced spending.

Mills apparently agreed to the new hearing despite some doubts it would bear fruit. He sandwiched his hearing announcement into a Hot Springs, Ark., speech that was sharply critical of the Johnson fiscal program.

"I have yet to receive a single, specific proposal from the administration as to how to implement the (committee's) expenditure control request," the Arkansas Democrat complained.

Rejected Notion
Mills rejected as "a fanciful notion" the argument of administration officials that Sunday's 14 per cent devaluation of the pound made a tax increase more necessary to defend the dollar from inflation and speculation.

"That a tax increase of the sort proposed will have any significant effect on our balance of payments in the reasonably near future and that it might contribute to the strengthening of the pound is completely without support of fact," he said.

But at the White House, Christian said the British move—followed by Federal Reserve Board action boosting its interest rate on loans to member banks from 4 to 4½ per cent—made the surtax package "absolutely imperative," in the opinion of the President.

Christian verified congressional reports of a determined administration drive to get the tax increase enacted by Jan. 1. He did not affirm the surmise of one reporter, framed as a question, that the administration was seizing on the British move and the consequent concern of Congress over defense of the dollar to get the surtax enacted.

Mills said Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler had been in touch with him over the weekend to tell him that the administration had something new to present.

A teenager drinking bout in a Montgomery basement apartment ended in tragedy when a 16-year-old Wallkill youth died of acute alcoholism after drinking a quart of vodka and beer on a dare.

Middletown State Police, who investigated with Orange County Coroner Kenneth Marsh, said the victim of the drinking party was Colin E. Gresham Jr., son of Colin and Ann L. Draper Gresham of Bernhardt Road, Wallkill.

As the result of the investigation four youths were arrested on charges of burglary, involving the alleged theft of two quarts of vodka and some beer. Three of the youths waived hearing before Peace Justice Harold Hulse, Town of Wallkill. They were David Nicholas Matarazzo, 17, of Morrison Heights; John Charles Wilson, 17, Walden and Joseph Nicholas DeLuco, 17, also of Walden. They were released pending grand jury action.

The fourth youth, Cade Drew Strickland, 16, of RD 3, Wallkill, requested a hearing which was scheduled for Nov. 22.

State Police investigation disclosed that Allen Jefferson, an employee at the Crossroads Restaurant, Montgomery, gave the key to his apartment Friday night to one of the four youths. He was unaware that the other three youths had joined his friend.

Sometime after the group entered the apartment at the Scott's Corners, they became involved in a friendly argument and a scuffle followed, police said. During the wrestling one of the group fell against a door leading to an adjoining restaurant supply room. Police said the youths entered the room and took the vodka and beer.

Investigators reported that during the drinking session that followed, Gresham on a dare, drank the full bottle of vodka and some beer. Later he became drowsy and his friends assisted him to a mattress and then they retired.

At about 8:50 a. m. Saturday the youths awoke and found Gresham dead.

Police were notified and launched an investigation. Coroner Marsh was called in. He ordered an autopsy at Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown.

After a report was made to Marsh, he issued a verdict of accidental death and said Gresham died of acute alcoholic intoxication.

After the four youths were arraigned on the burglary charges, they were released in custody of their parents. Troopers said Jefferson, in whose apartment the drinking party took place, was not involved.

Gresham was a student at Wallkill Central High School. He was born in Norfolk, Va., on May 12, 1951.

Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters, Rebecca Fay and Jo Anne; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Draper of Laskar, N. C.

Funeral services were scheduled for 1 p. m. today at the Millsap Funeral Home, 22 Bank Street, Walden. Burial was in the Wallkill Valley Cemetery. The Rev. Jansen Dederick officiated.

Jordan Claims 2 Kills

Israeli Jets on the Attack

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli jet fighter-bombers attacked Jordanian positions on the east bank of the Jordan River today for the first time since the Arab-Israeli war in June.

Jordan claimed two Israeli planes were shot down and said the pilot of the first one bailed out and was killed. It did not say how.

Israel admitted the loss of one of its French Mysteres and said the pilot bailed out over Jordanian territory.

The Israeli Army also announced that one Israeli was killed and one wounded by Jordanian shelling. It claimed six Jordanian tanks and one armored car destroyed.

Amman Radio said the Jordanians lost only one military vehicle and there were no casualties to Jordanian personnel. It claimed Israeli tanks and other equipment were set ablaze, two Israeli gun positions were destroyed and most of their personnel were killed.

Amman said King Hussein, now in London, was in constant telephone contact with his brother, Crown Prince Hassan, until the fighting stopped, and that Jordan's delegate to the United Nations had been instructed to inform U.N. members of the battle.

The Israelis said their air force went into action after the Jordanians moved tanks up to the cease-fire line and opened fire across the river on a wide area west of Amman, the Jordanian capital.

The Jordanians charged that the Israelis began the attack with artillery and tank fire, then called in their planes when Jordanian positions returned the fire.

It was the fourth consecutive day of firing across the river.

An Israeli spokesman said Jordanian tanks opened fire at 8:45 a. m. (1:45 a. m. EST) a few miles south of the UN Truce Bridge, at a point where Israeli and Jordanian gunners duelled for two hours Monday.

"Israeli forces returned the fire to silence the source of the enemy shelling," the spokesman continued. "The enemy fire did not stop, so the air force was called in."

The Jordanian communique said the Israeli attack was concentrated in the area of the Al-Jolani Bridge, 10 miles north of the Dead Sea and about 260 miles west of Amman, the Jordanian capital.

The Israeli spokesman said the firing stopped at 10:55 a. m. (3:55 a. m. EST) and "the sector is quiet for the moment."

A Jordanian communique said the Israelis "widened air strikes" at 11:25 a. m. and fighting did not stop until noon.

"Some enemy jet fighters are flying over some of our area at very high level," a broadcast from Amman said.

Meanwhile, despite a new Soviet delay, informed sources said today that the British Middle East peace plan is assured of approval when the Security Council meets again Wednesday afternoon.

VASSAR DECLINES—Vassar College at Poughkeepsie has decided to remain "mistress of her own house." In simultaneous and separate announcements yesterday, the women's institution and Yale University ended a year-long study of possible affiliation with a decision to go their separate ways. At the same time Vassar announced plans for an expansion program that would include setting up a coordinate men's college on the Vassar campus. Yale's president, Kingman Brewster, said his school would "explore the possibility" of founding its own women's college at its New Haven, Conn. location. Brewster said financial support would be the key to the Yale timetable for setting up a women's college. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Council Possibles Tonight

Downtown City Hall, Mayor's Pay

By HUGH REYNOLDS
A future city hall, a pay raise for its chief occupant and a million dollars in bonds might be up for decision at tonight's meeting of the Kingston Common Council.

The Mayor's Committee for a new City Hall Downtown, Joseph Epstein (D-Fifth Ward) chairman, is finally ready to report to the council. The committee will recommend the spending of $7,500 for city hall planning. Money will be divided between a study of the feasibility of reconstructing the old city hall or building a new one.

Council members will also decide on whether to give Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan a $5,000 raise to $15,000. The mayor has insisted that the city must pay at least $15,000 to its chief executive in order to attract qualified men to the job. Garraghan had originally proposed a salary in the neighborhood of $17,500.

Another salary raise will be proposed but not considered. City Judge Hubert A. Richter is presently paid $6,000 per year. The proposal will hike his salary to $7,000 per annum, however, the proposal has not been on the desks of the councilmen for 10 days and will be acted on at the December meeting. City charter requires that all propositions must be in the hands of the council for 10 days before being voted upon.

A proposal is also on file for work on a secondary sewage treatment plant for the city to begin March 1 of next year. It is expected that if work does begin on the plant March 1 it would be finished by Dec. 1, 1969. This is an estimated $450,000 project.

Councilmen will receive a resolution suspending residency requirements for city policemen. At present, city policemen must reside within the corporate limits of Kingston when appointed. The resolution asks that a man be only a resident of Ulster County in order to serve on the force. It reaffirms the residency requirement.

Fire Erupts Under Flooring

A fire erupted early this morning under the flooring of a two-story stucco covered dwelling located at 86 Johnston Avenue, firemen noted.

The house, owned by Thomas R. Lyle of 432 Albany Avenue, is presently unoccupied. Firemen answered the alarm at 6:49 a. m., firemen reported.

Engines were summoned when smoke was seen under the house. Firemen said they had to remove most of the flooring to reach the blaze. Damage was listed as moderate, firemen disclosed.

The fire's origin has not been determined, but a spokesman said it was not incendiary.

Attorney General For-A-Day Essay Contest Slated

The youthful runaway—who is to blame? Do protest demonstrations achieve anything worthwhile? Do Academic grades actually portray student ability? Should students be allowed to use regent scholarship funds for any college of their choice? These topics of wide current interest will be discussed by young people representing more than 10,000 New York State high school students as participants in the twelfth annual "Attorney General For-A-Day" essay contest sponsored by the New York State Department of Law.

The enthusiastic response to the contest in previous years points out clearly that young people are eager to make known their views on topics of current, local, state, national and international concern. Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz said in announcing the contest. He commended educators in private, parochial and public high schools for their work in alerting students to public affairs.

The first place winner will "serve" as "Attorney General For-A-Day" and will receive a $25 United States Savings Bond. Second, third, fourth and fifth place winners will serve for a day as solicitor general, executive assistant attorney general and first and second assistant attorneys general respectively. The "swearing in" ceremonies will be held in the Attorney General's office in the State Capitol in Albany, and will be followed by a luncheon for the winners.

"By actually taking office and performing the official duties of the Attorney General and his chief aides, these students will gain first hand knowledge of the duties and operation of the Department of Law in serving the people of the State of New York," Attorney General Lefkowitz said.

Entries, postmarked no later than March 15, 1968, must contain no more than 300 words. Essays should be sent to: Charles W. Stickle, Executive Assistant to the Attorney General, Department of Law, 80 Centre Street, New York, New York 10013.

No Cause in Negligence Case

A verdict of no cause of action was returned by a jury which heard the testimony in a negligence action brought by Annette Vona and another against New Paltz Central School District, Robert Doughette and Rizzo Ford of Highland. Mrs. Vona of Highland was a student driver in a car of the New Paltz school Dec. 11, 1965, when the car being operated by another student driver was involved in a skidding accident and turned over. Paul and Edward Rosen appeared for plaintiff and Francis X. Tucker of Cook, Tucker and Dwyer appeared for defendants.

The action was tried before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg. At the conclusion of plaintiff's case Justice Herzberg granted a motion of defendant to dismiss an action of negligence brought by Frank Federman against Acker Bus Lines, Inc., to recover for injuries which his daughter received when she broke an ankle while alighting from a school bus Feb. 5, 1964 at the Lake Katrine school. Joseph Avis appeared for plaintiff and Donald H. McCann appeared for defendant. McCann moved on the grounds plaintiff had not proved a cause of action.

Union Service Set Nov. 22 at Trinity Church

The annual Thanksgiving service of Trinity Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will be held this year at Trinity Church, Spring and Hone Streets at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday, Thanksgiving Eve.

This joint venture which continues a tradition of some 30 years will be conducted by the pastor of Redeemer, the Rev. Dr. David C. Gaise, assisted by the vicar, Russell Anderson. Since the retirement of the Rev. John H. Frenssen last month, Trinity Church is without a pastor, but anticipates the arrival of a replacement in the near future. Dr. Gaise will also give the Thanksgiving meditation.

Dr. John Park, organist and choir director of the host church has chosen Nun Danket Alle Gott by Karg-Elert as a festival prelude and as the Thanksgiving anthem Let All Things Now Living, based on a Welch Hymn tune.

The congregation will have the opportunity to sing well-loved Thanksgiving hymns and make their personal expressions of gratitude to God.

The service is open to all who wish to give thanks.

Fire Erupts Under Flooring

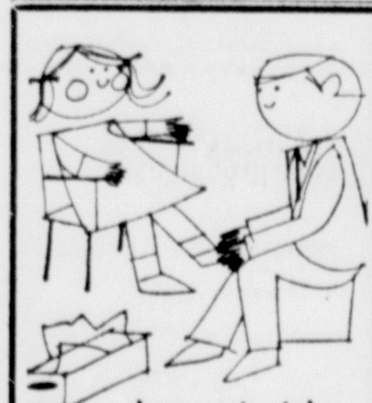

A fire erupted early this morning under the flooring of a two-story stucco covered dwelling located at 86 Johnston Avenue, firemen noted.

The house, owned by Thomas R. Lyle of 432 Albany Avenue, is presently unoccupied. Firemen answered the alarm at 6:49 a. m., firemen reported.

Engines were summoned when smoke was seen under the house. Firemen said they had to remove most of the flooring to reach the blaze. Damage was listed as moderate, firemen disclosed.

The fire's origin has not been determined, but a spokesman said it was not incendiary.

Attorney General For-A-Day Essay Contest Slated

The youthful runaway—who is to blame? Do protest demonstrations achieve anything worthwhile? Do Academic grades actually portray student ability?

Should students be allowed to use regent scholarship funds for any college of their choice? These topics of wide current interest will be discussed by young people representing more than 10,000 New York State high school students as participants in the twelfth annual "Attorney General For-A-Day" essay contest sponsored by the New York State Department of Law.

"The enthusiastic response to the contest in previous years points out clearly that young people are eager to make known their views on topics of current, local, state, national and international concern," Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz said in announcing the contest. He commended educators in private, parochial and public high schools for their work in alerting students to public affairs.

The first place winner will "serve" as "Attorney General For-A-Day" and will receive a $25 United States Savings Bond. Second, third, fourth and fifth place winners will serve for a day as solicitor general, executive assistant attorney general and first and second assistant attorneys general respectively. The "swearing in" ceremonies will be held in the Attorney General's office in the State Capitol in Albany, and will be followed by a luncheon for the winners.

"By actually taking office and performing the official duties of the Attorney General and his chief aides, these students will gain first hand knowledge of the duties and operation of the Department of Law in serving the people of the State of New York," Attorney General Lefkowitz said.

Entries, postmarked no later than March 15, 1968, must contain no more than 300 words. Essays should be sent to: Charles W. Strickle, Executive Assistant to the Attorney General, Department of Law, 80 Centre Street, New York, New York 10013.

No Cause in Negligence Case

A verdict of no cause of action was returned by a jury which heard the testimony in a negligence action brought by Annette Vona and another against New Paltz Central School District, Robert Doughette and Rizzo Ford of Highland. Mrs. Vona of Highland was a student driver in a car of the New Paltz school Dec. 11, 1965, when the car being operated by another student driver was involved in a skidding accident and turned over.

Paul and Edward Rosen appeared for plaintiff and Francis X. Tucker of Cook, Tucker and Dwyer appeared for defendants.

The action was tried before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg. At the conclusion of plaintiff's case, Justice Herzberg granted a motion of defendant to dismiss an action of negligence brought by Frank Federighi against Acker Bus Lines, Inc., to recover for injuries which his daughter received when she broke an ankle while alighting from a school bus Feb. 5, 1964 at the Lake Katrine school. Joseph Avis appeared for plaintiff and Donald H. McCann moved on the grounds plaintiff had not proved a cause of action.

Senator Seeks Reform Of Police Gun Law

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican state senator said today he would seek to relax a new law that restricts the right of police officers to use their guns in apprehending criminals.

John R. Dunne of Garden City, Nassau County, said he had prepared a bill to that effect for consideration by the 1968 Legislature.

Dunne pointed out that the state's new penal law, which went into effect on Sept. 1, permits a policeman to use his gun in making an arrest only if he believes a criminal has used "deadly physical force" or is about to employ such force in avoiding arrest.

The senator's bill would change the law back to what it used to be—that is, to permit an officer to use his gun to apprehend a suspect if he has "reasonable cause" to believe a felony had been committed.

The new statute, much-criticized by law enforcement officers, is part of a complete overhaul of the penal law produced by a state study commission.

The commission's chairman, former Assemblyman Richard J. Bartlett of Glens Falls, has said that his unit will propose some modification to meet the objections.

Woodbourne Director Gets Beacon Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Henry A. Murphy, director of the Narcotic Rehabilitation Center at Woodbourne, has been appointed superintendent of Beacon Institute, a part of the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

The appointment was announced Monday by Paul D. McGinnis, state correction commissioner. Murphy is a former superintendent of the Woodbourne Correctional Institute.

Murphy will be succeeded at Woodbourne by James J. Morrow of Beacon, director of the Mid-Hudson Rehabilitation Center. Both appointments are effective Nov. 30.

Senate Votes Millions For Medicare, Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to provide an extra $250 million a year in federal funds to hospitals in payments for their elderly medicare patients and to require states to provide welfare for families with unemployed fathers.

The two provisions were tacked on to the omnibus Social Security bill Monday during the fourth day of Senate floor debate.

The measure remained before senators today as Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield pressed for final Senate action by Wednesday.

Many important amendments remain to be considered.

Republican leaders announced they would make a major effort today to substitute the House version of Social Security cash benefits and taxes for the Senate Finance Committee's proposed schedules.

The committee voted for substantially larger monthly payments than the House as well as for bigger payroll taxes.

A bipartisan group of 15 senators said they plan to push amendments to the welfare sections of the bill designed to remove what they term coercive provisions which might force mothers on welfare to work.

The amendment to boost medicare payments to hospitals, sponsored by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, and adopted by voice vote, would make it possible to reimburse them on a per diem costs basis.

Social Security administration experts said this would boost payments by $250 million a year since it would mean averaging of costs over all classes of patients.

Elderly patients generally cost less than younger ones, they said, and up to now the administration has insisted on limiting reimbursement closely to the costs for the specific old persons involved.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., offered the amendment to require all states to put into effect by mid-1969 programs to provide welfare aid to families with dependent children and jobless fathers. It was adopted 39 to 36.

Under present law states are not required to include unem-played fathers in welfare assistance programs and only 22 do so.

Harris said this meant many fathers were leaving their families just to make them eligible for the Aid to Dependent Children program.

The cost of Harris' amendment was estimated at $60 million in federal funds plus $30 million to $35 million in state money.

Medicaid covers health care for medically indigent persons who are not on welfare but have incomes too low to cover their medical costs. It is separate from medicare.

Senate Votes Millions For Medicare, Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to provide an extra $250 million a year in federal funds to hospitals in payments for their elderly medicare patients and to require states to provide welfare for families with unemployed fathers.

The two provisions were tacked on to the omnibus Social Security bill Monday during the fourth day of Senate floor debate.

The measure remained before senators today as Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield pressed for final Senate action by Wednesday.

Many important amendments remain to be considered.

Republican leaders announced they would make a major effort today to substitute the House version of Social Security cash benefits and taxes for the Senate Finance Committee's proposed schedules.

The committee voted for substantially larger monthly payments than the House as well as for bigger payroll taxes.

A bipartisan group of 15 senators said they plan to push amendments to the welfare sections of the bill designed to remove what they term coercive provisions which might force mothers on welfare to work.

The amendment to boost medicare payments to hospitals, sponsored by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, and adopted by voice vote, would make it possible to reimburse them on a per diem costs basis.

Social Security administration experts said this would boost payments by $250 million a year since it would mean averaging of costs over all classes of patients.

Elderly patients generally cost less than younger ones, they said, and up to now the administration has insisted on limiting reimbursement closely to the costs for the specific old persons involved.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okl., offered the amendment to require all states to put into effect by mid-1969 programs to provide welfare aid to families with dependent children and jobless fathers. It was adopted 39 to 36.

Under present law states are not required to include unemployed fathers in welfare assistance programs and only 22 do so.

Harris said this meant many fathers were leaving their families just to make them eligible for the Aid to Dependent Children program.

The cost of Harris' amendment was estimated at $60 million in federal funds plus $30 million to $35 million in state money.

Medicaid covers health care for medically indigent persons who are not on welfare but have incomes too low to cover their medical costs. It is separate from medicare.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 21, 1967

Silencing Officials

New York police are looking into a possible conspiracy to stir up riots against top federal officials when they leave Washington to speak around the country. They spotted at least nine leftist groups—some of them with Chinese Communist orientation—in the disturbance that surrounded Secretary of State Dean Rusk's address to the Foreign Policy Association in New York.

Forty persons were arrested on charges including interference with the police, disorderly conduct, inciting to riot and weapons law violations. Among them were persons whose purpose was to provoke police, usually where news cameras or television recorders would carry reports of the incident to the country. The cop-baiting thus had for its purpose bringing policemen with flailing nightsticks before the camera when actually they were trying to restore order.

Whatever the number or the orientation of the leftist groups identified in the New York riot, they seem to be achieving one very regrettable objective. President Johnson failed to appear at Syracuse, N. Y., last week for a scheduled address before the National Grange. Another time, he went with scarcely an hour's notice to New York City to address a dinner honoring George Meany, head of the organized labor movement.

His weekend trip across the nation found him appearing only in military installations where his military audiences were disciplined and on Government premises. Before that, there was virtually no advance notice of his appearance before the police chiefs in Kansas City. He even called General William C. Westmoreland and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker from Vietnam for consultations instead of meeting them as is his wont somewhere in the Pacific.

In other words, the President and to a lesser extent his principal foreign adviser, Secretary Rusk, have become pretty much prisoners of the outrageous demonstrators. They are not moving freely to report to the American people for fear of security. A handful of zealots has succeeded in isolating them from the people, who cry for the intelligence only they can give. This is no way to eliminate the confusion about the war. It helps only the enemy, who wants to confuse us into surrender.

City Think Tank

Hundreds of organizations of men with impressive intellectual credentials operate as "think tanks" in this country, to analyze other people's problems. Perhaps the best known is the Rand Corporation, established by the U.S. Air Force in 1946 to analyze defense problems.

The idea is about to be adapted for analyzing urban problems. Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and the presidents of seven universities in the metropolis have announced they will coordinate university research programs related to municipal problems. Independently, a city think tank will be operated by a board of city officials, college professors and business executives to solve problems of city life. Foundations are being asked to furnish an initial sum of $500,000 to establish an Urban Observatory, which would include a Center for Urban Problems Analysis. The first client would be New York City, which would contract for given problems.

While New York's problems would get preferential treatment, the solutions would benefit many cities. For instance, a study of how much death and destruction a fire in a small geographic area might do, would depend on age, size and construction of the buildings, the density, age and distribution of families in the area and the response time, nature and number of fire-fighting apparatus. The results would give any city basic information on which to make its own conclusions.

A think tank could help any city in solving its problems in the complex society of today. Since few would have the means or the manpower, the formation of a think tank in the nation's biggest city should be helpful to all. Urban problems vary largely in size, not in character.

Rejecting modern court facilities, Judge Mark McGarry of Clearwater, Fla., defined judicial surroundings in a manner that should exalt judicial proceedings. He said: "If the law isn't cloaked with the majesty of dignity it stands naked, and certainly the arena where the law is put to its test must reflect nothing so much as solemnity, dignity, stability and class." However, awe does not come from the surroundings, but from the man on the bench.

New York is one big wrecked auto yard. Last year, 23,795 cars were abandoned on city streets. That is 66 cars and more left at the curb every day. So many are abandoned, they are a nuisance for the rubbish collectors. Bids are being taken for private firms to remove them as junk. Care must be used so that family cars are not picked up by mistake!

"How Many Simpletons Can You Deliver?"

David Lawrence Says President Should Explain Viet War

WASHINGTON—Not often has a president of the United States expressed his resentment of criticism in such a dramatic way as President Johnson did in his press conference last Friday. For he seems to feel he is being subjected to a "different" type of experience than his predecessors in the White House have encountered. He said:

"There is a difference between constructive dissent and storm-trooper bullying, howling, and taking the law into their own hands."

What Mr. Johnson apparently had in mind were the "demonstrations" being conducted by the extremists who want the United States to pull out of Vietnam no matter what the consequences may be.

But the disorderly tactics didn't originate with the opponents of the Vietnam War. The incitement to violence started in the controversy over "civil rights." Some of the leaders in the movement have made hypocritical speeches advocating a kind of "nonviolence" which in several instances has had the effect of inciting to violence, vandalism, arson and riots.

The White House has issued rhetorical reprimands but hasn't asked Congress to pass new laws. Nor have the law-enforcement agencies of the Federal Government taken advantage of the broad phrases of old laws and used them to quell the interstate activities of the originators of the disorders. Fear that the Negro voters might misunderstand firmness on this issue has presumably led to the vague excuses that the "demonstrations" come under the head of "free speech" and are, therefore, immune from punishment.

Many voters, however, are at loss to understand why a restaurant owner who wants to choose his own customers can be hauled into court and accused of blocking "interstate commerce" while organizers of riots which impair the business life of a community—such as those in Detroit, Newark and other cities—supposedly are not interfering with "interstate commerce."

As for criticisms of his policies in the Vietnam War, Mr. Johnson, at his news conference, gave an impromptu answer which happens to be one of the best definitions of a president's duty that has been uttered in a long time.

"The important thing for every man who occupies this place is to search as best he can to get the right answer—to try to find out what is right, and then do it without regard to polls and without regard to criticism."

There's another way to deal with the same thing with a more pointed difference in it to the political pressures that weigh down a chief executive. It is for a president to announce on Inauguration Day that he will not seek reelection and will do what is best for the country in his four years in office. By Constitutional Amendment, the term could be lengthened to six years but with the right granted to the people to vote a president out of power at the end of four years. Mr. Johnson also had some significant things to say about the attitude of the press on controversial subjects. He declared:

"What I am trying to do is to preserve my right to give the other side. I don't think one side ought to dominate the whole picture."

But the reporters, in seeking news, don't always get an explanation of some things that are obviously troubling the people. Why, for instance, should the impression be conveyed constantly here and around the world that the United States is fighting only the government of North Vietnam when the truth is the Soviet Government is financing the North Vietnamese war effort and supplying planes and weapons to kill American boys. Red China is concurrently an ally of North Vietnam and is responsible for the apprehension which several southeast Asian countries feel as they wholeheartedly support America's effort to repel aggression.

Mr. Johnson would have had a more favorable response throughout the nation, and there would have been less dissent, if the Vietnam War had been forthrightly explained to the American people within the last two years. It can still be done. It's the biggest single reason why the irresponsible dissent to which Mr. Johnson refers has been able to get so much momentum and bring about the silent acquiescence today of millions of persons who still don't understand why American Forces are fighting in a distant land.

LBJ Always Has Stressed China Threat to Asia, U.S.

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Johnson's critics on the war like to say that he keeps changing the administration's argument for U.S. participation in Vietnam.

According to the newest critical comment from dovish Democratic senators and others, the President, Vice President Humphrey, Secretary of State Rusk and other top officials have only in the past month and a half stressed the "national interest" and the danger from Red China as reasons for our presence.

The critics' assertions look curious when set beside the record of administration utterances as it was offered almost from the beginning of our heavy entry into the fighting.

At a television news conference July 28, 1965, wherein the President announced a big war step up, higher draft calls and other moves, he said the war was spurred by Red China, whose goal is conquest of Southeast Asia to "extend the Asiatic dominion of communism."

If we do not help stop it, he foresaw this:

"In each land, the force of independence would be considerably weakened, and an Asia so threatened by Communist domination would certainly imperil the security of the United States itself."

Five months earlier and only a few weeks after we had begun bombing North Vietnam, the White House—answering a criticism of U.S.

actions by U.N. Secretary General U Thant—said:

"We conduct our policies, within our commitments of the rest of the world, in what we consider the best interests of the United States."

Endlessly in the months thereafter, the President, Humphrey, Rusk and Defense Secretary McNamara presented our heightened military activity in Vietnam as part of a broader policy of preserving world freedom.

It is not plausible for the President's critics to suggest that he and his key men were talking about everybody's freedom except our own.

The President's speech in Baltimore on April 7, 1965, is well-remembered as voicing U.S. readiness to negotiate a peace. But he also said:

"Over this war and all Asia is another reality—the deepening shadow of Communist China. The rulers in Hanoi are urged on by Peiping, a regime which . . . is helping the forces of violence in almost every continent."

On May 13 of that year Johnson said in a nationally televised speech that Red China's target was both to dominate all Asia and "to erode and to discredit America's ability to help prevent such Chinese domination."

Rusk, on June 23, said he could not understand Hanoi's aversion to peace talks with the United States since "they, too, fear the ambitions of Communist China in Southeast Asia."

He refrained from high administration sources can be documented again and again through 1965 and thereafter. Yet, when Rusk hit that theme on Oct. 12, 1967, war critics saw the administration "suddenly" depicting Red China as the enemy. Some, like Minnesota's Sen. Eugene McCarthy, even confused Rusk's October utterance with talk of the "yellow peril," a reference to racist slogans used by now-forgotten U.S. superpatriots to stir up fears of "China's hordes" decades ago.

The critics' "yellow peril" gambit quickly fell flat. Unless they choose to plead faulty memory, so should their ill-founded contention that the administration is offering a tricky new rationale for the war. In fact, it is as old as February, 1965.

Drew Pearson Says Westmoreland Says Present Vietnam Force Is Adequate

WASHINGTON—Gen. William Westmoreland told a closed meeting of the House Armed Services Committee that he saw no need at the present time to increase our armed forces in Vietnam, now numbering about 500,000 troops.

He also strongly indicated that this number might be enough to carry us through the war, though he didn't definitely commit himself. Nor would he comment on how soon the war could be brought to a close.

He did, however, say that we could begin a "phaseout" of our mission in Vietnam—meaning a turnover of combat operations on a larger scale to the South Vietnamese—if the effectiveness of South Vietnamese troops continue to improve.

"I can report to you that there has been a steady improvement in the effectiveness of these troops in every way, including morale and discipline," he said. "They are reliable combat soldiers in the majority and we are not having AWOL problems to speak of."

"We have already served notice on Vietnamese leaders regarding these phaseout plans and have told them that they must buckle down and unite their people for this eventuality. We have emphasized that we are not a colonial power, that we can't stay there permanently, and that we intend to start pulling out."

One important factor that could upset phaseout plans, he said, would be if the Russians and Chinese sent in technicians and workmen to replace North Vietnamese now engaged in noncombat chores behind the lines, such as repairing roads, bridges and airfields.

Under questioning by Chairman Mendel Rivers, D-

S.C., a bitter foe of Defense Secretary McNamara, Westmoreland flatly denied that he was having any "problems" with McNamara.

"Our relations have been quite good, in fact," he said. "I'm a military man and realize that the Secretary has to deal with non-military considerations as the civilian head of the Defense Department."

"Are you getting all the men you need?" asked Rivers.

"Yes, I am getting all I need at the present time—all I am asking for," he replied.

Ambassador Kennedy?

Only a few people know it, but at one time President Johnson tried to persuade Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to become Ambassador to South Vietnam.

Bobby toyed with the idea quite seriously but finally rejected the venture into diplomacy.

The idea was challenging, because Sen. Kennedy has long felt more could be done toward peace negotiations with the north; and if he had been in the strategic post of U.S. Ambassador in Saigon, he could have helped to mold South Vietnamese leaders toward a more conciliatory position toward Ho Chi Minh. Most of the South Vietnamese leaders are refugees from North Vietnam and know Ho well.

Bobby was also not unaware of the fact that it was his late brother, the President, who took the most important step in involving the United States in the war by sending approximately 30,000 troops to South Vietnam in the fall of 1961. Previously, Eisenhower had kept only 1,000 to 2,000 American troop advisers in South Vietnam. But President Kennedy, worried over the Bay of Pigs fiasco and his psychological defeat at the Vienna conference with Premier Khrushchev, was looking for a move to build up his own prestige and that of the United States.

So in the late summer of 1961 he sent Gen. Maxwell Taylor and his chief foreign affairs advisor, Walt Rostow, to Saigon to make a survey. Afterward they flew to Baguio, the mountain resort in the Philippines, where they wrote a strong recommendation that the United States intervene on a massive scale. President Kennedy accepted that recommendation.

This was how U.S. intervention in depth first began.

NOTE: Some critics believe part of Johnson's doubts stem from the fact that he has kept Walt Rostow as his No. 1 foreign affairs adviser, a man who wants to prove that his original recommendation, no matter how wrong, was right.

Vive La Difference!

The House was debating an amendment by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., forbidding Job Corps discrimination against women. Remarkably Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio: "I doubt that there has been discrimination because these people are girls. Is the gentleman saying that there has been deliberate discrimination against women simply because they were women?"

Mrs. Green—"Yes." Hays—"Well, I must say that I cannot agree with that. I just do not believe it has happened in that way."

Rep. Hastings Keith, R-Mass.—"This recalls a debate that allegedly occurred in the French parliament, where they were talking about the difference between the males and the females."

Hays—"And someone said, 'Vive la difference?'"

Keith—"Yes."

Hays—"I am for that, also."

Keith—"Merci beaucoup."

Romney Continues to Be Vague on National Issues

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Romney, the onetime auto-maker, is going to have to patch up his old car or build a brand new one if he hopes for a chance among other Republicans racing for the GOP presidential nomination.

The Michigan governor proved he thinks he has a chance by formally announcing his candidacy last week. He was the second Republican to do so. Earlier last week Harold Stassen, who never takes no for an answer, also announced.

But the candidate-image Romney has been presenting incessantly but informally for many months looks a little dilapidated in the public opinion polls. At one time they showed him leading all his party's would-be candidates.

Over the weekend the Gallup poll showed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon leading with 42 per cent, New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller second with 15 per cent, and Romney third with 14 per cent.

This might seem a little discouraging to anyone but Romney for while he has been running around like a man with an 8-cylinder engine, feeling pulses and seeking support, Rockefeller has steadily insisted he doesn't want the nomination.

Romney has put four kinds of nails in his tires: By contradicting himself, his vagueness on national issues, being insufficiently informed on them, and by boners, like saying U. S. officials "brainwashed" him in Vietnam.

The vagueness was conspicuous Saturday when he made his announcement. He had said anything more specific than, "One who aspires to the presidency should be confident he can be useful and capable of providing the needed leadership."

Then Sunday he was questioned by newsmen when he appeared on CBS television's "Face the Nation." He started out saying he thought he could do better than President Johnson in finding a solution to the Vietnamese war.

Tough Time With Newsmen

After that he didn't have an easy time with the newsmen who wanted to find out why he thought so. He was reminded there has been a lot of caustic doubt about his ability to rise and shine in the presidency.

Romney replied that if anyone checked his statements on Vietnam, all the way back, he would find the governor had been consistent except when "I stated frankly . . . that I had changed my mind."

But he hadn't been consistent. Changing his mind and even reversing himself was perhaps the most conspicuous feature of his statements.

He said on Sept. 4 he had changed his mind and has said little since. Sept. 4 was the day he said he had been brainwashed when he visited Vietnam with nine other governors. They refuted his brainwashing charge later.

He got such a bad reaction on this one, since it envisioned an American president who could be brainwashed some day if Romney moved into the White House, that on Sept. 9 he thought it necessary to explain what he meant by brainwashing.

His explanation didn't add much. He said he didn't mean "the Russian type brainwashing." In using that word, he told reporters, he meant the same thing "you mean when you write about the credibility gap, snow jobs, and manipulation of the news."

Different Solution

Sunday he offered a solution for the Vietnamese war, a quite different one from his earlier days when he was all for bombing North Vietnam. This time he said Vietnam should be neutralized.

When pressed to explain how he didn't go beyond saying the neutralizing should be done by some international group. How? He said this group would have to persuade the Vietnamese neutralization was the best thing for them.

Then he explained he is in the process of studying the problem. But, judging from his past performance, if he studies the problem enough he may change his mind.

This was at the root of his Sept. 4 statement about changing his mind on Vietnam. At that time he said the change came after he had delved into a history of that country.

This could be interpreted as meaning he had never been well informed—until he read a history—on a problem he had been talking about with great positiveness for a couple of years.

Cuts in Foreign Self-Help Is Pound Foolish U.S. Move

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Most people would agree it is better to prevent Vietnam by peaceful steps taken in advance—when this is possible.

Yet we have today the curious spectacle of the House of Representatives making large cuts in programs which seriously affect our nonmilitary air operations in such countries as Laos, Thailand, South Korea, the Congo, Dominican Republic and our regional aid programs in wide areas of the African continent.

These are potential serious trouble spots which could, if things deteriorate, lead to an urgent call for U.S. military action of the Vietnam type.

Already, of course, sizable numbers of U.S. troops are in several of these countries.

Take Thailand for example, where the northeast could easily explode into armed conflict of some proportions.

To prevent this explosion, Thailand urgently needs more trained village chiefs and police educated in modern methods. For one thing, the government wants to eliminate police brutality and train their patrolmen to win the confidence and friendship of the law-abiding people of the hamlets. The harassed police also need modern equipment. Sometimes the insurgents attacking a police station are better armed and possess more modern weapons than the police they're attacking.

A sizable aid cut of the type voted by the House of Representatives would reduce programs such as this.

The United States, in order to prevent continual dependency, has developed a number of programs in the Far East which enable the people to do more for themselves—especially in the field of agriculture.

These programs involve, for example, the introduction of better strains of rice and the establishment of local fertilizer plants. The proposed aid cuts would lead to a pullback on these programs. This is especially serious at this time, when the success of pilot projects has convinced farmers in some wide areas that a change in their agricultural methods would, indeed, bring progress.

In a number of African countries, the United States has convinced the governments they can and should do more for themselves. They have, under U.S. prodding, agreed to accept regional projects in which aid is dependent on these countries helping each other. This shift took a lot of doing. The aid cutback could emasculate most of these programs.

The United States cannot set the whole free world on its feet. But by seed programs here and there in danger spots, it can prevent more future Vietnams.

The first client would be New York City, which would contract for given problems.

While New York's problems would get preferential treatment, the solutions would benefit many cities. For instance, a study of how much death and destruction a fire in a small geographic area might do, would depend on age, size and construction of the buildings, the density, age and distribution of families in the area and the response time, nature and number of fire-fighting apparatus. The results would give any city basic information on which to make its own conclusions.

A think tank could help any city in solving its problems in the complex society of today. Since few would have the means or the manpower, the formation of a think tank in the nation's biggest city should be helpful to all. Urban problems vary largely in size, not in character.

Rejecting modern court facilities, Judge Mark McGarry of Clearwater, Fla., defined judicial surroundings in a manner that should exalt judicial proceedings. He said: "If the law isn't cloaked with the majesty of dignity it stands naked, and certainly the arena where the law is put to its test must reflect nothing so much as solemnity, dignity, stability and class." However, awe does not come from the surroundings, but from the man on the bench.

New York is one big wrecked auto yard. Last year, 23,795 cars were abandoned on city streets. That is 66 cars and more left at the curb every day. So many are abandoned, they are a nuisance for the rubbish collectors. Bids are being taken for private firms to remove them as junk. Care must be used so that family cars are not picked up by mistake!

"How Many Simpletons Can You Deliver?"

David Lawrence Says

President Should Explain Viet War

WASHINGTON—Not often has a president of the United States expressed his resentment of criticism in such a dramatic way as President Johnson did in his press conference last Friday. For he seems to feel he is being subjected to a "different" type of experience than his predecessors in the White House have encountered. He said:

"There is a difference between constructive dissent and storm-trooper bullying, howling, and taking the law into their own hands. What Mr. Johnson apparently had in mind were the 'demonstrations' being conducted by the extremists who want the United States to pull out of Vietnam no matter what the consequences may be.

But the disorderly tactics didn't originate with the opponents of the Vietnam War. The incitement to violence started in the controversy over 'civil rights.' Some of the leaders in the movement have made hypocritical speeches advocating a kind of 'nonviolence' which in several instances has had the effect of inciting to violence, vandalism, arson and riots.

The White House has issued rhetorical repudiations, but hasn't asked Congress to pass new laws. Nor have the law-enforcement agencies of the Federal Government taken advantage of the broad phrases of old laws and used them to quell the interstate activities of the originators of the disorders. Fear that the Negro voters might misunderstand firmly on this issue has presumably led to the vague excuses that the 'demonstrations' come under the head of 'free speech' and are, therefore, immune from punishment. Many voters, however, are at loss to understand why a restaurant owner who wants to choose his own customers can be hauled into court and accused of blocking 'interstate commerce' while organizers of riots which impair the business life of a community—such as those in Detroit, Newark and other cities—supposedly are not interfering with 'interstate commerce.'

As for criticisms of his policies in the Vietnam War, Mr. Johnson, at his news conference, gave an impromptu answer which happens to be one of the best definitions of a president's duty that has been uttered in a long time. He said:

"The important thing for every man who occupies this place is to search as best he can to get the right answer—to try to find out what is right, and then do it without regard to polls and without regard to criticism."

There's another way to deal with the same thing with a more pointed difference in it to the political pressures that weigh down a chief executive. It is for a president to announce on Inauguration Day that he will not seek re-election and will do what is best for the country in his four years in office. By Constitutional Amendment, the term could be lengthened to six years but with the right granted to the people to vote a president out of power at the end of four years. Mr. Johnson also had some significant things to say about the attitude of the press on controversial subjects. He declared:

"What I am trying to do is to preserve my right to give the other side. I don't think one side ought to dominate the whole picture."

But the reporters, in seeking news, don't always get an explanation of some things that are obviously troubling the people. Why, for instance, should the impression be conveyed constantly here and around the world that the United States is fighting only the government of North Vietnam, when the truth is the Soviet Government is financing the North Vietnamese war effort and supplying planes and weapons to kill American boys. Red China is concurrently an ally of North Vietnam and is responsible for the apprehension which several southeast Asian countries feel as they wholeheartedly support America's effort to repel aggression.

Mr. Johnson would have had a more favorable response throughout the nation, and there would have been less dissent, if the Vietnam War had been forthrightly explained to the American people within the last two years. It can still be done. It's the biggest single reason why the irresponsible dissent to which Mr. Johnson refers has been able to get so much momentum and bring about the silent acquiescence today of millions of persons who still don't understand why American Forces are fighting in a distant land.

This might seem a little discouraging to anyone but Romney for while he has been running around like a man with an 8-cylinder engine, feeling pulses and seeking support, Rockefeller has steadily insisted he doesn't want the nomination. Romney has put four kinds of nails in his tires: By contradicting himself, his vagueness on national issues, being insufficiently informed on them, and by boners, like

"Over this war and all Asia is another reality—the deepening shadow of Communist China. The rulers in Hanoi are urged on by Peiping, a regime which . . . is helping the forces of violence in almost every continent."

On May 13 of that year Johnson said in a nationally televised speech that Red China's target was both to dominate all Asia and to erode and to discredit America's ability to help prevent such Chinese domination."

Rusk, on June 23, said he could not understand Hanoi's aversion to peace talks with the United States since "they, too, fear the ambitions of Communist China in Southeast Asia."

This refrain from high administration sources can be documented again and again through 1965 and thereafter. Yet when Rusk hit that theme on Oct. 12, 1967, war critics saw the administration "suddenly" depicting Red China as the enemy. Some, like Minnesota's Sen. Eugene McCarthy, even confused Rusk's October utterance with talk of the "yellow peril," a reference to racist slogans used by now-forgotten U.S. superpatriots to stir up fears of "China's hordes" decades ago.

The critics' "yellow peril" gambit quickly fell flat. Unless they choose to plead faulty memory, so should their ill-founded contention that the administration is offering a tricky new rationale for the war. In fact, it is as old as February, 1965.

Drew Pearson Says Westmoreland Says Present Vietnam Force Is Adequate

WASHINGTON—Gen. William Westmoreland told a closed meeting of the House Armed Services Committee that he saw no need at the present time to increase our armed forces in Vietnam, now numbering about 500,000 troops.

He also strongly indicated that this number might be enough to carry us through the war, though he didn't definitely commit himself. Nor would he comment on how soon the war could be brought to a close.

He did, however, say that we could begin a "phaseout" of our mission in Vietnam—meaning a turnover of combat operations on a larger scale to the South Vietnamese—if the effectiveness of South Vietnamese troops continue to improve.

"I can report to you that there has been a steady improvement in the effectiveness of these troops in every way, including morale and discipline," he said. "They are reliable combat soldiers in the majority and we are not having AWOL problems to speak of."

"We have already served notice on Vietnamese leaders regarding these phaseout plans and have told them that they must buckle down and unite their people for this eventuality. We have emphasized that we are not a colonial power, that we can't stay there permanently, and that we intend to start pulling out."

One important factor that could upset phaseout plans, he said, would be if the Russians and Chinese sent in technicians and workmen to replace North Vietnamese now engaged in noncombat chores behind the lines, such as repairing roads, bridges and airfields.

Under questioning by Chairman Mendel Rivers, D-

S.C., a bitter foe of Defense Secretary McNamara, Westmoreland flatly denied that he was having any "problems" with McNamara.

"Our relations have been quite good, in fact," he said. "I'm a military man and realize that the Secretary has to deal with non-military considerations as the civilian head of the Defense Department."

"Are you getting all the men you need?" asked Rivers. "Yes, I am getting all I need at the present time—all I am asking for," he replied.

Ambassador Kennedy? Only a few people know it, but at one time President Johnson tried to persuade Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to become Ambassador to South Vietnam.

Bobby toyed with the idea quite seriously but finally rejected the venture into diplomacy.

The idea was challenging, because Sen. Kennedy has long felt more could be done toward peace negotiations with the north; and if he had been in the strategic post of U.S. Ambassador in Saigon, he could have helped to mold South Vietnamese leaders toward a more conciliatory position toward Ho Chi Minh. Most of the South Vietnamese leaders are refugees from North Vietnam and know Ho well.

Bobby was also not unaware of the fact that it was his late brother, the President, who took the most important step in involving the United States in the war by sending approximately 30,000 troops to South Vietnam in the fall of 1961. Previously, Eisenhower had kept only 1,000 to 2,000 American troop advisers in South Vietnam. But President Kennedy, worried over the Bay of Pigs fiasco and his psychological defeat at the Vienna conference with Premier Khrushchev, was looking for a move to build up his own prestige and that of the United States.

So in the late summer of 1961 he sent Gen. Maxwell Taylor and his chief foreign affairs advisor, Walt Rostow, to Saigon to make a survey. Afterward they flew to Baguio, the mountain resort in the Philippines, where they wrote a strong recommendation that the United States intervene on a massive scale. President Kennedy accepted that recommendation.

This was how U.S. intervention in depth first began. NOTE—Some critics believe part of Johnson's troubles stem from the fact that he has kept Walt Rostow as his No. 1 foreign affairs adviser, a man who wants to prove that his original recommendation, no matter how wrong, was right.

Vive La Difference! The House was debating an amendment by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., forbidding Job Corps discrimination against women. Remarkably Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio:

"I doubt that there has been discrimination because these people are girls. Is the gentleman saying that there has been deliberate discrimination against women simply because they were women?"

Mrs. Green—"Yes." Hays—"Well, I must say that I cannot agree with that. I just do not believe it has happened in that way."

Rep. Hastings Keith, R-Mass.—"This recalls a debate that allegedly occurred in the French parliament, where they were talking about the difference between the males and the females."

Hays—"And someone said, 'Vive la difference?'"

Keith—"Yes." Hays—"I am for that, also." Keith—"Merci beaucoup."

The World Today

Romney Continues to Be Vague on National Issues

By JAMES MARLOW AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Romney, the onetime auto-maker, is going to have to patch up his old car or build a brand new one if he hopes for a chance among other Republicans racing for the GOP presidential nomination.

The Michigan governor proved he thinks he has a chance by formally announcing his candidacy last week. He was the second Republican to do so. Earlier last week Harold Stassen, who never takes no for an answer, also announced.

But the candidate-image Romney has been presenting incessantly but informally for many months looks a little dilapidated in the public opinion polls. At one time they showed him leading all his party's would-be candidates.

Over the weekend the Gallup poll showed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon leading with 42 per cent, New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller second with 15 per cent, and Romney third with 14 per cent.

This might seem a little discouraging to anyone but Romney for while he has been running around like a man with an 8-cylinder engine, feeling pulses and seeking support, Rockefeller has steadily insisted he doesn't want the nomination.

Romney has put four kinds of nails in his tires: By contradicting himself, his vagueness on national issues, being insufficiently informed on them, and by boners, like saying U. S. officials "brainwashed" him in Vietnam.

The vagueness was conspicuous Saturday when he made his announcement. He hardly said anything more specific than, "One who aspires to the presidency should be confident he can be useful and capable of providing the needed leadership."

Then Sunday he was questioned by newsmen when he appeared on CBS television's "Face the Nation." He started out saying he thought he could do better than President Johnson in finding a solution to the Vietnamese war.

Tough Time With Newsmen After that he didn't have an easy time with the newsmen who wanted to find out why he thought so. He was reminded there has been a lot of caustic doubt about his ability to rise and shine in the presidency.

Romney reacted that if anyone checked his statements on Vietnam, all the way back, he would find the governor had been consistent except when "I stated frankly . . . that I had changed my mind."

But he hadn't been consistent. Changing his mind and even reversing himself was perhaps the most conspicuous feature of his statements.

He said on Sept. 4 he had changed his mind and has said little since. Sept. 4 was the day he said he had been brainwashed when he visited Vietnam with nine other governors. They refuted his brainwashing charge later.

He got such a bad reaction on this one, since it envisioned an American president who could be brainwashed some day if Romney moved into the White House, that on Sept. 9 he thought it necessary to explain what he meant by brainwashing.

His explanation didn't add much. He said he didn't mean "the Russian type brainwashing." In using that word, he told reporters, he meant the same thing "you mean when you write about the credibility gap, snow jobs, and manipulation of the news."

Different Solution Sunday he offered a solution for the Vietnamese war, a quite different one from his earlier days when he was all for bombing North Vietnam. This time he said Vietnam should be neutralized.

When pressed to explain how, he didn't go beyond saying the neutralizing should be done by some international group. How? He said this group would have to persuade the Vietnamese neutralization was the best thing for them.

Then he explained he is in the process of studying the problem. But, judging from his past performance, if he studies the problem enough he may change his mind.

This was at the root of his Sept. 4 statement about changing his mind on Vietnam. At that time he said the change came after he had delved into a history of that country.

This could be interpreted as meaning he had never been well informed—until he read a history—about a problem he had been talking about with great positiveness for a couple of years.

Cuts in Foreign Self-Help Is Pound Foolish U.S. Move

By RAY CROMLEY NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Most people would agree it is better to prevent Vietnam by peaceful steps taken in advance—when this is possible.

Yet we have today the curious spectacle of the House of Representatives making large cuts in programs which seriously affect our nonmilitary air operations in such countries as Laos, Thailand, South Korea, the Congo, Dominican Republic and other regional aid programs in wide areas of the African continent.

These are potential serious trouble spots which could, if things deteriorate, lead to an urgent call for U.S. military action of the Vietnam type.

Already, of course, sizeable numbers of U.S. troops are in several of these countries. Take Thailand for example, where the northeast could easily explode into armed conflict of some proportions.

To prevent this explosion, Thailand urgently needs more trained village chiefs and police educated in modern methods. For one thing, the government wants to eliminate police brutality and train their patrolmen to win the confidence and friendship of the law-abiding people of the hamlets. The harassed police also need modern equipment. Sometimes the insurgents attacking a police station are better armed and possess more modern weapons than the police they're attacking.

A sizable aid cut of the type voted by the House of Representatives would reduce programs such as this.

The United States, in order to prevent continual dependency, has developed a number of programs in the Far East which enable the people to do more for themselves—especially in the field of agriculture.

These programs involve, for example, the introduction of better strains of rice and the establishment of local fertilizer plants. The proposed aid cuts would lead to a pullback on these programs. This is especially serious at this time, when the success of pilot projects has convinced farmers in some wide areas that a change in their agricultural methods would, indeed, bring progress.

In a number of African countries, the United States has convinced the governments they can and should do more for themselves. They have, under U.S. prodding, agreed to accept regional projects in which aid is dependent on these countries helping each other. This shift took a lot of doing. The aid cutback could emasculate most of these programs.

The United States cannot set the whole free world on its feet. But by seed programs here and there in danger spots, it can prevent some future Vietnams.

Area Woman Hurt in Crash

Joanne Jernigan, 26, of 15 Kallina Drive, Saugerties, was injured at 8:40 p. m. Monday when her car went out of control and hit a utility pole off Route 209 about 1 1/2 miles north of Route 213, Town of Marbletown.

Trooper Thomas Searles of the Kingston substation said the woman was treated at Benedictine Hospital for lacerations of the scalp and multiple contusions of the body.

She told Trooper A. J. Searles she was driving south on the highway when bright headlights on an oncoming car obstructed her vision and the car went off the west shoulder and hit the pole.

Presidential Unit Fights Health Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission's call for a major overhaul of the U.S. health care system is expected to spur new federal efforts to hold down rising medical costs.

While top officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare declined comment on specifics, sources said they were delighted by the commission report issued Monday.

"It does give us a tremendous amount of moral support and a great deal of encouragement," an informed source said. "I don't think there's an item in there we would disagree with."

The 15-member commission appointed by President Johnson last May told him: "There is a crisis in American health care. The intuition of the average citizen has foundation in fact."

Average citizens have become aware of the crisis, the commission said, by having to wait for long periods to see a doctor for routine care and then receiving "hurried and sometimes impersonal attention in a limited appointment time..."

And for the next 10 years, the commission forecast, patients are likely to receive even less personal attention. It noted 98 per cent of current medical school graduates go into specialties rather than general practice.

The commission did not make explicit how its recommendations would make more health professionals available for patient needs.

It did recommend, however, that federal grants be used to give medical schools incentives to expand their enrollments. And it called for more federal experimentation in training new types of health personnel such as assistant doctors.

No large outlays of federal money or expansion of federal powers were recommended by the commission, and sources said the administration feels no dismay at this.

124-Day Honeymoon Spent on Mississippi Raft

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Michael and Tanya Styc McCurry have completed a 124 day honeymoon on a raft in which they rode six-foot river swells, were bitten by insects, and were submitted to temperatures ranging from the high 90s to the low 20s.

"It was a rough trip with a lot of glorious times as well as sad times," Tanya said Monday as she stepped off the 12 1/2 foot by 5 foot raft. The trip on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers began July 19 at Great Falls, Mont.

Tanya, 29, a freelance writer originally from Utica, N.Y., said she "found that the scenery along the way was indescribable, a beautiful, unbelievable world, sometimes unrealistic."

"It was rough for a woman, especially when you don't get a chance for a bath but every 10 days or so," she said.

In addition to the insects and temperature extremes, the raft was swamped once and some of their belongings were lost.

She and her husband, Michael, 26, a photographer from Caldwell, Idaho, decided on the trip about three weeks before their wedding.

Would she do it again?

"The same trip? No. But another one like it, yes."

New Soviet Jet Gets Star Billing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sleek Soviet jet liner has star billing at Dulles International Airport as it undergoes a series of tests aimed at clearing the way for nonstop Moscow to New York air service.

The Aeroflot IL62 touched down at Dulles Monday night and in the floodlit, televised confusion, four newsmen got a sneak preview of the inside of the craft from six pretty Soviet stewardesses.

They said they found the air stale—apparently due to a non-operating ventilating system—but otherwise the interior of the plane appeared to measure up to standards of most American passenger jets.

In the terminal, Dmitry I. Petrov, inspector general of Soviet civil aviation, described the visit as "the first step for the beginning of direct communication between Moscow and New York."

The flight, Petrov said, brings the Soviet and American capitals to within 11 hours of each other.

Aeroflot and Pan American Airways have applied to the two governments for clearance to begin the direct air service. The two governments have completed negotiations for opening the two routes except for final operating details.

Pan American is sending a team of technicians to Moscow in December to obtain Soviet clearance on the 707-321B which it plans to use on the route.

No visitors were to have boarded the plane until today but in the confusion of arrival the reporters found their way unbarred and their welcome friendly.

The IL62 is designed to carry up to 186 passengers in all-economy class seating. On Monday's flight it was set up with 90 seats in the rear tourist section and 32 first-class seats forward. The sections were separated by a large galley.

Petrov said the plane was 175

Mrs. Humphrey Delivers Talk On Retardation

Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, chairman of National Retarded Children's Week, made the following statement concerning the problems of mental retardation:

"My involvement with mental retardation began as a personal one. It started nearly seven years ago when Vicky was born. Vicky is our first grandchild. She is a healthy, happy little girl . . . and she is mentally retarded."

"We know the anguish retardation can cause. Everyone loves children. We want to protect and shield them. It's instinctive. Children like Vicky need help more than others; and they can be helped. Special schooling can make a world of difference for them."

"But to open this new world takes time and money and people who really care. Almost everyone knows of some family that has been affected by mental retardation. I hope they will give something of themselves now, during National Retarded Children's Week, to help just one of the six million retarded men, women and children in this country."

"Great strides have been made in schooling, training for employment, diagnosis and research. Much more can be done . . . if enough people care."

The Ulster County Association for Retarded Children, which is a unit member of the Ulster County Community Chest, maintains two training centers in Ulster County for pre-school retarded children. One center is in Kerhonkson and the other is in Kingston. An adult education program for the mentally retarded is sponsored by the local Association. For more information about these programs and other programs, such as Summer Camp for the retarded and support of the institution at Wassaic, phone the office of the Ulster County Association for Retarded children or visit the office of the Association at 1 VanBuren Street in Kingston.

Antiwar Press Grinds Upstate

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—An off-set printing press here is publishing a wide range of pamphlets, books and newspapers that are critical of the American involvement in the Vietnam war.

The Glad Day Press is described as "one of the best equipped antiwar offices in the country," but its officers say they are not competing with commercial printers.

"The work we do wouldn't be done elsewhere," said Charles Shaefer, an employee of the Glad Day Press. "We are filling a gap by making available low-cost printing facilities to groups and individuals who can't afford commercial printing."

"It was a rough trip with a lot of glorious times as well as sad times," Tanya said Monday as she stepped off the 12½ foot by 5 foot raft. The trip on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers began July 19 at Great Falls, Mont.

Tanya, 29, a freelance writer originally from Utica, N.Y., said she "found that the scenery along the way was indescribable, a beautiful, unbelievable world, sometimes unrealistic."

"It was rough for a woman, especially when you don't get a chance for a bath but every 10 days or so," she said.

In addition to the insects and temperature extremes, the raft was swamped once and some of their belongings were lost.

professionals available for patient needs.

It did recommend, however, that federal grants be used to give medical schools incentives to expand their enrollments. And it called for more federal experimentation in training new types of health personnel such as assistant doctors.

No large outlays of federal money or expansion of federal powers were recommended by the commission, and sources said the administration feels no dismay at this.

Average citizens have become aware of the crisis, the commission said, by having to wait for long periods to see a doctor for routine care and then receiving "hurried and sometimes impersonal attention in a limited appointment time."

And for the next 10 years, the commission forecast, patients are likely to receive even less personal attention. It noted 98 per cent of current medical school graduates go into specialties rather than general practice.

The commission did not make explicit how its recommendations would make more health

Estes' Widow

Mrs. Kefauver Dies at 56

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Kefauver, 56, widow of Tennessee Sen. Estes Kefauver and a State Department art adviser, collapsed at a formal Washington dinner and died in a hotel room Monday night.

She had been carried from the Mayflower Hotel's grand ballroom only a short time before President Johnson, a longtime friend of the Kefauvers, arrived to make a dinner speech. A police coroner said her death was due to "heart failure."

Johnson apparently was unaware Mrs. Kefauver had died in a seventh floor room as he paid tribute to the dinner's guest of honor, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

The dinner, attended by more than 500, was an annual award event of the Veterans of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS). Mrs. Kefauver attended with a cousin of her late husband, Malcolm Foosee, a New York attorney.

Foosee said Mrs. Kefauver "didn't seem to be herself" at the dinner.

Foosee and friends carried Mrs. Kefauver to his hotel room after she slumped forward at the banquet table. An ambulance with oxygen and two doctors were summoned, but resuscitation efforts failed.

Mrs. Kefauver, vivacious and red-haired, was once a familiar figure in politics, campaigning for years with her late Tennessee husband, who won five terms in the House, three in the Senate and ran in 1956 as vice presidential candidate on the unsuccessful Democratic ticket with Adlai Stevenson.

Kefauver called her "my secret weapon."

When Kefauver died in 1963 at the age of 60, friends and constituents urged Mrs. Kefauver to run for her husband's unexpired Senate term. She declined.

Expect Blow-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kilauea Volcano on the island of Hawaii has ended its latest eruption, but the U.S. Geological Survey says further outbursts are likely.

Dr. Richard Fiske, a staff member at a geological survey observatory on the rim of Halemaumau Crater at the volcano's summit, in a telephone call to survey offices here, said the mountain remains "quite swollen and we can expect further eruptions."

The volcano erupted for 24 hours starting Nov. 5, then stopped until Nov. 14 when lava fountains again erupted.

The eruptions have not endangered any populated area.

Dr. Funk Dies, Discoverer of Vital Vitamin

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Casimir Funk the biochemist who discovered vitamins and did pioneer research on hormones, diabetes and cancer, is dead at the age of 83.

He died Sunday of cancer at the Albany, N. Y., home of his son, Dr. Ian Funk, a psychiatrist.

His landmark discovery was made known to the world in July, 1912, when he published a paper called "The Etiology of Deficiency Diseases" in the British Journal of State Medicine.

Pigeon Experiment
In the paper he found that substances which he called "vitamines" were essential to life. He coined the word from the Latin "vita" for life and "amine" for chemical compounds containing nitrogen.

He made the discovery while investigating the cause of beriberi, a wasting disease particularly common among people whose diet consisted mainly of polished rice.

In experiments with pigeons he found there was an important nutritional substance in the bran coating that was not in the polished rice itself.

The substance led to the discovery of thiamine or vitamin B1 but the real significance was his finding that a definite chemical material could prevent a disease.

Verdict Withheld In Death of Kingston Man

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson said today he is withholding a formal verdict in the death of James John Polito, 42, of 24 Derrenbacher Street, Kingston, whose body was found in a wooded area north of the Charles Muller property off Moon Haw Road, West Shokan, Monday morning.

Coroner Chipp said an autopsy revealed no immediate cause of death which is still under investigation.

The body was discovered about 9 a. m. by Henry Muller of Centerach, L. I. The coroner was notified by Fire Chief Fox, Town of Olive, and Chipp called Kingston State Police, BCI Investigator Joseph Franke, Sergeant Charles Bundschuh and Trooper Craig Bremer went to the scene.

According to Trooper Thomas Searles, Polito went hunting yesterday morning. He left the Muller home alone at 6 a. m. and walked about a half mile through the woods before he collapsed.

Polito was born in Brooklyn, Sept. 18, 1925, son of James S. and Frances Mary Polito. He was an electrical design engineer and was employed by the Atlantic Design of New Jersey. A veteran of the Korean war, he entered service July 26, 1954, served as a private first class with the 535th Engineer Company and was discharged Dec. 13, 1955.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge 550, B. P. O. Elks. Besides his parents who reside in this city, he is survived by his wife, Irene Weisse Polito; four daughters, Gail, Susanne, Jane and Victoria Polito; two sons, James John Jr. and Daniel Polito, all of Kingston. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Friends may call at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc., 296 Fair Street, Wednesday and Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m., where funeral services will be held Friday at 8:45 a. m., thence to St. Peter's Church where at 9:30 a. m., a high Mass of requiem will be offered. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Youngster Injured

A three-year-old boy was treated yesterday at Kingston Hospital for possible head injuries after he reportedly ran into the rear door of a traveling auto, police said. The child, Andre Boler of 237 Hasbrouck Avenue, allegedly ran into the car's door around 10 a. m. along Livingston Street near Delaware Avenue. Police said the driver of the auto was Francis J. McCloskey of 23 East Chestnut Street. He told authorities the youngster smashed against the rear door while he was driving on Livingston Street.

GOP Discusses Reapportion

The Republican City committee met last night and although no vote of confidence was taken for Chairman John Ray Mayone, city reapportionment was discussed.

Mayone told The Freeman that he would issue a formal statement on his position sometime this week.

City reapportionment and its problems is expected to come before the Common Council at the Dec. 18 meeting. This will be followed by a public hearing.

The procedure then will be to submit the new plan to a State Supreme Court judge in hopes of getting the plan approved.

Last year the city took a census and found that the population had dropped substantially, and the reapportionment plan at that time did not appear to satisfy Supreme Court Judge T. Paul Kane who turned down the formula and a new reapportionment plan was ordered.

The city Republicans also reshaped the recent election results and the landslide victory of Democrat Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan.

It was pointed out that reapportionment will effect the organization of the committee.

The meeting was called a "normal business session."

OIL HEAT Takes You To The Cleaners

(But only to show you a thing or two)

Let's listen to Marie Brombart who operates a cleaning and tailoring establishment at 17 So. Hamilton St., Poughkeepsie, which is heated with oil. Mrs. Brombart, who is an expert seamstress and tailor, knows that during cold weather she and her customers need a comfortable, draftless room for fittings. She, like so many other business people, also knows that oil heat provides that comfort — and she appreciates its cleanliness and dependability.

MARIE BROMBART,
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

"In my business you have to give satisfaction! That means good workmanship, a smile for the customer, and pleasant surroundings. That, plus the home-like comfort of OIL HEAT is what I believe keeps my customers coming back."

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

Thanksgiving Day is basically a religious holiday to voice gratitude to God for His beneficence. . . . When we think about it, it can and should be a day for double duty. . . . It can and should be an opportune time to express thanks to friends and families for kindnesses received from them throughout the year.

Benjamin Franklin wrote about such kindnesses in these words: "I have received much kindness from men to whom I shall never have any opportunity of making the least direct return. And numberless mercies from God, who is infinitely above being benefited by our services. These kindnesses from men I can therefore only return on their fellowmen and I can only show my gratitude for these mercies from God by a readiness to help His other children and my brethren."

We think Franklin's thought is appropriate for all of us to adopt and adapt to our use on this and every Thanksgiving. . . . Don't you? . . .

Verdict Withheld In Death of Kingston Man

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson said today he is withholding a formal verdict in the death of James John Polito, 42, of 24 Derrnabacher Street, Kingston, whose body was found in a wooded area north of the Charles Muller property off Moon Haw Road, West Shokan, Monday morning.

Coroner Chipp said an autopsy revealed no immediate cause of death which is still under investigation.

The body was discovered about 9 a. m. by Henry Muller of Centereach, L. I. The coroner was notified by Fire Chief Fox, Town of Olive, and Chipp called Kingston State Police, BCI Investigator Joseph Franke, Sergeant Charles Bundschuh and Trooper Craig Bremer went to the scene.

According to Trooper Thomas Searles, Polito went hunting yesterday morning. He left the Muller home alone at 6 a. m. and walked about a half mile through the woods before he collapsed.

Polito was born in Brooklyn, Sept. 18, 1925, son of James S. and Frances Mary Polito. He was an electrical design engineer and was employed by the Atlantic Design of New Jersey. A veteran of the Korean war, he entered service July 26, 1954, served as a private first class with the 535th Engineer Company and was discharged Dec. 13, 1955.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge 550, B. P. O. Elks.

Besides his parents who reside in this city, he is survived by his wife, Irene Weisse Polito; four daughters, Gail, Susanne, Jane and Victoria Polito; two sons, James John Jr., and Daniel Polito, all of Kingston. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Friends may call at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc., 296 Fair Street, Wednesday and Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m., where funeral services will be held Friday at 8:45 a. m., thence to St. Peter's Church where at 9:30 a. m., a high Mass of requiem will be offered. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Youngster Injured

A three-year-old boy was treated yesterday at Kingston Hospital for possible head injuries after he reportedly ran into the rear door of a traveling auto, police said. The child, Andre Boler of 237 Hasbrouck Avenue, allegedly ran into the car's door around 10 a. m. along Livingston Street near Delaware Avenue. Police said the driver of the auto was Francis J. McCloskey of 23 East Chestnut Street. He told authorities the youngster smashed against the rear door while he was driving on Livingston Street.

GOP Discusses Reapportion

The Republican City committee met last night and although no vote of confidence was taken for Chairman John Ray Mayone, city reapportionment was discussed.

Mayone told The Freeman that he would issue a formal statement on his position sometime this week.

City reapportionment and its problems is expected to come before the Common Council at the Dec. 18 meeting. This will be followed by a public hearing.

The procedure then will be to submit the new plan to a State Supreme Court judge in hopes of getting the plan approved.

Last year the city took a census and found that the population had dropped substantially, and the reapportionment plan at that time did not appear to satisfy Supreme Court Judge T. Paul Kane who turned down the formula and a new reapportionment plan was ordered.

The city Republicans also reshaped the recent election results and the landslide victory of Democrat Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan.

It was pointed out that reapportionment will effect the organization of the committee.

The meeting was called a "normal business session."

JFK Tribute

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has paid tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy in a statement issued in advance of the fourth anniversary of what he called the "unbelievable tragedy" of Kennedy's assassination Nov. 22, 1963.

"The men and women he inspired, the ideas he stimulated, advanced and manifested in his own life, still strengthen the republic," Johnson said of his predecessor.

"John Kennedy's legacy to his nation is one of courage in adversity; of tolerance in a time of passionate conviction; of steadfastness and loyalty in an hour of trial. Millions of Americans bear that legacy in their hearts today."

OIL HEAT Takes You To The Cleaners

(But only to show you a thing or two)

Let's listen to Marie Brombart who operates a cleaning and tailoring establishment at 17 So. Hamilton St., Poughkeepsie, which is heated with oil. Mrs. Brombart, who is an expert seamstress and tailor, knows that during cold weather she and her customers need a comfortable, draftless room for fittings. She, like so many other business people, also knows that oil heat provides that comfort — and she appreciates its cleanliness and dependability.

MARIE BROMBART,

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRICK

Thanksgiving Day is basically a religious holiday to voice gratitude to God for His beneficence . . . When we think about it, it can and should be a day for double duty . . . It can and should be an opportune time to express thanks to friends and families for kindnesses received from them throughout the year.

Benjamin Franklin wrote about such kindnesses in these words: "I have received much kindness from men to whom I shall never have any opportunity of making the least direct return. And numberless mercies from God, who is infinitely above being benefited by our services. These kindnesses from men I can therefore only return on their fellowmen and I can only show my gratitude for these mercies from God by a readiness to help His other children and my brethren."

We think Franklin's thought is appropriate for all of us to adopt and adapt to our use on this and every Thanksgiving. . . . Don't you? . . .

Deny Aid Payments For Korean Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — A South Korean official denies his country is sending combat troops to South Vietnam to repay massive U.S. economic aid and trade concessions. Ambassador Kim Dong-Jo said South Korea's contribution of troops to the Vietnam war "is not in any sense a mercenary action."

His comments came Monday following publication by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of a story saying South Korea is receiving millions of dollars worth of special aid and trade concessions in return for providing combat troops in the Southeast Asian struggle.

Post-Dispatch Washington correspondent Richard Dudman said the incentives were so generous "the administration has covered them with a security classification in an effort to prevent other allies in Vietnam from learning their terms."

Noting South Korea has some 48,000 troops in Vietnam, Dudman said the advantages offered by the United States were necessary to make it financially possible for the country to provide combat units in that strength.

In other war-related developments:

—The United States officially expressed regret to India for "any casualties that might be caused" by the International Control Commission in Hanoi by American air attacks on the North Vietnamese capital.

The statement followed radio broadcasts from Hanoi that an Indian member of the ICC was killed and another wounded during a U.S. attack last week. The State Department said again it has not confirmed that U.S. aircraft were responsible for the reported casualties.

—Lt. Col. Frank W. Kiel, medical adviser to Army Intelligence, said the need for blood transfusions for Americans in Vietnam has increased from an average 5 pints a week in 1965 to up to 10,000 pints monthly late this year. Kiel spoke to a convention of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

—Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., told newsmen in Columbus, Ohio, "the division of thinking on Vietnam is growing deeper every day." Hatfield has been a persistent critic of President Johnson's war policies.

Patient's Body Found

OVING, N.Y. (AP) — The body of an elderly patient, missing from nearby Willard State Hospital since last Wednesday, was found Monday in a gorge south of the mental institution.

Toastmasters Discuss Varied Topics at Meet

The regular meeting of Kingston Toastmasters was conducted at the Amberlight Restaurant last week.

Fred Kuhnel in his speech entitled Election—Before and After, presented a detailed insight into the recent elections in Ulster County. In his speech on Technology and Society, John Hoffer, the second speaker of the evening, discussed the relationship between the technological revolution of the past ten years and the current sociological problems of the country. The final speaker's presentation was entitled Automobile Insurance, the other side of the coin. In his talk, Howard J. Stauble presented an insight into why premiums are on the rise.

Kingston Toastmasters is a member of Toastmasters International. There are Toastmasters clubs in countries and territories throughout the free world. Since the formation of the first club in 1924, more than one million men have participated in the Toastmaster program of self-expression and self-improvement.

The next regular meeting will be held Thursday, Dec. 7, at 7 p.m. at the Amberlight Restaurant, Route 28. For further information Daniel Sickles may be contacted.

On Contract Issues

Firemen, Board Meet

Kingston's Public Employee Relations Board (Mini-Perb) met last night with representatives of city firemen in what was described as an exploratory meeting to discuss a contract impasse between fire fighters and fire commissioners.

The board, chaired by Andrew Gilday, has as its members Frank Nadspeil and Raymond Armater, Republican alderman from the 11th Ward. Firemen were represented by Robert Golnick, president of Uniformed Fire Fighters Association Local 461.

Offered $300

The firemen had forwarded their 1968 contract requests to the commissioners but the two parties failed to agree.

Firemen asked for a $750 wage increase across the board and were offered $300. They also asked for a 42-hour work week which was granted. They presently work 48 hours. A request for eight paid holidays was turned down as was a request for four weeks paid vacation after 10 years. The clothing allowance request for $150 per year for all uniformed firemen was passed by fire commissioners but two days of leave time for Local 461 officers to attend conventions was not.

The Mini-Perb was created as a result of the Taylor Law which requires such an agency to bargain with city employees.

Local 461 has been approved by the council as the firemen's representatives but the firemen have not accepted the city appointed Mini-Perb as a source of bargaining. Firemen feel they have been placed at disadvantage in negotiations with the city since all negotiators (commissioners and Mini-Perb) are city appointed.

Nothing Decided

Nothing was decided at last night's meeting except that the Mini-Perb will meet with fire commissioners later this week. If the board can not break the impasse between firemen and commissioners then fact-finders will be called in to study the case. After that study mediators will take over. However, according to the Taylor Law, the city has the last word. Also under the law, city employees cannot go on strike.

The Board of Fire Commissioners will hold their regular monthly meeting next Tuesday.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued a strong recovery move early Tuesday, more than wiping out the entire loss taken in Monday's first-hour "scare selling" on news of Britain's devaluation. Trading was heavy.

The Dow Jones industrial average in the first half hour advanced 7.40 to 865.18.

The ticker tape ran three minutes late as traders rushed in to mount a stock market bandwagon which late Monday already scrambled back 10 points from an initial 14 point loss in the Dow.

Control Data jumped 3 points along with Whittaker, Ling Temco Vought and Xerox.

Raytheon and Gulf & Western were up about 2 points each.

Gains of a point or so were made by Fairchild Camera, United Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, Alcoa, Sperry Rand.

Gains outnumbered losses by 4 to 1.

A string of fractional gains was posted by the major steels, autos, rubbers and miscellaneous manufacturers.

On Monday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 3.4 to 207.3.

Tabs Kennedy As Candidate For Presidency

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former congressman, now heading a national organization backing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., for president, says he believes Kennedy will declare his candidacy.

Former Rep. Charles O. Porter of Oregon, co-chairman of the Citizens Committee to Draft Kennedy for President, said Monday he thinks Kennedy "is a candidate at this point but he has not decided when he is going to announce it."

He noted an affidavit withdrawing his name from the Oregon primary.

Porter said he thinks Kennedy and Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., "stand for the same thing," and that no attempt will be made to pit one against the other.

McCarthy has said he thinks the country's voters should be given a chance to register their views on the U.S. role in Vietnam, but he has not said he will run for the Democratic nomination.

Panel Drawn For Sullivan Murder Trial

The jury has been chosen and sworn in Sullivan County Wheeler-Wyler murder trial, taking place in the Sullivan County Court House in Monticello.

The trial began yesterday after the jury had been sworn in.

Both Susan Wheeler, 23, and her former employer, Robert Wyler, 30, have been accused of murdering Robert Caparelli, 31, an ex-convict.

Questions put to prospective jurors by defense attorney Harvey Michelman of New York City indicate that Miss Wheeler and Wyler were lovers and lived together "as man and wife."

The two defendants were scheduled to be married one week after their arrests.

Caparelli's body had been found April 1 near Southwoods Road, Monticello, with bullet wounds in his head and police said that he had been dead for at least three months.

Wyler was the head of a now-defunct music publishing company and had employed Miss Wheeler, described by Michelman as a "talented gospel, Western, and country music singer."

The music firm apparently went out of business after Wyler's arrest and his subsequent inability to operate it further.

Both defendants have been accused of first degree murder which carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Q—I have invested in a very few stocks since I have only a small amount to invest. One of my issues is Hotel Corp. of America which I bought at 5 and is now at 17. Also I own some issues which are a gamble, but that is what I like to do. Can you advise me of any nuclear stocks that look good but are low priced?—S. H.

A—There is nothing wrong about gambling in stocks, provided you can afford to lose and realize fully that what is likely to happen. Your Hotel Corp. stock has gone up in large part because of the takeover of hotel chains by large corporations in the recent past. TWA merged with Hilton International, and ITT proposed similar action with Sheraton Corp. I know of nothing now in the wind as regards Hotel Corp., but I believe the shares are well worth holding. I cannot recommend a low-priced uranium stock which I consider a sound value. There has been a lot of speculative interest in this field and I would look elsewhere for gambling—if that is what you feel impelled to do.

Q—A friend plays the commodity market. He is able to buy commodities on much lower margins and is thus able to realize much bigger gains.—P. A.

A—It is true that you can speculate in commodities on a relatively low margin basis compared with stocks. In some instances you need to put up only $10 and the broker will loan you the other $90 for each $100 of commodities purchased. If the particular commodity rises 10 per cent on price, you will double your own money. Remember, though, that if it declines, your margin may quickly be wiped out and you will either have to sell at a loss or put up more cash. Commodity trading, in my opinion, is strictly for professional traders.

Red Hook Man Named to State Farm Bureau

Delegates from 52 County Farm Bureaus comprising the New York Farm Bureau wound up their 1967 annual meeting at Grossinger's by re-electing William E. Bensley of Springville, Erie County, as president and Robert Greig of Red Hook, Dutchess County, as vice president.

Elected as one of the 12 member State Women's Committee was Mrs. Richard Schoonmaker of Wallkill for District No. 10.

Mrs. Donald Tuthill of West Branch was named state chairman.

On the board of directors from District No. 10, comprising the counties of Columbia, Ulster, Dutchess, Orange and Rockland, is Leonard Gunsch of Newburgh.

Delegates enacted a series of resolutions laying the groundwork for NYFB policy during the farmer's point of view.

Over 500 members of the 14,500 family members of the New York Farm Bureau attended the 1967 annual meeting that was highlighted by an address by Congressman Samuel S. Stratton who reviewed Congressional activities relating to agriculture and urged Farm Bureau to continue working with elected officials in presenting the farmer's point of view.

Sell Dating Records

ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP) — Dating records of coeds in Thomson Dormitory at Winthrop College reportedly are being sold to their Clemson University "steady beaux."

It seems that some "sign-out" cards of Thomson Dorms 300 resident women were stolen recently. The cards show when each girl went out, with whom and when they returned. To a Clemson man who—although some 200 miles away—thinks he is the steady beau of one of the coeds the cards can be valuable.

One worried coed going steady with a Clemson man groaned "Do you realize that my card was nearly full and his name wasn't even on it?"

Sex Education In the Schools

On Tuesday, Nov. 14th, the Meagher Parent Teachers Club had as its guest speakers Mrs. Marion Gregory and Mrs. Henry Millonig, a team representing the Human Growth committee.

Mrs. Gregory explained in detail the proposed course of study for the children in kindergarten through 6th grade. The materials to be used in this course were presented to the parents for their examination. It was pointed out that this course of Human Growth was not as yet being taught in the Kingston Schools Consolidated, but is being proposed as a regular course of study.

Mrs. Millonig and Mrs. Gregory answered numerous questions for the parents. After a discussion period refreshments were served.

REV. DANIEL McGRATH, CSSR—of Mount St. Alphonsus will be guest speaker at St. Ursula Alumnae Association Communion dessert scheduled for Monday, Nov. 27, at 8 p. m. His topic will be "You, in the Changing World of Tomorrow's Church." A discussion period will be held afterwards. Reservations may be made with Mrs. John Bentley, chairman. Members are requested to make checkbooks returns at the short business meeting.

Marilyn J. Hough Exchanges Nuptial Vows With Robert B. Rossler Saturday

Miss Marilyn Joyce Hough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Hough, Krippelbush, became the bride of Robert Brian Rossler, son of Mrs. Ernest Rossler, Rosendale, and the late Ernest Rossler, Saturday, Nov. 18, at Rondout Valley Methodist Church, Stone Ridge.

The Rev. Bruce Carlson, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony, assisted by the Rev. William C. Wood, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Utica, an uncle of the bride, William Dawson, cousin of the bride, Tonawanda, sang traditional wedding selections, assisted at the organ by James Sweeney. Vases of white chrysanthemums and pompons decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sheath style gown of white crepe banding with Venice lace and featuring a detachable Watteau train. Her silk illusion veil was shirred to a bridal crown of lilies of the valley. She carried a formal cascade bouquet of white pompon chrysanthemums, miniature Pittsburgh ivy and white orchid.

Miss Sally Emmerling, Boston, Mass., was maid of honor. She wore a royal blue over pastel blue sheath gown featuring a velvet bodice and crepe skirt. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow with a long tulle veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of pompon chrysanthemums and miniature ivy.

Bridesmaids were Jean Hough,

MRS. ROBERT B. ROSSLER

sister of the bride, Krippelbush; Joyce Wood, cousin of sister of the bridegroom, Rosendale; Paula Jalanti, Rosendale.

Their gowns, headpieces and flowers were styled similarly to that of the honor attendant in purple and orchid, brandy and vanilla, spruce green and Nile green, ruby and pink.

Miss Cheryl Ann Kelder was flower girl. She wore a ruby over pink colored gown in similar styling to the other attendants. She carried a basket of petals adorned with ribbons and streamers and wore a crown of tiny flowers in her hair.

Wayne Temple, Rosendale, was best man. Ushers were James Adams, High Falls, Vincent Fisher and Kenneth Knapp, both of Kingston, and Gordon Bell, Accord.

After the wedding a reception for 140 guests was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

For her wedding trip through the southern states, the bride selected a three-piece gold wool suit with dark brown accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Rondout Valley Central High School, attended Mohawk Valley Community College, and is employed by New York Telephone Company, plant department.

Her husband, a graduate of Rondout Valley Central High school, owns and manages the Rosendale Hardware store. He is a student at State University of New Paltz.

Mr. and Mrs. Rossler will reside in Rosendale.

Twentieth Century Club Hear About Irish

A regular meeting of the Twentieth Century Club was held at the home of Mrs. Adam H. Porter, 134 St. James Street, Kingston.

The president, Miss Frances Osterhoudt, and five members attended the Third District Meet of the Federated Clubs held at Lake Minnewaska.

Chairman of the Christmas Cheer committee is Mrs. Adam H. Porter assisted by Mrs. William J. Soper. The committee is responsible for a contribution to a needy family.

The paper presented was titled, "Ireland, Cradle of American Presidents and Pioneers," authored by Mrs. Adam H. Porter. She noted that "by heritage and birth Ireland's men have been great soldiers, sailors and patriots. Eleven U.S. Presidents have claimed Irish ancestry as well as many famous generals, financiers and bishops. "Among many early American pioneers two of the most famous are Davy Crockett and Sam Houston, both of whom proudly proclaimed their Irish ancestry."

"The scenery of the Lake district is famous world over and is the home of the proud blooded horses trained by devoted owners to race on the world's tracks. Here are also found the weavers of fine linens and the makers of Waterford Glass."

This paper was concluded by the reading of two short poems by Miss Eileen Keefe, sister of the author.

The next meeting will be held on November 27 at the home of Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller, 139 Fairview Avenue, Kingston.

Marilyn J. Hough Exchanges Nuptial Vows With Robert B. Rossler Saturday

Miss Marilyn Joyce Hough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Hough, Kripplebush, became the bride of Robert Brian Rossler, son of Mrs. Ernest Rossler, Rosendale, and the late Ernest Rossler, Saturday, Nov. 18, at Rondout Valley Methodist Church, Stone Ridge.

The Rev. Bruce Carlson, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony, assisted by the Rev. William C. Wood, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Utica, an uncle of the bride. William Dawson, cousin of the bride, Tonawanda, sang traditional wedding selections, assisted at the organ by James Sweeney. Vases of white chrysanthemums and pompons decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sheath style gown of white crepe banded with Venice lace and featuring a detachable Watteau train. Her silk illusion veil was shirred to a bridal crown of lilies of the valley. She carried a formal cascade bouquet of white pompon chrysanthemums, miniature Pittsburgh ivy and white orchid.

Miss Sally Emmerling, Boston, Mass., was maid of honor. She wore a royal blue over pastel blue sheath gown featuring a velvet bodice and crepe skirt. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow with a long tulle veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of pompon chrysanthemums and miniature ivy.

Bridesmaids were Jean Hough,

sister of the bride, Kripplebush; Joyce Wood, cousin of sister of the bridegroom, Rosendale.

dale; Paula Jalanti, Rosendale. Their gowns, headpieces and flowers were styled similarly to that of the honor attendant in purple and orchid, brandy and vanilla, spruce green and Nile green, ruby and pink.

Miss Cheryl Ann Kelder was flower girl. She wore a ruby over pink colored gown in similar styling to the other attendants. She carried a basket of petals adorned with ribbons and streamers and wore a crown of tiny flowers in her hair.

Wayne Temple, Rosendale, was best man. Ushers were James Adams, High Falls, Vincent Fisher and Kenneth Knapp, both of Kingston, and Gordon Bell, Accord.

After the wedding a reception for 140 guests was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

For her wedding trip through the southern states, the bride selected a three-piece gold wool suit with dark brown accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Rondout Valley Central High School, attended Mohawk Valley Community College, and is employed by New York Telephone Company, plant department.

Her husband, a graduate of Rondout Valley Central High school, owns and manages the Rosendale Hardware store. He is a student at State University of New Paltz.

Mr. and Mrs. Rossler will reside in Rosendale.

Twentieth Century Club Hear About Irish

A regular meeting of the Twentieth Century Club was held at the home of Mrs. Adam H. Porter, 134 St. James Street, Kingston.

The president, Miss Frances Osterhout, and five members attended the Third District Meet of the Federated Clubs held at Lake Minnewaska.

Chairman of the Christmas Cheer committee is Mrs. Adam H. Porter assisted by Mrs. William J. Soper. The committee is responsible for a contribution to a needy family.

The paper presented was titled, "Ireland, Cradle of American Presidents and Pioneers," authored by Mrs. Adam H. Porter. She noted that "by heritage and birth Ireland's men have been great soldiers, sailors and patriots. Eleven U.S. Presidents have claimed Irish ancestry as well as many famous generals, financiers and bishops. "Among many early American pioneers two of the most famous are Davy Crockett and Sam Houston, both of whom proudly proclaimed their Irish ancestry."

"The scenery of the Lake district is famous world over and is the home of the proud blooded horses trained by devoted owners to race on the world's tracks. Here are also found the weavers of fine linens and the makers of Waterford Glass."

This paper was concluded by the reading of two short poems by Miss Eileen Keefe, sister of the author.

The next meeting will be held on November 27 at the home of Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller, 139 Fairview Avenue, Kingston.

Question: Are Today's Movies Corrupting Today's Morals?

(Article No. 2)

Are "hot" movies corrupting U. S. morals? If so, should they be censored? Or is censorship itself a corrupting influence? A highly respected writer-reporter tells the story of this angry debate today in the second of a series of revealing articles.

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Movies are barer than ever. "The fact is that people DO make love with their clothes off," says a renowned movie critic. "And movies are getting the picture."

There are other facts of life the movies are getting the picture of, in lusty color:

Sadism, drugs and addicts, vice, infidelity, prostitution and a wide-screen variety of similar sins.

"About the only thing the movies don't recognize now is the 'fallen woman.' The 'fallen woman,' who wound up dead and disgraced, or in jail, is as extinct as the firework that used to light up the sky to signify a man and woman getting together."

Who needs fallen women and fireworks, when even the Catholic Church okayed "Ulysses," a film which showed a nude man (rear view) getting into bed with a woman? The film was given an A-4 rating—morally objectionable for adults, with reservations.

Of course, there are outcries against the trend toward "Frank" themes and camera angles on the country's screens. Thousands of private citizens and dozens of church and civic groups claim outrage at what seems to be the sudden vanishing of censorship—with a resulting sharp explosion of highly un-puritanical material.

angry voices ask, "are nudity, foul language and low-moral themes taking over the film industry?"

The answer is as basic as a movie like "I, a Woman."

● Hollywood (and foreign film makers) want to make money.

● Some 75 per cent of the American movie audience is youth.

● Youth wants realism, a letting-down of barriers, a slice of life—raw.

Hollywood producer Ross Hunter (who recently made the wholesome "Thoroughly Modern Millie") puts it this way: "Moral standards definitely have been relaxed. This has become an 'age of rebellion.' Today's youth wants to live for the moment, and it is living vicariously through 'dirty movies, and similar 'sensationalism' in newspapers and on TV. We owe our young people a great deal, and we must set stricter and higher standards, via self-imposed controls. I do not mean that the truth not be told about life—but is the whole truth with the exceptional, unpleasant minority?"

Another factor enters into the picture. For several years, European movie makers have turned out inexpensive, realistic, semi-nude little films that became "chic" viewing in the art houses of America's big cities. American producers, more strictly censored, were understandably awash with disgust mixed with self-pity.

To save itself economically, and allow more "artistic license," the U. S. film industry's self-administered censorship code underwent an overhaul two years ago—the first letting down of the barriers in 35 years.

Among the taboos that were "modernized" were such items as: the use of "impure love" as a subject for comedy, use of the word abortion, display of nudity in any form, the showing of "lustful embraces," the showing of drugs-taking, and bans on certain theretofore considered obscene words.

The result of the massive updating of censorship laws led to bigger box office.

And also a public uproar that grows louder each day. The public's—and church's—cry for tightened censorship is vaguely unsettling to the consciences of some movie makers. But it is a cry in the wilderness.

The Catholic Church, with its famous National Catholic Office of Motion Pictures, once known as the Legion of Decency, is in the forefront of the fight against too much license in the industry. They are quick to put a "C"—for "Condemned"—rating on what they consider offensive movies especially those that feature nudity.

To NCOMP (as trade paper Variety points out) No nudes is good nudes.

"Nudity in films," explains Rev. Patrick J. Sullivan of NCOMP, "includes exposure of the female breast, derrière and pelvic area, as well as exposure of the male groin and any derriere view clearly pitched to the homosexual audience." It sounds simple, but the ruling has numerous qualifications—as in the case of "Ulysses," where actor Blazes Boylan's unclothed backside was allowed by the Catholics to slide into bed with Molly Bloom.

20th-Century Fox was upset recently when the Catholic office advised that it would have to condemn its new Doris Day comedy, "Caprice," because of a 3½-second sequence showing a featured actress diving into a pool: the force of the dive causes her bikini bottom to slip down a notch, momentarily.

Fox, according to an executive, asked the church film office if it had a double standard on nudity—one for domestic films and one for foreign films such as the British-made "Ulysses."

Fox was told such a standard was not at issue, but that the church office does distinguish between male and female rear-view nudity—in the belief that females and "normal males" are not sexually stimulated by rear-view males, while female believe, from whatever angle, is believed to be stimulating. The movie company snipped its slipped bikini out of the film.

If the Doris Day film had been pointed toward the "youth" market, the incision would hardly have been necessary.

A "C" rating doesn't discourage the youth; it tends, rather, to bring them running. "The students have the attitude," says producer Otto Preminger, whose artistic efforts consistently are condemned by the Catholics, "that nobody is going to tell us what to see and not to see. The influence of this kind of censorship has almost vanished, and the only strength of the Catholic office is the fear the big studios still have of it."

A priest—teaching at Creighton College, a Catholic school—was standing beside Preminger as he spoke. "It's true," the Father concurred. "The whole obscenity legislation is falling like a lead balloon. It is now up to the individual conscience, what to see and read."

Besides, "the moment you put a 'For Adults Only' on a movie, every kid in the block will go see the film," remarks magazine and newspaper critic Judith Crist. "And it's those kids who support movies. The Lutheran church has now decided to pick a recommended 'Movie of the Month,' and Hollywood is most upset. They know a recommendation like that is the kiss of death. The Catholic office has done more to promote bad movies than all the publicity in the world."

Mrs. Crist believes—along with other movie experts on sexpartise—that "we've gone about as far as we can go, and are really on the brink of a reaction. I don't think we're going to suddenly have strict censorship. But we've about reached the point of self-censorship."

This is because "people are getting bored with all the nudity and sex. If I have to see one more scene of all this sighing and panting, I'll scream."

Not that it's offensive: "It's just dull. The nudity in pictures like 'Blow-up' is not obscene, certainly. I think people are beginning to see that perhaps real obscenity is a bullet-ridden body, rather than Hayley Mills' behind. But how much nudity can you take without being utterly bored?"

If audiences one day reach the saturation point on over-exposure of the body, what is to take its place in the movie houses? The trend is clear, and already upon us.

Sadism is a hot item in films these days, led by the fantastically commercial James Bond picture and followed by some pseudo-art westerns ("A Fistful of Dollars," "A Few Dollars More") being made in Europe, in which as many as 40 men, women and children are shot in cold blood in the first hour of the run.

Sexual deviation is very big. Coming up is "When Did You Last See Your Mother?", a major movie about teenage homosexuals; "The Queen" about male transvestites; "The Fox," which stars Sandy Dennis and is about lesbianism. Oh, there are loads of them.

Someone points out that homosexuals are nothing new in movies; in the old days, when Franklin Pangborn mined across the screen, they used to be called sissies. The difference now is that we call a spade a spade... and a rape a rape, and an abortion an abortion, and a fallen woman a heroine. Is it unhealthy?

Depends what you mean by unhealthy. A high cholesterol count is unhealthy—but is a movie unhealthy, if it reflects what is going on in America today?

"I think the dramatization of evil can serve as a moral proppellant," says actor Paul Newman.

"You can more readily force people to examine their own corruption by confronting them with aspects of corruption, with which they can relate, than by presenting them with the Holy Grail..."

MORE FORMS OF ADDRESS FOR CLERGYMEN

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been a choir director for 20 years, and I was interested in your recent column on proper ways to address clergymen.

In addition to those you gave, there are several other forms of address for Protestant ministers in addition to "Mr." A Lutheran minister is usually addressed as "Pastor" (either alone or followed by his last name) by members of that faith. Pastor is Latin for "shepherd," and the idea is that the pastor is a shepherd of souls, so to speak. Also, clergymen of "high-church" Episcopal churches are addressed as "Father" for the same reason as in the Roman Catholic Church, no doubt. — Howard Boquist

Dear Mr. Boquist: Thank you so much for sending me the above information. I am pleased to print it, and this more fully answers the question sent me originally.

Opening Money Gifts in Front of Guests

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is correct, when receiving a gift of money in an envelope, to open it in front of guests? I recently received a housewarming gift from a relative when other guests were present. I accepted the gift, didn't open the envelope, and left it on the refrigerator. When everyone had left I opened the gift. Was this proper? — Mrs. P.

Dear Mrs. P.: In order to show your appreciation for the gift, you should open the envelope when you receive it, and thank the donor. However, it would be in poor taste to show the amount given, so it should be done without displaying the bills or check.

MORE FORMS OF ADDRESS FOR CLERGYMEN

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been a choir director for 20 years, and I was interested in your recent column on proper ways to address clergymen.

In addition to those you gave, there are several other forms of address for Protestant ministers in addition to "Mr." A Lutheran minister is usually addressed as "Pastor" (either alone or followed by his last name) by members of that faith. Pastor is Latin for "shepherd," and the idea is that the pastor is a shepherd of souls, so to speak. Also, clergymen of "high-church" Episcopal churches are addressed as "Father" for the same reason as in the Roman Catholic Church, no doubt. — Howard Boquist

Dear Mr. Boquist: Thank you so much for sending me the above information. I am pleased to print it, and this more fully answers the question sent me originally.

Opening Money Gifts in Front of Guests

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is correct, when receiving a gift of money in an envelope, to open it in front of guests? I recently received a housewarming gift from a relative when other guests were present. I accepted the gift, didn't open the envelope, and left it on the refrigerator. When everyone had left I opened the gift. Was this proper? — Mrs. P.

Dear Mrs. P.: In order to show your appreciation for the gift, you should open the envelope when you receive it, and thank the donor. However, it would be in poor taste to show the amount given, so it should be done without displaying the bills or check.

Helpful Hints

Add Cinnamon
Ever add a suspicion of cinnamon to cream that you are whipping and sweetening? It makes a delicious combination to serve with applesauce.

Stew for Four
To serve four, you'll need at least 1½ pounds of lean boneless meat when making a stew. Use at least two pounds if the bones are left in the meat.

KHS Ski Varsity Opens First Season on January 4

The snow gods willing, Kingston High school's first ski varsity will make its debut on Jan. 4 in a dual meet with Goshen Central at the Davos ski slope in Woodridge, near Ellenville.

First coach of this first officially sanctioned Kingston team is Richard D. Schaefer of Woodstock, well known and highly respected among the skiing fraternity of Ulster county.

Eleven dates have been approved by Athletic Director Willard A. Burke, with the sanction of the Kingston Consolidated Board of Education.

There are six dual meets, a pair of triangular meets with Monticello and Highland Falls, the Section 9 tournament at Belleayre on March 10 and the State Intersectionals at Snow

Ridge at Turin. Five meets are scheduled at Davos, three at Belleayre and two at Holiday Mountain.

List 29 Boys

Twenty nine boys and 13 girls are listed on the original varsity teams. The girls do not have varsity status under New York state public high school regulations and compete against each other on a so-called "play day" basis.

In addition to coaching the varsity, Schaefer will continue to handle the Kingston High School Ski Club which is expected to number a record 300 this year.

The club had only 150 members when Schaefer took it over two years ago and increased to 180 last year. The club is financed by the students who pay an annual membership fee of $5.75, which includes the cost of insurance. The bulk of the money is used for transportation of the students to various ski centers.

It was Schaefer's outstanding work with the Ski Club that led to his appointment as first ski coach at Kingston High.

Under Schaefer, the Kingston High boys and girls "varsities" competed in the Section 9 events with great success. The girls won their division the past two years, while the boys captured the title two years ago.

Coach Is Optimistic

Schaefer is optimistic about 1968 prospects.

"We lost 10 members of last year's varsity by graduation," he said, "but the five returnees and a good crop of newcomers are cause for optimism. Some of the new boys have had considerable skiing experience with

Team Rosters

The 28 members of the boys varsity roster are: Richard Baltz, Frank Barnes, Edwin Basch, Harry Boomhower, William Brinnier, Steven Broskie, Dave Carlson, Richard Cogswell, Joseph Duncan, Bart Dutto, Craig Frost, Fred Halterman, James Hewke, Thomas Jansen, Robert Joyet.

Also Thomas Madden, Robert Miller, Patrick O'Donnell, Jonathan Randel, Bruce Reynolds, Stephen Ryan, Craig Sampson, Robert Schneller, Fred Seeger, Richard Skala, James Steuding, Steven Temple, Derrick Vogt and Harry Wiands.

Jay Colen will serve as team manager, with Ken March, assistant manager.

The girls roster includes Deb Basch, Sarah Goffredi, T. Goffredi, Mary Ann Halterman, Deborah Lambert, Barbara Cardle, Audrey Moss, Murray, Susan O'Donnell, Nancy Potter, Barbara Schneller, Jeanette Tweedy, Sue Weber. Jinne Newman is the team manager.

Skiing is one of two varsity sports instituted by Athletic Director Burke and the Board of Education this year.

The first soccer team at Kingston High played a fall schedule. John Hunter was coach of the squad.

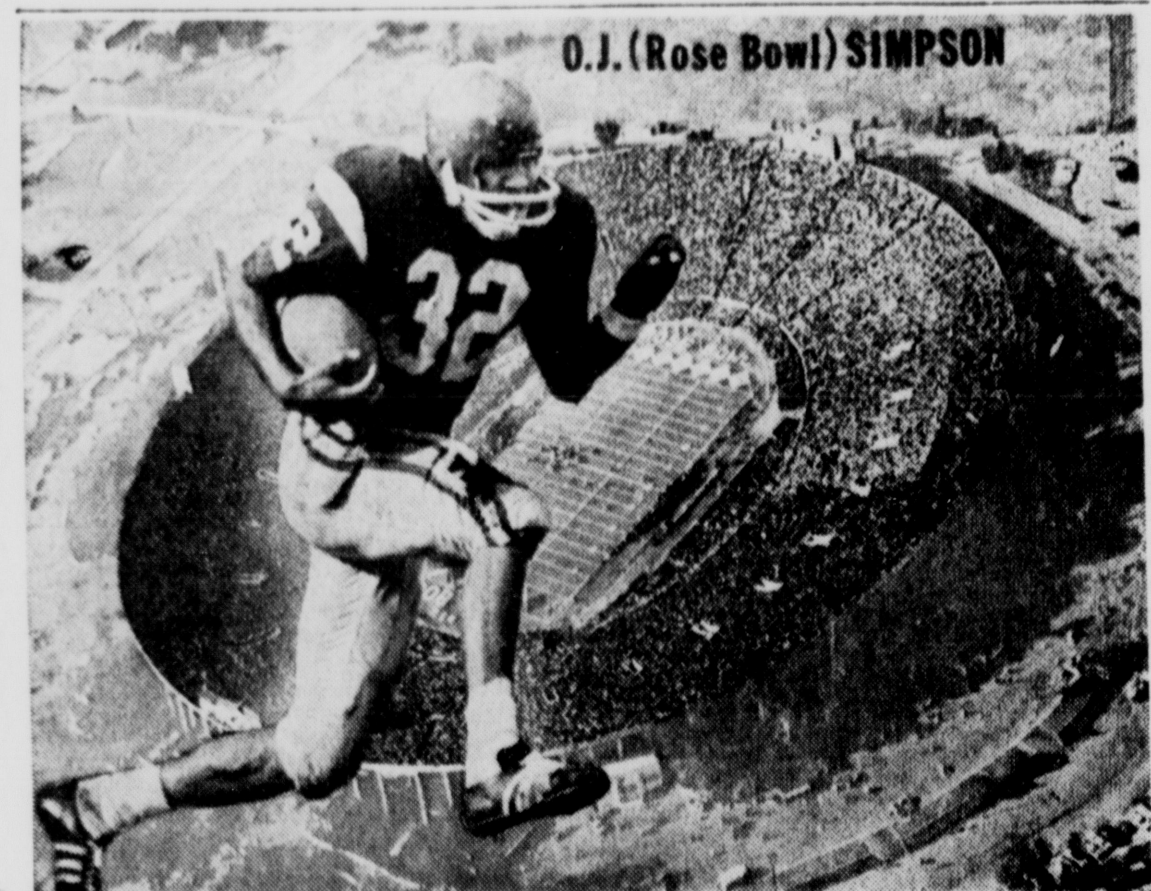

Elevation of skiing and soccer to varsity status gives Kingston High one of the best all-round interscholastic programs in the mid-Hudson area. The Maroon varsity program now includes competition in football, basketball, baseball, track, golf, tennis, swimming, skiing, wrestling and soccer.

Win Over UCLA Restores Trojans to First Place

THE MAN: O. J. (Orange Juice) Simpson, whose late game 64-yard TD dash (plus Rikki Aldridge's point-after) gave Southern California a 21-20 squeaker win over UCLA and a trip to the 1968 Rose Bowl, gallops high over the bowl at Pasadena in this bit of trick photography. UPI TELEPHOTO.

Tennessee Has Chance to Climb In Last Game

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Tennessee gets a last chance to dislodge Southern California from first place in The Associated Press' major-college football poll Saturday and an overwhelming victory by the Volunteers probably couldn't come at a more opportune time.

A decisive triumph by the Volunteers over a relatively weak Kentucky Wildcat team could play a large part in the final balloting for the national championship.

Southern Cal completed its regular campaign by defeating UCLA 21-20 last Saturday. Tennessee has two games remaining, against Kentucky (2-7) Saturday and against Vanderbilt (2-5-1) the following week.

The final poll will be taken after this Saturday's games and announced next Tuesday.

In the latest vote by a national panel of 47 sports writers and broadcasters, USC collected 21 votes for first-place and 432 votes. Tennessee received 15 votes for the top position and 410 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

Kentucky lost its first six games, then beat West Virginia 22-7 and Vanderbilt 12-7 before bowing to Florida 28-12 last Saturday.

Tennessee at 7-1

Tennessee boosted its record to 7-1 the past weekend by downing Mississippi, 20-7. The Vols lost only to UCLA in the season opener for both teams.

Purdue remained a solid third in the latest poll, drawing 380 points, including 90 for nine first-place votes. The Boilermakers (8-1) beat Michigan State 21-7 last weekend.

UCLA, the leader a week ago, changed positions with Southern Cal in slipping to the No. 4 spot. Oklahoma, a 14-10 winner over Kansas, advanced two places to fifth.

Notre Dame, the defending national titleholder, climbed from ninth to sixth after routing Georgia Tech, 36-3. Wyoming is seventh followed in order by Iowa, 201, 206-588; Jack Ferraro 629; Denman Insurance Agency (0)—Bob Shlightner 646.

Championship Five Decimated

Long Season Looms at Marlboro

Coach Ed Sagarese, who guided Marlboro Central to a 17-2 record, including 12 straight wins in the UCLAL last season, has his work cut out for him this time.

Not only have the defending champions lost four starters but they are also playing on a new court, much larger than the small one. It figures to hamper the Dukes for a few games.

Roy McAteer is the only returning starter from last year's team. Mike Pagano, a valuable sixth man moves into a starting role. He and McAteer have been designated as co-captains.

Squad of Shorties
In addition to the overall inexperience of the cagers, only two of them stand over six feet tall Greiner and Marsh are 6-1. However, the Dukes have never had a good big man but their rugged style play has enabled them to win many games in previous seasons.

"We have a lot of speed and a good defense and we hope to capitalize on those strong points," Sagarese said.

"With Richie Faulk, who averaged 25 points a game, no longer with us, we figure to have better balance," the coach added.

Open at Chester

Marlboro will commence its season next Tuesday with a non-league encounter at Chester. The Dukes begin defense of their UCLAL title on Friday, Dec. 1, against Rondout.

Included in the schedule is a Christmas tournament on Dec. 27-29 against Cornwall, Chester and Red Hook.

Sports Briefs

NEW YORK (AP)—Art Duce, a 19-year-old Holy Cross sophomore, won the university division title in the 59th ICAA Cross Country Championships Monday with a record-breaking time of 24 minutes, 44 seconds over the five-mile course at Van Cortlandt Park.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Oakland Seals club of the National Hockey League has been sued for $105,000 on a charge of breach of contract by Rudy Pilous, coach and general manager, before the team shifted from the Western Hockey League to the NHL.

Pilous contended in his suit Monday that he signed a four-year contract May 18, 1966. He said it was terminated June 16, 1967, 13 months later.

ATLANTA (AP)—Pinch hitter Charlie Lau, who hit .200 for the Atlanta Braves last season, has been named manager of the Braves' Class AA farm club at Shreveport, La., in 1968.

A 34-year-old catcher, Lau played for Milwaukee, Detroit, Kansas City and Baltimore before he was acquired by the Braves.

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP)—Dave Stockton and Laurie Hammer Monday fired a three-under-par 69 in the final round for a 273 total and scored a one-stroke victory over Richard Martinez and Bob Lunn in the $15,000 Haig Scotch Golf Championship.

MACAO (AP)—Filipino driver Arsenio Laurel died Sunday when his Lotus 41 crashed into a sea wall and burned during the second lap of the Macao Grand Prix. The 228-mile race was won by Tony Maw of Burma.

BOSTON (AP)—Matchmaker Sam Silverman announced today the signing of unbeaten heavyweight Joe Frazier of Philadelphia for a 10-round boxing bout with former New England champion Marion Connor of Boston Dec. 18 at Boston Garden.

BALIMORE (AP)—Rookie Ray Perkins of the Baltimore Colts was scheduled to undergo surgery today to correct knee damage suffered in Sunday's National Football League game against the Detroit Lions.

Moose Sports
Moose Lodge 970 of Kingston will sponsor a sports meeting Wednesday at 7 p. m. at its headquarters, 82 Prince Street, in Kingston.

Rockland Snaps Senator Streak

Rockland County Community College bowlers bombed their home lanes for a 2938 series Monday to end Ulster County Community College's Mid-Hudson Conference winning streak, 2-1.

The Senators, however, retained first place, a 43-42 point margin over Rockland.

The winners had team sets of 1003 and 1002, as Ed Czeczniak led with 675 off 237, 224, 214 and Tom Fostlin added 223-225-208-636. Joe Mannello paced the Senators on 210-234-613.

THE STRIKES OVER! WE LOST 61 DAYS. WE HAVE A LOT OF CATCHING UP TO DO!

We're going to sell 12 months' worth of Fords in 10 months ...and here are 4 ways we're going to do it!

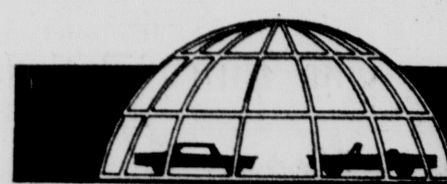

1. LTD and XL priced lower than last year! We did it by changing what comes as standard equipment... and made it even easier to get what you want. Now LTD comes with a bigger V-8-302 cu. in.; XL has a 240-cu. in. Six and a choice of 5 V-8's. Last year you could choose V-8's only. On LTD and XL, 3-speed manual transmission is standard, instead of SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic—now optional. Vinyl roof on 2-door LTD's and Comfort-Stream Ventilation are optional this year. Choose them now only if you want them. And hidden headlamps, strong die-cast grille are all standard for '68.

2. Fastbacks priced the same as hardtops! Take your choice of full-sized or intermediate models, with no extra charge for fastback styling. See the handsome Torino GT fastback with the luxury ride of a 116-in. wheelbase (longer than 38 competing intermediate models). Choice of bucket seats or full-width seats for six.

3. Wagons in three sizes—all available with Ford's two-way Magic Doorgate! Only Ford offers so wide a choice—and only Ford offers its Magic Doorgate with every model. It opens down for cargo—opens out for passengers—and it's only one of the many better ideas that make Ford first in wagon sales.

4. Mustang—the one car on the road you can't mistake for any other! The only one to offer you wall-to-wall carpeting, bucket seats, floor-mounted stick shift, functional hood louvers with turn indicators, and sport steering wheel—all standard. And only Mustang makes it happen at such an economical price! No wonder it's America's favorite sporty car.

KHS Ski Varsity Opens First Season on January 4

The snow gods willing, Kingston High school's first ski varsity will make its debut on Jan. 4 in a dual meet with Goshen Central at the Davos ski slope in Woodridge, near Ellenville.

First coach of this first officially sanctioned Kingston team is Richard D. Schaefer of Woodstock, well known and highly respected among the skiing fraternity of Ulster county.

Eleven dates have been approved by Athletic Director Willard A. Burke, with the sanction of the Kingston Consolidated Board of Education.

There are six dual meets, a pair of triangular meets with Monticello and Highland Falls, the Section 9 tournament at Belleayre on March 10 and the State Intersections at Snow

Ridge at Turin. Five meets are scheduled at Davos, three at Belleayre and two at Holiday Mountain.

List 29 Boys

Twenty-nine boys and 13 girls are listed on the original varsity teams. The girls do not have varsity status under New York state public high school regulations and compete against each other on a so-called "play day" basis.

In addition to coaching the varsity, Schaefer will continue to handle the Kingston High School Ski Club which is expected to number a record 300 this year.

The club had only 150 members when Schaefer took it over two years ago and increased to 180 last year. The club is financed by the students who pay an annual membership fee of $5.75, which includes the cost of insurance. The bulk of the money is used for transportation of the students to various ski centers.

It was Schaefer's outstanding work with the Ski Club that earned him recognition and led to his appointment as first ski coach at Kingston High.

Under Schaefer, the Kingston High boys and girls "varsities" competed in the Section 9 events with great success. The girls won their division the past two years, while the boys captured the title two years ago.

Coach Is Optimistic

Schaefer is optimistic about 1968 prospects.

"We lost 10 members of last year's varsity by graduation," he said, "but the five returnees and a good crop of newcomers are cause for optimism. Some of the new boys have had considerable skiing experience with

Team Rosters

The 28 members of the boys varsity roster are: Richard Baltz, Frank Barnes, Edwin Basch, Harry Boomhower, William Brinnier, Steven Broskie, Dave Carlson, Richard Cogswell, Joseph Duncan, Bart Dutto, Craig Frost, Fred Halterman, James Hewke, Thomas Jansen, Robert Joyet.

Also Thomas Madden, Robert Miller, Patrick O'Donnell, Jonathan Randel, Bruce Reynolds, Stephen Ryan, Craig Sampson, Robert Schneller, Fred Seeger, Richard Skala, James Steuding, Steven Temple, Derrick Vogt and Harry Wiands.

Jay Colen will serve as team manager, with Ken March, assistant manager.

The girls roster includes Deb Basch, Sarah Goffredi, T. Goffredi, Mary Ann Halte, Deborah Lambert, Barbara Cardie, Audrey Moss, Jay Murray, Susan O'Donnell, Nancy Potter, Barbara Schneller, Jeanette Tweedy, Sue Weber. Jinne Newman is the team manager.

Skiing is one of two varsity sports instituted by Athletic Director Burke and the Board of Education this year.

The first soccer team at Kingston High played a fall schedule. John Hunter was coach of the squad.

Elevation of skiing and soccer to varsity status gives Kingston High one of the best all-round interscholastic programs in the mid-Hudson area. The Maroon varsity program now includes competition in football, basketball, baseball, track, golf, tennis, swimming, skiing, wrestling and soccer.

Win Over UCLA Restores Trojans to First Place

THE MAN: O. J. (Orange Juice) Simpson, whose late game 64-yard TD dash (plus Rikiki Aldridge's point-after) gave Southern California a 21-20 squeaker win over UCLA and a trip to the 1968 Rose Bowl, gallops high over the bowl at Pasadena in this bit of trick photography. UPI TELEPHOTO.

Tennessee Has Chance to Climb In Last Game

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Tennessee gets a last chance to dislodge Southern California from first place in The Associated Press' major-college football poll Saturday and an overwhelming victory by the Volunteers probably couldn't come at a more opportune time.

A decisive triumph by the Volunteers over a relatively weak Kentucky Wildcat team could play a large part in the final balloting for the national championship.

Southern Cal completed its regular campaign by defeating UCLA 21-20 last Saturday. Tennessee has two games remaining, against Kentucky (2-7) Saturday and against Vanderbilt (2-5) the following week.

The final poll will be taken after this Saturday's games and announced next Tuesday.

In the latest vote by a national panel of 47 sports writers and broadcasters, USC collected 21 votes for first-place and 432 points for the top position and 44 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

Kentucky lost its first six games, then beat West Virginia 22-7 and Vanderbilt 12-7 before bowing to Florida 28-12 last Saturday.

Tennessee at 7-1

Tennessee boosted its record to 7-1 the past weekend by downing Mississippi, 20-7. The Vols lost only to UCLA in the season opener for both teams.

Purdue remained a solid third in the latest poll, drawing 380 points, including 90 for nine first-place votes. The Boilermakers (8-1) beat Michigan State 21-7 last weekend.

UCLA, the leader a week ago, changed positions with Southern Cal in slipping to the No. 4 spot. Oklahoma, a 14-0 winner over Kansas, advanced two places to fifth.

Notre Dame, the defending national titleholder, climbed from ninth to sixth after routing Georgia Tech, 36-3, Wyoming is seventh followed in order by Oregon State, Alabama and Houston, the latter two teams replacing Indiana and North Carolina State in the rankings.

The Hoosiers were beaten by Minnesota 33-7 while North Carolina State lost to Clemson, 14-6. In addition to Southern California, Wyoming and Oregon State also have completed their regular campaigns.

Season's Finales

Purdue, UCLA, Notre Dame and Houston close out their seasons this weekend. The Boilermakers oppose Indiana, the Bruins take on Syracuse, the Irish meet Miami, Fla. and Houston plays Tulsa.

Oklahoma meets Nebraska this Saturday and ends its Dec. 2 against Oklahoma State. Alabama is idle this Saturday and concludes against Auburn on Dec. 2.

The Top Ten, with first place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis:

1. Sou California (21) 432
2. Tennessee (15) 410
3. Purdue (9) 380
4. UCLA 329
5. Oklahoma (1) 218
6. Notre Dame 181
7. Wyoming (1) 179
8. Oregon State 141
9. Alabama 85
10. Houston 46

Lambert Cup To W. Chester

NEW YORK (AP) — Unde-feated West Chester State was voted today the best college football team in the East in the middle-sized category.

By a unanimous choice of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters, the Pennsylvania team will receive the Lambert Cup, awarded annually for this honor. West Chester beat Clarion 27-7 Saturday for its 10th straight victory.

West Chester, coached by Bob Mitten, succeeds Gettysburg as the Cup winner.

The final standings: 1. West Chester; 2. Temple; 3. Hofstra; 4. Northeastern; 5. Williams; 6. New Hampshire; 7. Springfield; 8. Southern Connecticut; 9. Bucknell; 10. C. W. Post.

Championship Five Decimated

Long Season Looms at Marlboro

Coach Ed Sagarese, who guided Marlboro Central to a 17-2 record, including 12 straight wins in the UCLAL last season, has his work cut out for him this time.

Not only have the defending champions lost four starters but they are also playing on a new court, much larger than the small one. It figures to hamper the Dukes for a few games.

Roy McAteer is the only returning starter from last year's team. Mike Pagano, a valuable sixth man moves into a starting role. He and McAteer have been designated as co-captains.

Squad of Shorties

In addition to the overall inexperience of the cagers, only two of them stand over six feet tall. Greiner and Marsh are 6-1. However, the Dukes have never had a good big man but their rugged style play has enabled them to win many games in previous seasons.

"We have a lot of speed and a good defense and we hope to capitalize on those strong points," Sagarese said. "With Richie Faulk, who averaged 25 points a game, no longer with us, we figure to have better balance," the coach added.

Open at Chester

Marlboro will commence its season next Tuesday with a non-league encounter at Chester. The Dukes begin defense of their UCLAL title on Friday, Dec. 1, against Rondout.

Included in the schedule is a Christmas tournament on Dec. 27-29 against Cornwall, Chester and Red Hook.

NEW YORK (AP) — Art Du-long, a 19-year-old Holy Cross sophomore, won the university division title in the 59th ICA Cross Country Championships Monday with a record-breaking time of 24 minutes, 44 seconds over the five-mile course at Van Cortlandt Park.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Oakland Seals club of the National Hockey League has been sued for $105,000 on a charge of breach of contract by Rudy Pilous, coach and general manager, before the team shifted from the Western Hockey League to the NHL.

Pilous contended in his suit Monday that he signed a four-year contract May 18, 1966. He said it was terminated June 16, 1967, 13 months later.

ATLANTA (AP) — Pinch hitter Charlie Lau, who hit .200 for the Atlanta Braves last season, has been named manager of the Braves' Class AA farm club at Shreveport, La., in 1968.

A 34-year-old catcher, Lau played for Milwaukee, Detroit, Kansas City and Baltimore before he was acquired by the Braves.

Rockland Snaps Senator Streak

Rockland County Community College bowlers bombed their home lanes for a 2938 series Monday to end Ulster County Community College's Mid-Hudson Conference winning streak, 2-1.

The Senators, however, retained first place, a 43-42 point margin over Rockland.

The winners had team sets of 1003 and 1002, as Ed Crezsiak led with 675 off 237, 224, 214 and Tom Fustlin added 223-225-208-656. Joe Mannello paced the Senators on 210-234-613.

UCCC meets third place Queensboro on the road next Wednesday.

Bob Shelightner First Entrant in Pin Classic

Big Bob Shelightner of Port Ewen, one of the finest bowlers in the mid-Hudson area, has filed the first entry for the First Annual Kingston Daily Freeman - Chamber of Commerce Individual All Star Classic.

The tournament opens Sunday, Dec. 3, at Ferraro's Bowl-rama and ends on Dec. 17 with the crowning of the Ulster County match game champion for 1967-68.

Shelightner was first among 43 bowlers to enter the tournament, Jack Ferraro announced. The early entry list reads like a Who's Who of area tenpin bowling.

He posted highest average (202) in the Kingston Bowling Association last season and has averaged 200 or more in seven different leagues.

All-Events Champ

Shelightner has won all-events championships in two different city associations—in Kingston (1966-67) and at Newburgh. He has rolled eleven 700 triples and boasts lifetime highs of 298 and 743. He shared the doubles championship in the KBA tournament last year.

This year, Shelightner is rolling in three leagues.

First qualifying round is scheduled Dec. 3 with 8 games across 16 lanes. A second round is slated Dec. 10, with the head to head match play finals on Dec. 17. A first prize of $100 in cash has been guaranteed for the champion, $50 for the runner-up. Both receive trophies in addition to the cash awards.

Ulster Residents

All entrants must be bonafide residents of Ulster county, according to tournament rules.

Bowlers entered to date besides Shelightner are: Sonny Barnes, Gary Barnes, Bruce Hinkley, Ernie Dousharm, Joe Wilson, George Glaser, Bob Short, Herb Petersen, Jim Amendola, Marty Hammer, Chris Gallo, Jerry Woodvine, Bob Schoeneman, Kildy Corrado.

Thurmond Replaces King as Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—Nate Thurmond has replaced his San Francisco Warrior teammate, Jim King, at the head of the National Basketball Association scoring parade.

The big center, who was fifth the previous week, has scored 450 points for a 22.5 per game average through games of last Sunday, league statistics released today revealed.

King now is second with 437 points and a 21.6 average. Dave Bing of Detroit replaced Zelmo Beatty of St. Louis in third place, with 434 points, and Beatty is fourth with 430.

Hubbell Will Run in Poughkeepsie Race

Craig Hubbell, OCS' senior runner who was unbeaten in regular competition this year, has entered the five mile division of the 56th Annual Poughkeepsie YMCA Thanksgiving Day Road Race. Hubbell has already won the five mile division of the first Kingston YMCA Road Race in impressive fashion.

In addition to the five mile race, there will be a two mile ladies race and a 20 kilometer marathon.

Nick Caswell, of Wappingers Falls, Peter Nelson, Lourdes star, John and Ralph Adams, Arlington star, and Wayne Lazarus of Red Hook, the county champion of Division 2 have also entered the five mile event.

Veronica Whittaker, member of the Poughkeepsie Spiked Shoe Club and now a student at Morgan State in Baltimore, has entered the ladies race.

Outstanding runners who will compete are Bill Warburton, one of the top marathon runners in New England, and Mike O'Hara, the oldest active marathon runner in the country.

O'Hara, now in his middle 50's, has won in Poughkeepsie for many years. He holds the American record for total miles run in competition.

A strong team from the New York Pioneer Club has entered in the 20 Kilometer Eastern Regional Championship. Jim O'Connell, former national marathon champion, will lead the St. Anthony's Boys' Club in this event.

The Rochester Track Club has entered strong teams in both the 5 mile and the 20 kilometer races. The Cortland Track Club has also entered a fine team in the 20 kilometer race. Each of these teams has several champions.

SuperSonics Take 2nd in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two former University of Seattle stars teamed up in the losing seconds, and the chances of the Seattle SuperSonics for a second straight National Basketball Association victory over Detroit were boom.

John Tresvant took a pass from Eddie Miles and scored with 34 seconds left Monday night to give Detroit a 118-114 lead. Miles, who finished with 38 points, than sank two free throws with seven seconds remaining and the Pistons won the game 120-118. Bob Weiss led Seattle with 27.

There was no other NBA action.

In the only American Basketball Association games, Houston beat Kentucky 102-90 and Oakland topped Minnesota 116-110.

Art Becker scored 25 points to lead Houston, which drew away after Kentucky had rallied to within four points early in the fourth quarter. Darrell Carrier scored 21.

LaVen Tart scored 23 of his 25 points in the second half and sparked Oakland past Minnesota. Minnesota was led by Les Hunter with 25.

New Golf Club at Saugerties Sawyerkill Starts New Clubhouse

The new Sawyerkill Country Club at Saugerties, which expects to have nine holes ready for play next spring, has broken ground for its new clubhouse.

Attorney Morris Rosenblum, president of Canoe Hill, Inc. of Saugerties, the corporation building the golf course and country club, said the clubhouse would be 80 feet by 138.

Rosenblum said the clubhouse would have facilities for a pro shop, lounge, two dining rooms, one open to the public, the other for private use of members.

There will be locker facilities for 179 male members and 90 for women.

To Play at Par 37

The unique golf course, located on what is known as the former Cantine farm just north of the village of Saugerties. The area was also known as the Knaust farm.

As presently designed, the course will play to a par-37 and extend 3,300 yards, making it by far the longest nine-hole course in the area. There is ample room to extend the layout to 18 holes on the 365 acres of the property owned by Canoe Hill, Inc.

The second nine when built would be located near the new clubhouse and the two nines will be divided by a road. The clubhouse is being built on Washington avenue extension, west side, across from the present completed nine holes.

All tees have been completed for the first nine and the greens have been seeded, fertilized and cut many times this fall, Rosenblum said.

The course was laid out and construction supervised by John Jagodzinski, who was for 35 years golf course superintendent at the famed Engineers Club at Roslyn, Long Island. Jagodzinski has maintained a home at Saugerties for many years.

house is being built on Washington.

Three Par—35

The course will feature three par-5 holes, four par-4's and a pair of par-3s. Five of the nine holes will have dog-legs with the dog-leg breaking twice on the par-5, 540-yard sixth hole.

The course chart:

1—500 yards	par 5
2—500 yards	par 5
3—380 yards	par 4
4—175 yards	par 3
5—396 yards	par 4
6—346 yards	par 5
7—360 yards	par 4
8—200 yards	par 3
9—370 yards	par 5

Alternate tees for women's play will be built on all par-5 and par-3 holes, Rosenblum said.

Single Memberships

The Sawyerkill will be operated as a private membership club, with limited greens fees as the discretion of the officers.

Only single memberships will be sold. Dues for men's single membership will be $225; for women, $125. A special student membership of $50 will also be available, Rosenblum said. The membership fee will include locker facilities.

Invitations for memberships and a brochure outlining the club's policies will be in the mails within the next few days.

Seek Professional

No professional has been hired and the selection of one will be delayed pending the screening of several applications from the Northeastern New York PGA and the national PGA.

"We feel we will have one of the most scenic and challenging nine-hole golf club in this part of the country," said Rosenblum. "We are looking forward eagerly to the start of our first season in the spring of 1968."

Other officers of Canoe Hill, Inc. are: Joseph Pfelehaar, Blue Mountain, vice president; James J. Maines, Saugerties, secretary; treasurer, Mrs. Marie Stely of Saugerties is a member of the board of directors.

Kickers Retain First Half Lead

League Mulls Future Play

Kingston Sport Club Kickers lost a game they figured to win Sunday at New York but they emerged from the contest assured of the first round title in the League Division of the German-American Association.

American Czechs' 2-1 squeaker at Central Park was Kingston's first defeat in 10 games. Coach Graves' Kickers had won 7 games and tied 2 in nine starts for a league leading 16 points.

Yonkers and White Plains finished their first round with 15 points, as the Plainsmen blanked Schwaben, 3-0. Fourth place Bavarians get a chance to create a triple tie for second with Yonkers and White Plains when they host the resurgent Poughkeepsie Blue and Whites Sunday. The Bridge City booters routed West New York, 8-2, at home Sunday.

Teams with incomplete first half schedules will be in action Sunday. American Czechs host West New York and Dalmatian travels to Lithuanian.

Disagree on Future

League officials are divided on the advisability of starting the second round of the 1967-68 campaign, following completion of first round action.

Coach Graves of Kingston is adamantly against it and makes no bones about it.

"We're reaching the stage where fields are tricky and dangerous because of weather conditions," he said. "I would rather they terminate play until next spring. However if the league rules we must continue play we have no alternative."

Games to Continue

William Graham of New York, public relations director of the German American Soccer Association said late Monday he believed play would continue.

"Sometimes the weather in the New York area is better in December than it is in November," he noted. "I think the league officials will play it by ear from here on out."

Acclaim Tom Seaver As Rookie of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The last-place New York Mets have a first today in pitcher Tom Seaver, the National League's Rookie of the Year for 1967, and they have the luck of the draw to thank for it.

They can thank, too, the 11 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, who voted for Seaver, the cool, confident 23-year-old winner of 16 games last season.

Two other right-handed pitchers were mentioned in the voting announced Monday. Dick Hughes of the champion St. Louis Cardinals drew six votes and Gary Nolan of Cincinnati collected three.

Hughes posted a 16-6 record while Nolan had a 14-8 mark.

Thrilled Young Man

"I am thrilled to win the award because there were other fine young pitchers in our league besides Hughes and Nolan, like Don Wilson of Houston and Bill Singer of Los Angeles," said Seaver in Manhattan Beach, Calif. "I felt that Hughes would win it because he won 16 games for a pennant winner."

Seaver was obtained by the Atlanta Braves in the college draft and signed to reported $40-

In addition, with a scoreless one-inning performance he preserved the National League's 2-1, 15-inning victory over the American League in the mid-season All-Star game.

Volunteers' Dickey Looks to Kentucky

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

"It is mighty nice," said Tennessee Coach Doug Dickey, "to be wanted at a time like this."

The top postseason college football bowl games began taking shape Monday, the first day bids could be extended under NCAA rules.

Dickey's once-beaten Volunteers, rated second in the country, will meet Oklahoma, No. 5, in the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla., the night of January 1.

"We're looking forward to the game," said Sooner Coach Chuck Fairbanks. "It's the one my boys wanted. But we've still got two tough games left."

Oklahoma can clinch the Big Eight title by beating Nebraska Thanksgiving Day and then Oklahoma State. Tennessee can wrap up the Southeastern Conference title with victories over Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

Alabama accepted a bid to meet the Southwest Conference champion in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 in Dallas. Bear Bryant's ninth-rated Crimson Tide is 7-1-1. If Texas A&M wins its traditional contest with Texas Thursday, the Aggies would be the host club.

1000 contract in February, 1966. However, Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert nullified the contract because the signing violated the college rule.

Two months later, the Mets obtained the rights to the young pitcher in a special drawing in which the Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Phillies also were involved.

Seaver is the first Mets' player ever to capture an official postseason award and the first member of a last-place team to win the rookie award in the National League.

Syracuse Faces Tarter in UCLA

By The Associated Press

The Syracuse football team takes a detour through the California smog this weekend en route to a possible Gator Bowl date in sunny Florida.

The Orange, sporting a (7-2) record, dropped Boston College Saturday, 32-20, but prospects appeared gloomy this weekend in the season finale against formidable UCLA.

Cornell and Colgate also close out the season Saturday—Cornell at Pennsylvania and Colgate at Rutgers.

Colgate, however, fell victim to Buffalo, 31-0. Buffalo ended its season at 6-4.

In other games Saturday: Muskingum, Ohio, trounced Hobart, 21-6; Rochester stopped RPI, 24-6; and Hamilton defeated Union, 15-10. Hobart ended its season at 0-1-1. Hamilton at 6-1, and RPI, Union and Rochester each at 4-4.

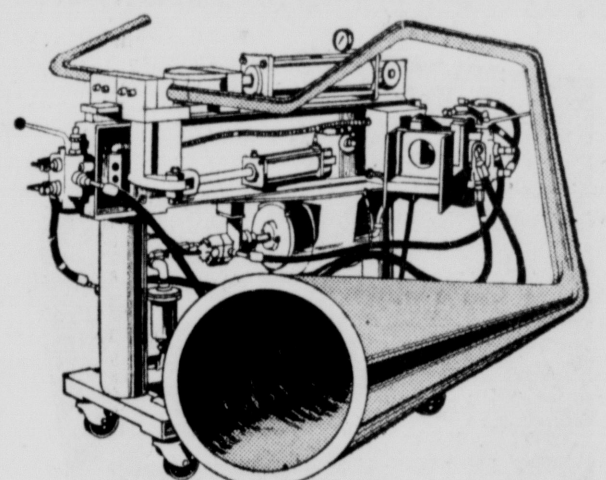

Also in the running with Syracuse for a Gator Bowl berth are Florida (6-2) Florida State (6-2-1), Missouri (7-2) and Wyoming (10-0).

43 Enter to Date

Bob Shelightner First Entrant in Pin Classic

Big Bob Shelightner of Port Ewen, one of the finest bowlers in the mid-Hudson area, has filed the first entry for the First Annual Kingston Daily Freeman - Chamber of Commerce Individual All Star Classic.

The tournament opens Sunday, Dec. 3, at Ferraro's Bowl-rama and ends on Dec. 17 with the crowning of the Ulster County match game champion for 1967-68.

Shelightner was first among 43 bowlers to enter the tournament, Jack Ferraro announced. The early entry list reads like a Who's Who of area tenpin bowling.

He posted highest average (202) in the Kingston Bowling Association last season and has averaged 200 or more in seven different leagues.

All-Events Champ

Shelightner has won all-events championships in two different city associations—in Kingston (1966-67) and at Newburgh. He has rolled eleven 700 triples and boasts lifetime highs of 298 and 743. He shared the doubles championship in the KBA tournament last year.

This year, Shelightner is rolling in three leagues.

First qualifying round is scheduled Dec. 3 with 8 games across 16 lanes. A second round is slated Dec. 10, with the head to head match play finals on Dec. 17. A first prize of $100 in cash has been guaranteed for the champion, $50 for the runner-up. Both receive trophies in addition to the cash awards.

Ulster Residents

All entrants must be bonafide residents of Ulster county, according to tournament rules.

Bowlers entered to date besides Shelightner are: Sonny Barnes, Gary Barnes, Bruce Hinkley, Ernie Dousharm, Joe Wilson, George Glaser, Bob Short, Herb Petersen, Jim Amendola, Marty Hammer, Chris Gallo, Jerry Woodvine, Bob Schoenenman, Kildy Corrado.

Also, Bill Noreika, Joe Fuatz, George Magley, Harold Broskie, Budd McClure, Jim Rose, Fred Linnartz, Pete Fabiano, John Ferraro, Jack Ferraro, Joe Primo, Lou Porsi, Keith Kempton, Jim Kinns, Don Sickler, Jr.

Thurmond Replaces King as Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Nate Thurmond has replaced his San Francisco Warrior teammate, Jim King, at the head of the National Basketball Association scoring parade.

The big center, who was fifth the previous week, has scored 450 points for a 22.5 per game average through games of last Sunday, league statistics released today revealed.

King now is second with 437 points and a 21.6 average. Dave Bing of Detroit replaced Zelm Beatty of St. Louis in third place, with 434 points, and Beatty is fourth with 430.

Hubbell Will Run in Poughkeepsie Race

Craig Hubbell, OCS' senior runner who was unbeaten in regular competition this year, has entered the five mile division of the 56th Annual Poughkeepsie YMCA Thanksgiving Day Road Race. Hubbell has already won the five mile division of the first Kingston YMCA Road Race in impressive fashion.

In addition to the five mile race, there will be a two mile ladies race and a 20 kilometer marathon.

Nick Caswell, of Wappingers Falls, Peter Nelson, Lourdes star, John and Ralph Adams, Arlington star, and Wayne Lazarus of Red Hook, the county champion of Division 2 have also entered the five mile event.

Veronica Whittaker, member of the Poughkeepsie Spiked Shoe Club and now a student at Morgan State in Baltimore, has entered the ladies race.

Outstanding runners who will compete are Bill Warburton, one of the top marathon runners in New England, and Mike O'Hara, the oldest active marathon runner in the country. O'Hara, now in his middle 50's, has won in Poughkeepsie for many years. He holds the American record for total miles run in competition.

A strong team from the New York Pioneer Club has entered in the 20 Kilometer Eastern Regional Championship. Jim O'Connell, former national marathon champion, will lead the St. Anthony's Boys' Club in this event.

The Rochester Track Club has entered strong teams in both the 5 mile and the 20 kilometer races. The Cortland Track Club has also entered a fine team in the 20 kilometer race. Each of these teams has several champions.

Deer Hunting Course at "Y"

A meeting will be held at the Kingston YMCA for all people interested in deer hunting and survival on Monday, Nov. 27, at 7:30 p. m. Arnold Johnson, well known sportsman in the area, will give demonstrations and show equipment to make hunting more enjoyable. There will be no admission charge.

SuperSonics Take 2nd in Row

Two former University of Seattle stars teamed up in the losing seconds, and the chances of the Seattle SuperSonics for a second straight National Basketball Association victory over Detroit went boom.

John Tresvant took a pass from Eddie Miles and scored with 34 seconds left Monday night to give Detroit a 118-114 lead. Miles, who finished with 38 points, then sank two free throws with seven seconds remaining and the Pistons won the game 120-118. Bob Weiss led Seattle with 27.

There was no other NBA action. In the only American Basketball Association games, Houston beat Kentucky 102-90 and Oakland topped Minnesota 116-110.

Art Becker scored 25 points to lead Houston, which drew away after Kentucky had rallied to within four points early in the fourth quarter. Darrell Carrier paced Kentucky with 21.

LaVen Tart scored 23 of his 25 points in the second half and sparked Oakland past Minnesota. Minnesota was led by Les Hunter with 25.

Seaver is the first Mets' player ever to capture an official postseason award and the first member of a last-place team to win the rookie award in the National League.

Other Precedents
Outfielders Albie Pearson and Bob Allison were named the leading American League rookies while with last-place Washington, Pearson in 1958 and Allison in 1959. The award in each league was originated in 1949.

Seaver is the first pitcher to capture NL rookie honors since Jack Sanford of Philadelphia in 1957. He set Mets' records last season in victories plus complete games, 18, strikeouts 170 and lowest earned run average, 2.76.

In addition, with a scoreless one-inning performance he preserved the National League's 2-1, 15-inning victory over the American League in the mid-season All-Star game.

Volunteers' Dickey Looks to Kentucky

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"It is mighty nice," said Tennessee Coach Doug Dickey, "to be wanted at a time like this."

The top postseason college football bowl games began taking shape Monday, the first day bids could be extended under NCAA rules.

Dickey's once-beaten Volunteers, rated second in the country, will meet Oklahoma, No. 5, in the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla., the night of January 1.

"We're looking forward to the game," said Sooner Coach Chuck Fairbanks. "It's the one my boys wanted. But we've still got two tough games left."

Oklahoma can clinch the Big Eight title by beating Nebraska Thanksgiving Day and then Oklahoma State. Tennessee can wrap up the Southeastern Conference title with victories over Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

Alabama accepted a bid to meet the Southwest Conference champion in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 in Dallas. Bear Bryant's ninth-rated Crimson Tide is 7-1-1. If Texas A&M wins its traditional contest with Texas Thursday, the Aggies would be the host club.

Syracuse Faces Tarter in UCLA

By The Associated Press

The Syracuse football team takes a detour through the California smog this weekend en route to a possible Gator Bowl date in sunny Florida.

The Orange, sporting a (7-2) record, dropped Boston College Saturday, 32-20, but prospects appeared gloomy this weekend in the season finale against formidable UCLA.

Cornell and Colgate also close out the season Saturday-Cornell at Pennsylvania and Colgate at Rutgers.

Colgate, however, fell victim to Buffalo, 31-0, Buffalo ended its season at 6-4.

In other games Saturday: Muskingum, Ohio, trounced Hobart, 21-6; Rochester stopped RPI, 24-6; and Hamilton defeated Union, 15-10. Hobart ended its season at 0-11, Hamilton at 6-1, and RPI, Union and Rochester each at 4-4.

Also in the running with Syracuse for a Gator Bowl berth are Florida (6-2) Florida State (6-2-1), Missouri (7-2) and Wyoming (10-0).

List Opportunity Loans in Kingston

The Farmers Home Administration of Kingston has closed 15 economic opportunity loans totaling $43,320 at an average loan of $2,888 covering such places as a barber shop, printing shop, Chinese restaurant, Italian restaurant, and an upholstery shop. Over 200 rural families in New York State have been aided by the USDA loan program which is geared to aid families in the lowest income group, providing them with tools, supplies, equipment, and working space needed to earn a better living.

Allen Seeks School Plan Support

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The lack of "a real commitment on the part of the general public" is responsible for the slow progress toward eliminating racial segregation, Allen asserted. Steps already taken, he added, have been "frighteningly small when measured against the need."

Dr. James E. Allen Jr. issued the call in a dinner speech Monday night, saying that the $112-million program, unveiled by the Board of Regents over the weekend, holds great promise. Without widespread support, however, he said, it will remain "merely good ideas with little power to influence the course of educational development in our state."

Earlier, the association presented Gov. Rockefeller with its Alfred E. Smith Award for distinguished service to public education. In accepting the honor, Rockefeller said he considered education as the greatest accomplishment of his administration. In a series of resolutions, the delegates called for state legislation increasing aid for inter-

According to Barthly L. Beach, Farm Home Administration State director, the program is administered by the Administration for the Office of Economic Opportunity and that, since the program began in January, 1965, loans totaling $1,590,000 have been made to over 715 families throughout New York State.

Beach said that "the economic opportunity loan borrowers are developing more than 80 different kinds of non-agricultural enterprises, in addition to farming. The most difficult hurdle these families face, Beach explained, "has been the lack of money to equip themselves properly for profitable work."

The Ulster County office of the Administration is located at 243 Fair Street in Kingston.

Missing Girls From Troy Found Here

Two 15-year old girls, missing from Troy since Nov. 17, were apprehended last night by Kingston Detectives in the Trailway's Bus Terminal, it was reported.

The runaways, Pamela Sweeney and Julia Koch, were reported missing Friday by their parents, police said. The girls allegedly were known to be headed in this direction, officials declared.

Detectives have notified Troy authorities.

Church Deadline

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday this week all church notices for Saturday's edition must be at the downtown Freeman office no later than 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 22.

Hi-Jacked Plane

Pilots to Be Returned

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The owner of a plane which was hijacked at gunpoint and flown to Havana says, "The Cubans can have the plane...as long as I get my two boys back."

The pilot, J.V. Raymond, 35, of Pompano Beach radioed that a passenger pulled a gun on him Monday over South Florida.

"There is a man aboard with a gun and he intends to take this plane to Havana...and that's exactly what he's going to do," Raymond told the Federal Aviation Agency in Miami.

He described the hijacker as Russian but George Nesmith, owner of the Crescent Air Taxi Service plane, said the man's nationality was not determined.

Monday night a spokesman for the Swiss Embassy in Havana said Raymond and the copilot, Jeff White, 22, of Miami, were unharmed and probably would return to the United States today.

Earlier Havana Radio had announced that White, who got out of the U.S. Coast Guard three weeks ago and Raymond would be released as soon as the necessary paper work was completed.

The newscast, monitored in Miami, made no mention of the incident until almost six hours after the plane touched down in Cuba.

Discounts for Oldsters

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (AP) — Five thousand older residents of the town of Hempstead are eligible for store discounts and other benefits under a plan established by the Older Americans Advisory and Action Committee. The plan was set up by the Hempstead town board and presiding officer two years ago.

Cuban security cars and a van came on the runway as the Piper Apache 23 landed after the two-hour flight.

"They" probably shake the boys and the plane down real soon.

Two fighter jets armed with air-to-air missiles flew from Homestead Air Force Base and caught up with the plane when the hijack message was received but backed off when the hijacker took the radio and warned he would kill White and Raymond if the F104 interceptors were not called off.

The thin blond passenger, between 25 and 30 years old, gave his name as Felix S. Mariasy when he rented the plane. He was picked up in a helicopter in Miami, flown to Hollywood and was supposedly debarking on a trip to Bimini when he pulled the gun. He had told Nesmith he wanted to go to Bimini to pick up his wife.

Savings Banks are people banks.

All banks deal with people. Of course. Then why are Savings Banks people banks?

Simple. We specialize in personal banking service. (Commercial banks are concerned mainly with business and commerce.)

As people banks we offer school savings programs to teach youngsters thrift. As people banks we invest more money in homes than all other banks combined.

As people banks we consistently pay higher interest-dividends than other banks because all our earnings—after expenses and a required reserve—go only to you, the depositor. We have no stockholders.

As people banks we offer low-interest student loans for college...low-cost life insurance protection...as many as 40 different savings plans and services.

In other words, people banks exist to provide personal financial services that help people at every stage of family life.

Do people prefer people banks? More people in New York State save in Savings Banks than in all other banks combined. There are now more than 11 million accounts in New York State Savings Banks.

If there were no Savings Banks, somebody would have to invent them. Because Savings Banks are people banks...banks of Grow-Power and progress for the people of New York State.

We're delighted to show you around our brewery any time. But we're especially glad to have you during the holidays. It's a sentimental time and we're sentimental people. In fact, when it comes to making beer, we're probably the most determinedly sentimental people you'll ever meet.

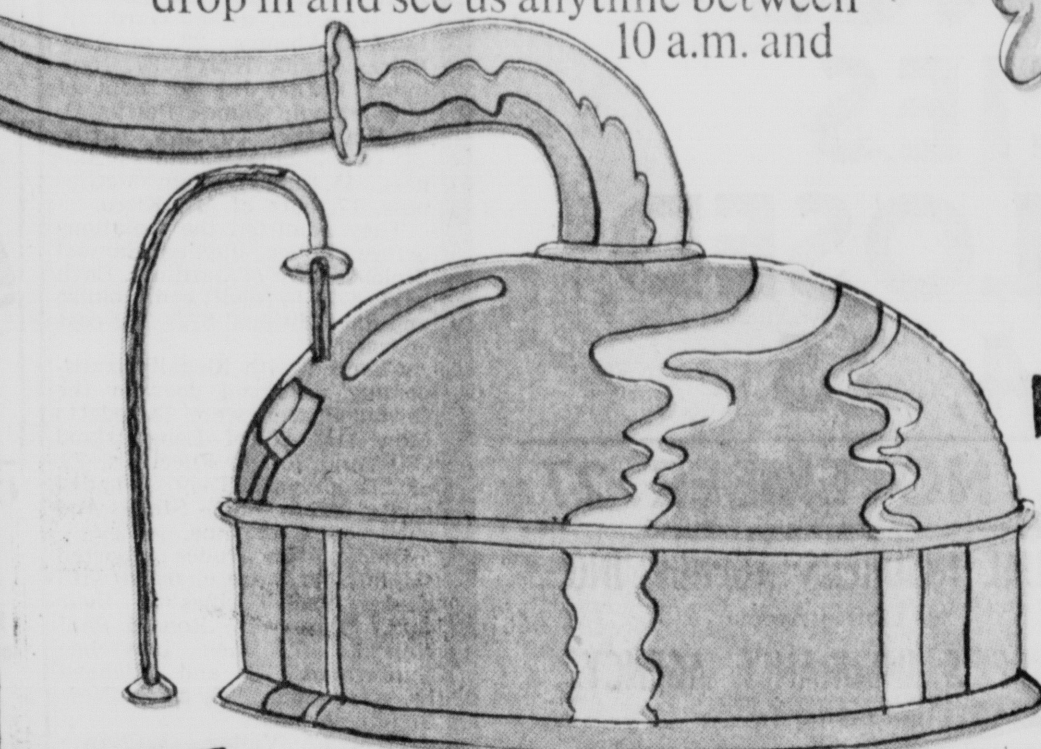

We age Utica Club for months to get exactly the kind of beer we want.

Its taste is mellow. There is absolutely no bitterness. The foam is rich and creamy, with fine bubbles—the kind you get in champagne. Natural bubbles.

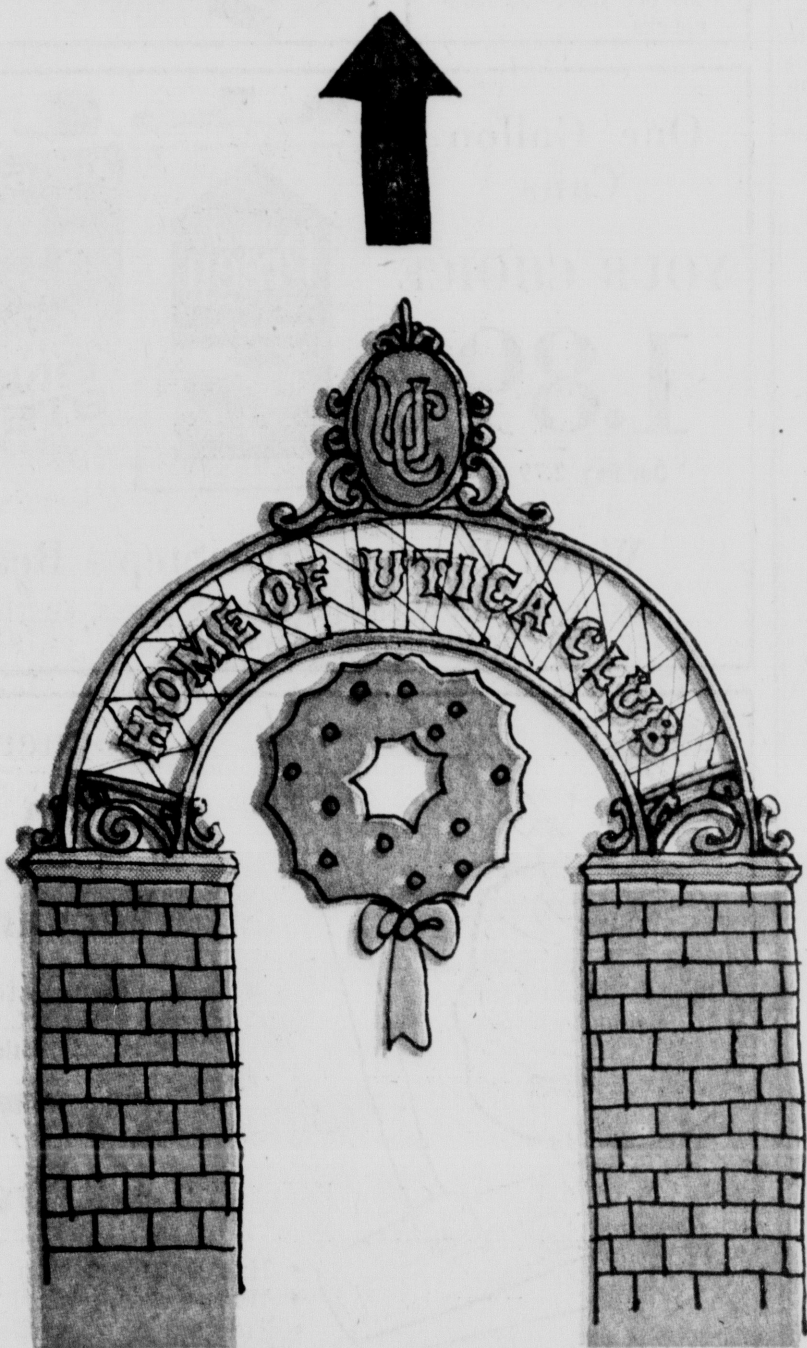

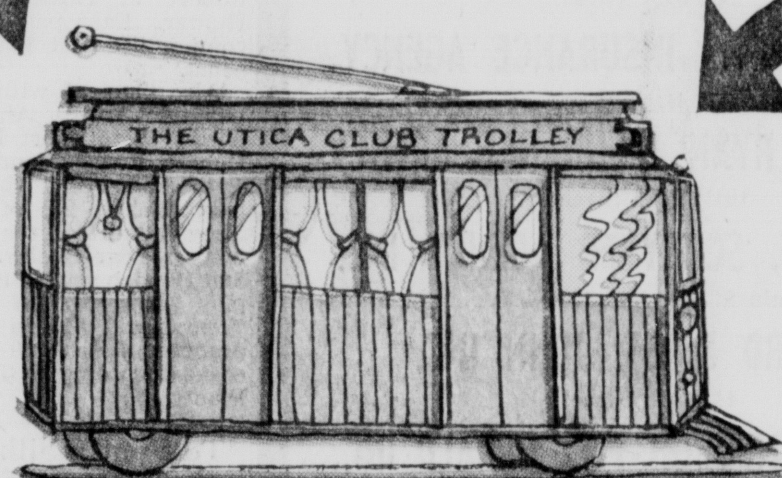

Can you tell we're proud of our beer? Well, we are. And we're equally proud of our brewery. Like a good cook's kitchen, it's spotless and filled with gleaming copper and stainless steel and tile. We think it's beautiful. Especially during the holidays. So drop in and see us anytime between 10 a.m. and

Rockefeller Pushes Inner-Core Aid

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—this once they have started and claim credit for it. It is clearly the federal responsibility.

Among those in the audience at East High School were officials of the militant civil rights organization, FIGHT, who asked the governor whether he agreed with their "stick, prod and push" methods of getting jobs and other benefits for Negroes. Rockefeller replied that he was not in Rochester "to intervene in local problems."

FIGHT President DeLeon McEwen countered that he was "surprised that you would take a position of abstention on these issues."

The governor shot back: "Young man, I'll stand on the record of my administration and the record of my family for helping your people."

Franking Privilege

In the United States, the franking privilege—the right to send letters or postal packages free of charge—was first granted to the soldiers fighting in the Revolutionary War, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

North of the equator, whirlpools move counterclockwise; south of the equator, they move clockwise.

Rockefeller's comments came in reaction to a claim by James McCuller, acting executive director of Action for a Better Community, Rochester's anti-poverty agency, that Negro businessmen were having difficulty securing loans from private and federal sources.

The Republican governor took Washington to task for failing to support its own anti-poverty program.

"Poverty program funds should come from the sponsors," he said. "I don't see why the federal government should pass the buck to the states on

18 Hunters Arrested

The first day of the deer season for at least 18 hunters, including four Ulster County residents, on Monday was marred by citations for violations of the State Conservation Law. Sixteen were accused of having loaded rifles in their cars and two faced charges of transporting untagged deer.

Twelve of the violators were bagged in the Gardiner area by State Trooper John Crodelle of Highland and Conservation agents Alfred Schneller and Robert Laquet. Leeds State Police booked six violators.

Hunters charged with having loaded rifles in their cars on complaint of Trooper Crodelle and the conservation men were, Charles Mead, 20, William Dunn, 23 and Emmet Williams, 22, all of Gardiner; Donald Abrams, 23, of New Paltz; Frank Krave, 37, Raymond Butler Jr., 36, both of Middletown; James Petry, 41, of Warwick; Gregory Healy, 26, of Elmhurst; John McGinness, 45, and William McGinness, 17, both of Mt. Kisco.

They admitted the violations before Police Justice Samuel Stokes, Town of Gardiner. Each paid $25 in civil compromise and an additional $2.50 for cost of court.

Charged with illegally transporting untaged deer in the Gardiner area were Benedetto Mancetta, 47, of Long Island City, and Joseph Fucci Jr., 22, of Brooklyn. They pleaded guilty before Judge Stokes and each paid a $25 fine.

Leeds State Police reported six hunters were charged with having loaded rifles in their cars. They were Ronald Paul Napert, 37, Jack Lawrence Gunterman, 23 and Richard Lane Ringquist, 25, all of New Britain, Conn.

Trooper Victor LaPlante said the three men pleaded guilty before Police Justice Robert J. Gooley, Town of Hunter. Each paid $15 in civil compromise and $2.50 costs of court.

Also charged with the same violations were Antonio Linbardo, 59, of Fort Lee, N. J.; Robert Roger Houden, 17, of Beth Page, and Theodore Albert Wehrs, 26, of Bellmore. They admitted the violations before Judge Gooley. Linbardo and Houden settled for $25 each plus $2.50 costs of court, and Wehrs paid $15 in civil compromise and $2.50 for court costs, according to Trooper LaPlante.

To Fool a Silk Worm

TOKYO (AP)—The Agriculture-Forestry Ministry is experimenting with pills to substitute for mulberry leaves as food for silk worms. The ministry says it has been experimenting for one year and the results appear promising.

Petition Asks Fire Truck For Saugerties

A petition, signed by 250 persons, was presented the night requesting the purchase of a new fire truck for the Washington Hook and Ladder Company.

The matter, which would eventually have to go to a referendum, according to the village clerk's office, was tabled until a time when it can be discussed by the fire commissioner and the board.

Police Commissioner Charles Steel reported that the two positions for patrolmen have been filled by Arthur Russell and Uwe Goettsche. Six persons made application.

The position of police dispatcher will be dispensed with until the summer, according to Steel who accepted the resignation of Dennis Rowe. The former dispatcher is reported to have resigned for personal reasons.

Letters were received from the Village Planning Board asking that the village declare the status of derelict and abandoned buildings within its confines and from the Saugerties Women's Club asking that all effort be made to preserve the Saugerties Lighthouse.

Joseph Schaffer was granted exemption papers, having completed the required time in the Washington Hook and Ladder Company.

Gregory Lustay reported that the Ulster County Department of Health completed inspection of the village sewer plant buildings and found them in order. Residents were also asked not to place any more leaves in gutters for pickup.

Rockefeller Pushes Inner-Core Aid

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller says he plans to submit to the 1968 Legislature a bill that would provide state backing to private industries financing inner-city businesses.

Rockefeller made the disclosure Monday at the third of a series of 11 public forums he is conducting around the state to obtain citizens' suggestions for his legislative program.

The bill would implement the gifts and loans section of the proposed new constitution that was rejected by the state's voters in the Nov. 7 elections.

The governor also said he planned to propose establishment of a State Urban Development Corp. that would create industrial sites in the core areas of cities.

Rockefeller's comments came in reaction to a claim by James McCuller, acting executive director of Action for a Better Community, Rochester's anti-poverty agency, that Negro businessmen were having difficulty securing loans from private and federal sources.

The Republican governor took Washington to task for failing to support its own anti-poverty program.

18 Hunters Arrested

The first day of the deer season for at least 18 hunters, including four Ulster County residents, on Monday was marred by citations for violating the State Conservation Law. Sixteen were accused of having loaded rifles in their cars and two faced charges of transporting untagged deer.

Twelve of the violators were bagged in the Gardiner area by State Trooper John Crodelle of Highland and Conservation agents Alfred Schneller and Robert Laquet. Leeds State Police booked six violators.

Hunters charged with having loaded rifles in their cars on complaint of Trooper Crodelle and the conservation men were, Charles Mead, 20, William Dunn, 23 and Emmet Williams, 22, all of Gardiner; Donald Abrams, 23, of New Paltz; Frank Krave, 37, Raymond Butler Jr., 36, both of Middletown; James Petry, 41, of Warwick; Gregory Healy, 26, of Elmhurst; John McGinness, 45, and William McGinness, 17, both of Mt. Kisco. They admitted the violations before Police Justice Samuel Stokes, Town of Gardiner. Each paid $25 in civil compromise and an additional $2.50 for cost of court.

Charged with illegally transporting untagged deer in the Gardiner area were Benedetto Mancetta, 47, of Long Island City, and Joseph Fucci Jr., 22, of Brooklyn. They pleaded guilty before Judge Stokes and each paid a $25 fine.

Leeds State Police reported six hunters were charged with having loaded rifles in their cars. They were Ronald Paul Napert, 37, Jack Lawrence Gunterman, 23 and Richard Lane Ringquist, 25, all of New Britain, Conn.

Trooper Victor LaPlante said the three men pleaded guilty before Police Justice Robert J. Gooley, Town of Hunter. Each paid $15 in civil compromise and $2.50 costs of court.

Also charged with the same violations were Antonio Linbardo, 59, of Fort Lee, N. J.; Robert Roger Houden, 17, of Beth Page, and Theodore Albert Wehrs, 26, of Bellmore. They admitted the violations before Judge Gooley. Linbardo and Houden settled for $25 each plus $2.50 costs of court, and Wehrs paid $15 in civil compromise and $2.50 for court costs, according to Trooper LaPlante.

To Fool a Silk Worm

TOKYO (AP)—The Agriculture-Forestry Ministry is experimenting with pills to substitute for mulberry leaves as food for silk worms. The ministry says it has been experimenting for one year and the results appear promising.

Petition Asks Fire Truck For Saugerties

A petition, signed by 250 persons, was presented to the Saugerties Village Board last night requesting the purchase of a new fire truck for the Washington Hook and Ladder Company.

The matter, which would eventually have to go to a referendum, according to the village clerk's office, was tabled until a time when it can be discussed by the fire commissioner and the board.

Police Commissioner Charles Steel reported that the two positions for patrolmen have been filled by Arthur Russell and Uwe Goettsche. Six persons made application.

The position of police dispatcher will be dispensed with until the summer, according to Steel who accepted the resignation of Dennis Rowe. The former dispatcher is reported to have resigned for personal reasons.

Letters were received from the Village Planning Board asking that the village declare the status of derelict and abandoned buildings within its confines and from the Saugerties Women's Club asking that all effort be made to preserve the Saugerties Lighthouse.

An anonymous donation of $20 was received for the tree replacement fund.

Joseph Schaffer was granted exemption papers, having completed the required time in the Washington Hook and Ladder Company.

Gregory Lustay reported that the Ulster County Department of Health completed inspection of the village sewer plant buildings and found them in order. Residents were also asked not to place any more leaves in gutters for pickup.

Homosexuality Now Popular Film Subject

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Once banned as a theme for American films, homosexuality lately has become a popular subject for movie makers.

Several films concerning homosexuality are in production, and they are not being made solely by exploitation-film companies. Many are topflight films, as evidenced by the current Warner Brothers - Seven Arts release, "Reflections in a Golden Eye."

The John Huston film, derived from an early novel of Carson McCullers, depicts Marlon Brando as an Army officer who is a latent homosexual. He is married to Elizabeth Taylor but is more interested in a private who enjoys cavorting nude in the forest.

Such a situation would have been banned under the self-censorship code of film, censors Will Hays and Eric Johnston. The code declared:

"Pictures shall not infer that low forms of sex relationship are the accepted or common thing. Sex perversion or any inference of it is forbidden." Also banned were such words as "fairy," "nancy" and "pansy."

New Production Code

"Illicit sex relationships shall not be justified. Restraint and care shall be exercised in presenting such material."

Whereas underground films about homosexuals have prospered in New York, San Francisco and Hollywood, their box-office appeal has proved negligible in most other cities.

The producers are faced by a hard economic fact: Homosexual films offer no chance to recover costs by sales to television, at least not under present standards of broadcasting. That may prove to be the biggest deterrent against any large outbreak of homosexual subjects.

entations dealing with sex aberrations."

It was under the new code that such a film as "Reflections in a Golden Eye" could achieve a seal of acceptability—with the proviso "recommended for mature audiences." Actually the homosexual theme has been injected into several films in recent years, though not in such explicit terms.

In 1961, William Wyler re-made "The Childrens Hour," which he had filmed as "These Three" in 1936 with no reference to the Lesbian theme of the Lillian Hellman play. The second MacLaine's affection for Audrey Hepburn. The film was not a success.

European film makers have been unrestrained by production codes, and they have long dealt with homosexuality in such films as "La Dolce Vita," "A Taste of Honey" and two features about Oscar Wilde. The underground movie makers have poured forth a flood of homosexual films.

Such influences, plus the liberalized morality of these times, have prompted Hollywood film makers to seek franker treatment of homosexuality. "The Fox" promises to be one of the most outspoken of the new films. The Warner Brothers-Seven Arts release features Sandy Dennis as a girl in love with Anne Heywood. One scene features a kiss between the pair.

Will Try Sell

In their search for new themes to treat on the screen, the film studios may be overlooking one question: Will homosexual subjects sell to the mass audience?

Utica Physician Fined as Evader

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Edmund P. Fucinato of Utica was fined $8,500 Monday in U.S. District Court after he pleaded guilty to evading full payment of income taxes.

The physician also was placed on probation for a year. The government said Fucinato reported a taxable income of $13,020 in 1961, while his actual income was $29,027. He should have paid $5,976 more in taxes for that year, the government contended.

Six Astronauts Are Picked For Saturn Project Trip

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Six astronauts, including two who never have ridden a rocket, today held key roles in two forthcoming space rehearsals for America's flight to the moon.

The space agency Monday named three-man crews for the first manned flights atop the Saturn 5 rocket, whose triumphant test journey Nov. 9 gave the moon program the impetus it needed.

Early in 1969 Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt, 38, commander of the 1965 Gemini 5 flight, is in charge of the first manned Saturn 5 flight planned for late next year.

Traveling with him will be Air Force Lt. Col. David R. Scott, 35, veteran of the Gemini 8 flight in 1966 and civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart, 32, venturing into space for the first time.

Frank Borman, 39, will command the second manned trip aboard a Saturn 5, joined by Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins, 37, and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders, 34. Borman commanded Gemini 7 in 1965. Collins rode Gemini 10 in 1966. Anders is a space rookie.

Once in space the men are to act out vital steps in the moon-flight scenario. McDivitt's team is to carry out first manned space testing of the Apollo command craft, its service section and the moonlanding lunar module.

Borman and his colleagues will fly with orders to carry out lunar mission steps they would go during an actual flight to the moon.

Their big job will be for the lunar ferry and the command ship to start hundreds of miles apart, find each other and link up in a run-through of the rendezvous required to bring home safely the first Americans who will walk the moon.

The crews named Monday were for the second and third manned flights of the Apollo lunar landing program. The first flight is to go next summer using a more powerful version of the Saturn 1 vehicle.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 44, will command that flight, joined by civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham, 35, and Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, 37. They are to check the spaceworthiness of the command craft and its ability to protect spacemen during its fiery skip back into earth's atmosphere.

The Schirra crew got its assignment after the three astronauts they understudied were killed in a fire in their Apollo ship atop a Saturn 1 at Cape Kennedy, Jan. 27.

Towsonfolk Return To Alabama Town

NEWTON, Ala. (AP) — Nearly 3,000 residents of this southeast Alabama town were back in their homes today after officials announced 10,000 gallons of deadly chlorine gas, unleashed in a railroad derailment, had dissipated.

"It seems like everything is back to normal now," Police Chief Charles Brackins reported Monday night.

The mass evacuation was ordered Saturday night after a railroad tank car containing the chlorine and 48 other cars derailed.

Brackins said he believes the danger was eliminated when safety valves on the tank car popped open and allowed the gas to escape gradually.

Officials said the gas-carrying tanker flipped over in the crash and they were unable to move it. They also pointed out the danger of explosion was increased by several cars of butane and propane gas which also had plunged off the tracks.

Brackins said it took just 33 minutes to evacuate the town.

The residents lived with friends, relatives, or stayed in motels. Others were quartered at a community center in nearby town.

Homosexuality Now Popular Film Subject

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Once banned as a theme for American films, homosexuality lately has become a popular subject for movie makers.

Several films concerning homosexuality are in production, and they are not being made solely by exploitation film companies. Many are topflight films, as evidenced by the current Warner Brothers — Seven Arts release, "Reflections in a Golden Eye."

The John Huston film, derived from an early novel of Carson McCullers, depicts Marlon Brando as an Army officer who is a latent homosexual. He is married to Elizabeth Taylor but is more interested in a private who enjoys cavorting nude in the forest.

Such a situation would have been banned under the self-censorship code of film czars Will Hays and Eric Johnston. The code declared:

"Pictures shall not infer that low forms of sex relationship are the accepted or common thing. Sex perversion or any inference of it is forbidden." Also banned were such words as "fairy," "nancy" and "pansy."

New Production Code

Such specifics were swept away with the new production code, promoted by Jack Valenti as one of the first acts in his post as president of the Motion Picture Association. The provision now states:

"Illicit sex relationships shall not be justified. Restraint and care shall be exercised in presentations dealing with sex aberrations."

It was under the new code that such a film as "Reflections in a Golden Eye" could achieve a seal of acceptability—with the proviso "recommended for mature audiences." Actually the homosexual theme has been injected into several films in recent years, though not in such explicit terms.

In 1961, William Wyler remade "The Childrens Hour," which he had filmed as "These Three" in 1936 with no reference to the Lesbian theme of the Lillian Hellman play. The second MacLaine's affection for Audrey Hepburn. The film was not a success.

European film makers have been unrestrained by production codes, and they have long dealt with homosexuality in such films as "La Dolce Vita," "A Taste of Honey" and two features about Oscar Wilde. The underground movie makers have poured forth a flood of homosexual films.

Such influences, plus the liberalized morality of these times, have prompted Hollywood film makers to seek franker treatment of homosexuality. "The Fox" promises to be one of the most outspoken of the new films. The Warner Brothers Seven Arts release features Sandy Dennis as a girl in love with Anne Heywood. One scene features a kiss between the pair.

Will Try Sell

In their search for new themes to treat on the screen, the film studios may be overlooking one question: Will homosexual subjects sell to the mass audience?

Whereas underground films about homosexuals have prospered in New York, San Francisco and Hollywood, their box office appeal has proved negligible in most other cities.

The producers are faced by a hard economic fact: Homosexual films offer no chance to recover costs by sales to television, at least not under present standards of broadcasting. That may prove to be the biggest deterrent against any large outbreak of homosexual subjects.

Six Astronauts Are Picked For Saturn Project Trip

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Six astronauts, including two who never have ridden a rocket, today held key roles in two forthcoming space rehearsals for America's flight next year.

The space agency Monday named three-man crews for the first manned flights atop the Saturn 5 rocket, whose triumphant test journey Nov. 9 gave the moon program the impetus it needed.

Early in 1969 Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt, 38, commander of the 1965 Gemini 5 flight, is in charge of the first manned Saturn 5 flight planned for late next year.

Traveling with him will be Air Force Lt. Col. David R. Scott, 35, veteran of the Gemini 8 flight in 1966 and civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart, 32, venturing into space for the first time.

Frank Borman, 39, will command the second manned trip aboard a Saturn 5, joined by Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins, 37, and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders, 34. Borman commanded Gemini 7 in 1965. Collins rode Gemini 10 in 1966. Anders is a space rookie.

Once in space the men are to act out vital steps in the moon flight scenario. McDivitt's team is to carry out first manned space testing of the Apollo command craft, its service section and the moonlanding lunar module.

Borman and his colleagues will fly with orders to carry out lunar mission steps the way they would go during an actual flight to the moon.

Their big job will be for the lunar ferry and the command ship to start hundreds of miles apart, find each other and link up in a run-through of the re-entry sequence required to bring home safely the first Americans who will walk the moon.

The crews named Monday were for the second and third manned flights of the Apollo lunar landing program. The first flight is to go next summer using a more powerful version of the Saturn 1 vehicle.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 44, will command the flight, joined by civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham, 35, and Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, 37. They are to check the spaceworthiness of the command craft and its ability to protect spacemen during its fiery skip back into earth's atmosphere.

The Schirra crew got its assignment after the three astronauts they understudied were killed in a fire in their Apollo ship atop a Saturn 1 at Cape Kennedy, Jan. 27.

Gorman Makes Bid For Schick Vacancy

During a Democratic County meeting at the White Eagle Hall, Kingston, last night, it was learned that County and City Chairman Dr. Gerald P. Gorman will submit his name to the Democratic State committee to fill the vacancy of committeeman caused when John J. Schick resigned from the post early last week.

The State committee, under the leadership of John J. Burns, will then hold a meeting, probably in January, to give its approval to Dr. Gorman.

One Democrat expressed the opinion that, "Gorman saw that he couldn't control the (two) committeemen, and this move can be seen as one way for him to have direct control over at least one-half of the delegation."

This same Democrat said that State Committeewoman, in December,

$10,000 - $15,000 Woolworth Loss

The burglary of F. W. Woolworth Co., 311 Wall Street, sometime Sunday, netted thieves between $10,000 and $15,000 in merchandise, it was disclosed this morning.

Police termed the burglary "a professional and well-organized job." The theft was among three reported to headquarters over the weekend, police said.

Others Hit

In addition to Woolworth's, the UPA Warehouse at Field Court and Cornell Industries, 17 Cornell Street, were burglarized between Saturday night and Monday morning, police said. Detectives reported yesterday that officials had not been able to compile a list of missing merchandise.

The Woolworth burglary was discovered by employees Monday around 7:30 a. m., detectives said. Entry was gained through a door in the roof of the building, investigators concluded. An alarm system protecting the front door remained silent.

Woolworth's management noted that an inventory conducted Monday afternoon disclosed that merchandise stolen included small electric appliances, records, nylon stockings, perfume, jewelry, shirts and other small articles of clothing. However, the exact extent of the losses will not officially be known until further inventories are finished, the management said.

Police revealed that the burglars left the Woolworth building by the back door.

Doubt Link

Today, detectives said that the Woolworth burglary did not appear related to the other thefts. Police noted that entrance into Cornell Industries was gained through a side window. Small change taken from a petty cash register was the only thing reported stolen, investigators disclosed.

Entrance to the UPA Warehouse was through a rear door, detectives said. They noted that a box of men's working gloves was reported missing.

Woolworth's Albany Avenue Extension branch was burglarized Nov. 6, making Sunday heist the second Woolworth loss in two weeks. Several thousand dollars worth of articles were reported stolen in that theft. Ulster County's sheriff's deputies are presently investigating the Nov. 6 burglary.

Townfolk Return To Alabama Town

NEWTON, Ala. (AP) — Nearly 3,000 residents of this southeast Alabama town were back in their homes today after officials announced 10,000 gallons of deadly chlorine gas, unleashed in a railroad derailment, had dissipated.

"It seems like everything is back to normal now," Police Chief Charles Brackins reported Monday night.

The mass evacuation was ordered Saturday night after a railroad tank car containing the chlorine and 48 other cars derailed about a mile from the business district. Fire broke out in the wreckage and for a time officials feared an explosion might release all the gas at once.

Brackins said he believes the danger was eliminated when safety valves on the tank car popped open and allowed the gas to escape gradually.

Officials said the gas-carrying tanker flipped over in the crash and they were unable to move it. They also pointed out the danger of explosion was increased by several cars of butane and propane gas which also had plunged off the tracks.

Brackins said it took just 3 minutes to evacuate the town.

The residents lived with friends, relatives, or stayed in motels. Others were quartered at a community center in nearby the railroad tracks.

IN PURSUANCE of and by virtue of a Judgment or Decree in Foreclosure, duly granted in the above entitled action on the 26th day of October, 1967, and entered in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 30th, 1967, I, WILLIAM BARON, the undersigned, Referee, in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at 1115 DEEDS STREET in the City of KINGSTON, NEW YORK, on the 28th day of November, 1967, at 12 o'clock Noon of that day, as one parcel and property the premises described in said Judgment as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, and described as follows:

BEGINNING on the northwesterly side of Downs Street at a point one hundred eighteen feet and four inches (118' 4") northeasterly from the north corner of Downs Street and Wiltwyck Avenue from thence running southeasterly along Downs Street thirty-one feet eight inches (31' 8") to a lot now or formerly of one Vogel, thence southeasterly and parallel with Wiltwyck Avenue one hundred feet (100') to lot now or formerly of one Vogel, thence southeasterly and parallel with Wiltwyck Avenue one hundred feet (100') to the place of beginning. The foregoing is a lot thirty-one feet eight inches front and rear and one hundred feet deep and is the northwesterly lot in a subdivision made by said Hamilton of Lots No. 42, 43 and 44 on Map of Lands of Charles D. Boyce.

BEING the same premises described in a deed executed by Arella T. Lasher to Leroy T. Lasher and Arella T. Lasher, his wife, dated October 3rd, 1961 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office October 1961 in Liber 1112 of Deeds at page 1199.

The said Arella T. Lasher died intestate on November 2nd, 1961, a resident of Ulster County, leaving the said Leroy T. Lasher, surviving tenant by the entirety.

BEING the same premises conveyed by Leroy T. Lasher to Chester O. Newton and Modell Newton, his wife, by deed dated August 18th, 1964 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on August 18th, 1964 in Liber 1155 of Deeds, page 1054.

Dear Abby
Son Is Responsible

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Last January my son went north to get a job. While he was there he phoned to say he had met a "wonderful" girl and they had been married. Naturally we were surprised, but he seemed happy, so we were happy, too. A couple of months later he called to say that he and his wife were splitting up and he was going to join the army, his reason being that his wife was going to have a baby that wasn't his. He said that he knew nothing about her condition when he married her, but she admitted to having known it all along.

Well, this poor girl called us and said she had no money and nowhere to go and she couldn't go home, so we sent her money called to say that he and his wife were splitting up and he

She's here now, and, Abby, she is really a sweet girl. She plans to give the baby away when it comes. We wrote our son about what we had done, and he was very angry at us and wrote back saying we shouldn't have had anything to do with her.

We keep writing, trying to explain, but he won't answer our letters. Even if it's not our son's baby, it's an innocent child. What is your advice? We can't turn this poor girl out. But will our son ever speak to us again? A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If he does not, shame on him. HE found this girl, you didn't and even tho I do not condone her actions, she is a human being. She is also his wife, until they are legally divorced. I think you did the decent and admirable thing. And hopefully so will your son after he cools off and thinks about it for a while.

DEAR ABBY: Do blondes really have more fun? If so, why? REDHEAD

DEAR REDHEAD: Could it be that they're easier to find in the dark?

DEAR ABBY: What do you think is going on when a husband suddenly starts signing off his letters with "Regards" after so many years of "Love And Kisses?"

My husband is an air force sergeant and was transferred to the Philippines a few months ago. We have five children and are looking forward to his service retirement so we can have a normal family life.

He doesn't even wish me "Best Regards." Just "Regards."

SINCERELY YOURS, WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: The next time you write to your husband, tell him that you noticed the change in his "signing off" and ask if there is a reason for it. Let him know that you are delighted with his "Regards," but you'd like to know what happened to his "Love and Kisses."

DEAR ABBY: Am I engaged or not? This whole situation is very confusing. Here is what happened: Axel left for Vietnam in June. We talked about getting married when he gets home next year. First of September he wrote saying he had bought a set of rings before he left, and if I wanted to become engaged I should write and tell him and he would ask his brother Olaf to drop the rings off at my house. I wrote back, "Yes, have Olaf drop the rings off," so that's what happened, O.K., so now I have the rings, right? My mother says this is like no engagement she ever heard of before, and I should have waited for Axel to get back and give me the rings himself. I say I don't care who gave me the rings, I am engaged. What do you say?

ENGAGED

DEAR ENGAGED: I say, you are engaged. And congratulations.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR
It's In The Stars—
("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Wednesday
November 22, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Special activity connected with children is likely. Your creative resources are put to use. Fine night for romantic pursuits. Say features change, variety.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Most emphasis is on how you manage to handle essential details. Key is ability to be keen observer. Applies especially to handling agreement involving property.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on relatives, journeys, messages. Your natural tendency to be restless is spotlighted. Avoid trying too much at once. Pace yourself. Finish one task at a time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good day for adding to possessions. Genuine bargain in home luxury field is available. Be alert. Gift for loved one could bring much happiness. Give and you also receive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Fight tendency to feel closed in. Get out. Be seen. You could shine at special group or club function. Be perceptive enough to detect hidden meaning. Read between the lines.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some of your friends express desire for greater comfort. Obtain hint from CANCER message. Listen to question, problems. Home surroundings best for concrete results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Fine for taking steps to fulfill hopes, wishes. If you merely daydream opportunity slips away. Socialize. Make contracts. Accentuate charm. Highlight good taste in dress.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Career, professional interests given a boost today. Many look to you for example, inspiration. Key is to live up to obligations. No time to shirk duties. Give your all.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Rid yourself of any mental cobwebs. See clearly. Obtain view of future potential. Fight tendency to brood. Highlight optimism. You are on brink of successful activity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Dig deep. Have no fear of facts. Some may present superstitious nonsense. Key is to discern, to know truth. Mate or partner could discuss financial situation. Listen well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emphasis on public relations, legal maneuvers. Best to permit others to speak, show their wares. Your role today should be that of acute observer. Be analytical.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): You get chance to enter areas previously closed or prohibited. Accent on ability to perceive, judge, delineate. Key is agile mind, willingness to test, experiment.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are on your own in thought, ideas, philosophy. Means you are willing to break from tradition to establish your own beliefs. Many disagree, but almost all respect your views.

GENERAL TENDENCIES
Cycle high for LEO, VIRGO. Special word to TAURUS: If observant you save time, money.

No-Trump Call Was Bad Bid

In board-a-match team competition each board counts exactly the same in the final standing. A win by 10 points and a win by 2,000 points is still just one win. Thus, some players try to win boards by playing a hand in no-trump instead of a major suit. If they can make the same number of tricks at either contract, the 10-point difference is a win.

put Oswald over the 10,000 Master Point mark in Dallas, they were faced with a possible 10-point loss when the older Jacobys bid and made a normal four hearts while at the other table the opponents played the hand at three no-trump.

We don't think much of South's bid of two no-trump. South was looking at two little spades, and Judy's double of two diamonds had clearly shown a club-spade hand. Still South bid two no-trump and North raised to three on the theory that his seven hearts would all take tricks at no-trump.

As you can see, three no-trump is a very bad contract. Judy's king of spades held the first trick, but she wasn't too happy about it. Jim did play the seven, but if Jim had started with just two spades he would have to shift after winning the second spade with his ace and would surely shift to a club. After all, South had bid diamonds, not clubs. Judy solved the problem of getting a diamond return from Jim by leading her ten of spades at trick

Why We Say--

DOMINOES

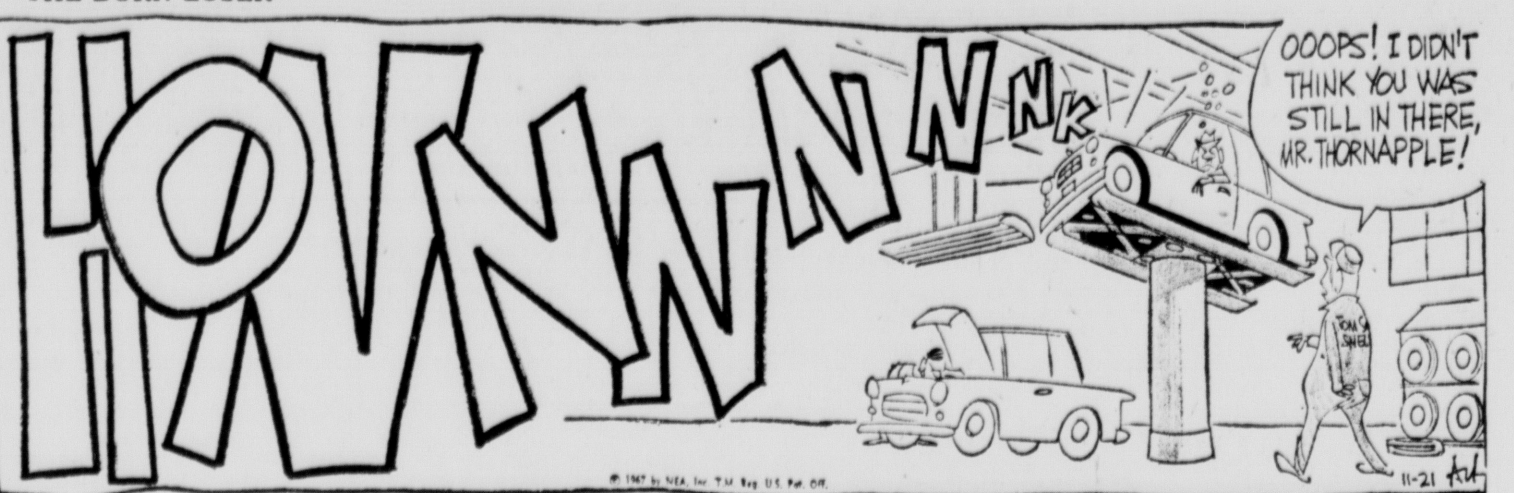

FRENCH MONKS: This old game started with French monks who used to play it with square stones. The winner of the game recited a prayer which started with the Latin word "Dominus" (for Lord). When the game came into universal usage it was called dominoes.

Dear Abby

Son Is Responsible

© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Last January my son went north to get a job. While he was there he phoned to say he had met a "wonderful" girl and they had been married. Naturally we were surprised, but he seemed happy, so we were happy, too. A couple of months later he phoned to say that he and his wife were splitting up and he was was going to join the army, his reason being that his wife was going to have a baby that wasn't his. He said that he knew nothing about her condition when he married her, but she admitted to having known it all along.

Well, this poor girl called us and said she had no money and nowhere to go and she couldn't go home, so we sent her money called to say that he and his wife were splitting up and he was

She's here now, and, Abby, she is really a sweet girl. She plans to give the baby away when it comes. We wrote our son about what we had done, and he was very angry at us and wrote back saying we shouldn't have had anything to do with her.

We keep writing, trying to explain, but he won't answer our letters. Even if it's not our son's baby, it's an innocent child. What is your advice? We can't turn this poor girl out. But will our son ever speak to us again?

SINCERELY YOURS, WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: The next time you write to your husband, tell him that you noticed the change in his "signing off" and ask if there is a reason for it. Let him know that you are delighted with his "Regards," but you'd like to know what happened to his "Love and Kisses."

Office Cat

By Junius Trade Mark Reg.

An organization was trying to decide where to hold their next annual convention. Someone suggested Atlantic City.

Mr. Jones — No, Sir, that city is full of crooks.

Mr. Smith (who had made the suggestion) — What do you mean by that crack?

Mr. Jones — Well, I was there attending a convention several years ago and while I was driving around in broad daylight, mind you, I put my hand out to make a left turn, and some no-good citizen stole the olive right out of my martini!

If you were to tell a woman, "Your face would stop a clock," she would be highly insulted. But, say to her, "When I look into your eyes time stands still," and she will swoon.

Mary, a second-grader, wanted her parents to know how smart she was but still didn't want to give the impression that she was bragging on herself, so she announced,

Mary — You know what? There are 31 kids in my class and 29 of them are dumber than I am.

Almost everyone knows the difference between right and wrong — some just hate to make decisions.

Dad — I guess everyone tells lies.

Daughter — Gee, St. Peter must be awful lonesome up there with just George Washington around.

ABC Documentary Different

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This has not been a particularly impressive season for documentary programs with the exception of "Africa," ABC's four hour study aired in September. But good, bad or indifferent, they fall into two basic types of presentation.

There is the "information documentary," which is usually a service type of program and, as one network executive explained, "You take a subject and make pictures about it, and then you add a voice that tells you the meaning of what you are seeing."

Very Special to Him

The other type, utilizing a familiar journalistic technique, tackles a big dramatic issue and explores it in terms of a little story "microcosm" such as showing the drug problem in terms of one man's addiction.

Lester Cooper, who makes documentaries for ABC, prefers the latter. And next Monday night his half hour special "Can You Hear Me?" is very special to him. It will tell the story of a little girl named Beth Ann who is 2½ years old and who was born deaf. It shows how she has been learning with the help of infinitely patient and gentle family members and teachers to break out of that silent, lonely prison.

Cooper, a sensitive man of middle years, has made excellent documentaries on air pollution, narcotic addiction, Negro slums, the Vietnam war—all the big, pressing subjects so dear to documentary makers.

But this program is different, for Lester Cooper himself is partially deaf. He has undergone several operations but now has lost all hearing in one ear because of nerve destruction. So the problems of the deaf are close to him, particularly those of children who have never been able to hear the sound of a human voice.

He chose Los Angeles' John Tracy Clinic—founded by Mrs. Spencer Tracy whose son was born deaf—for the source of the program and arbitrarily picked Beth Ann, who was about to enter the clinic, as his subject. He had a marvelous piece of luck since the cameras followed along with parents and tutors worked with the child in an effort to get her to speak.

Progress But No Word

But after all the weeks of work, Beth Ann, who was making progress, had not spoken her first word when the TV crew was winding up. A piece of film turned out bad, so Cooper sent his men back. On that day the girl spoke her first word—"ball"—and the camera and sound equipment caught it all.

Ingrid Bergman speaks the commentary written by Cooper.

Quick Quiz

Q—Was Saint Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, born in that country?

A—No. Saint Patrick was born at Bannavem, which may have been in England, or in Scotland near the modern city of Dumbarton. The saint's British name is said to have been Suat. Patrick is the English form of his Latin name, Patricius.

An organization was trying to decide where to hold their next annual convention. Someone suggested Atlantic City.

Mr. Jones — No, Sir, that city is full of crooks.

Mr. Smith (who had made the suggestion)—What do you mean by that crack?

Mr. Jones — Well, I was there attending a convention several years ago and while I was driving down in broad daylight, mind you, I put my hand out to make a left turn, and some no-good citizen stole the olive right out of my martini!

If you were to tell a woman, "Your face would stop a clock," she would be highly insulted.

But, say to her, "When I look into your eyes time stands still," and she will swoon.

Mary, a second-grader, wanted her parents to know how smart she was but still didn't want to give the impression that she was bragging on herself, so she announced,

Mary — You know what? There are 31 kids in my class and 29 of them are dumber than I am.

Almost everyone knows the difference between right and wrong — some just hate to make decisions.

Daughter — Dad, does uncle tell lies?

Dad — I guess everyone tells lies.

Daughter — Gee, St. Peter must be awful lonesome up there with just George Washington around.

ABC Documentary Different

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This has not been a particularly impressive season for documentary programs with the exception of "Africa," ABC's four hour study early in September. But good, bad or indifferent, they fall into two basic types of presentation.

There is the "information documentary," which is usually a service type of program and, as one network executive explained, "You take a subject and make pictures about it, and then you add a voice that tells you the meaning of what you are seeing."

Very Special to Him
The other type, utilizing a familiar journalistic technique, tackles a big dramatic issue and explores it in terms of a little story "microcosm" such as showing the drug problem in terms of one man's addiction.

Lester Cooper, who makes documentaries for ABC, prefers the latter. And next Monday night his half hour special, "Can You Hear Me?" is very special to him. It will tell the story of a little girl named Beth Ann who is 2½ years old and who was born deaf. It shows how she has been learning with the help of infinitely patient and gentle family members and teachers to break out of that silent, lonely prison.

Cooper, a sensitive man of middle years, has made excellent documentaries on air pollution, narcotic addiction, Negro slums, the Vietnam war—all the big, pressing subjects so dear to documentary makers.

But this program is different, for Lester Cooper himself is partially deaf. He has undergone several operations but now has lost all hearing in one ear because of nerve destruction. So the problems of the deaf are close to him, particularly those of children who have never been able to hear the sound of a human voice.

He chose Los Angeles' John Tracy Clinic—founded by Mrs. Spencer Tracy whose son was born deaf—for the source of the program and arbitrarily picked Beth Ann, who was about to enter the clinic, as his subject. He had a marvelous piece of luck since the cameras followed along as parents and tutors worked with the child in an effort to get her to speak.

Progress But No Word
But after all the weeks of work, Beth Ann, who was making progress, had not spoken her first word when the TV crew was winding up. A piece of film turned out bad, so Cooper sent his men back. On that day the girl spoke her first word—"ball"—and the camera and sound equipment caught it all.

Ingrid Bergman speaks the commentary written by Cooper.

Deserters Tell Story on TV; Reported Resting in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Four U.S. sailors who deserted the carrier Intrepid in Japan told the Soviet public today that a majority of American servicemen do not want to fight in Vietnam.

A Soviet "peace committee" looking after the four said they are "resting" in Moscow but declined to give their whereabouts or future plans or to allow foreign newsmen to talk with them.

The four young men said on Moscow television Monday night they deserted in protest against U.S. policy in Vietnam. They are Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; John Michael Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif., and Michael Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

Embassy Ignores

The U.S. Embassy said it has no intention of trying to contact the deserters or inquiring about them. A spokesman said the embassy plans to ignore them.

In an interview today in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, the sailors said they would go on to other countries to continue their work against "the inhuman war in Vietnam." They did not say which countries.

The four young Americans jumped ship Oct. 24 while the Intrepid was in Japan for a recreation stay after a tour bombing North Vietnam.

A Japanese peace group which looked after the deserters said they went to the Soviet Union because they apparently did not consider Japan neutral in the Vietnam war.

"I think the majority of Americans do not want to fight in Vietnam," Barilla told Pravda, "but many of them lack decisiveness. They are drafted and they 'do their duty.'"

Barilla said his officers told him America has to fight in Vietnam to stop communism.

Gives Reasons

He turned against the war he said, after watching planes loaded with bombs fly off from the Intrepid on raiding missions day after day.

"It became clear to me that we were killing people," he said, "I am convinced that the United States does not have any right to be in Vietnam."

Anderson said, "We would like to be an example to those who are beginning to understand the Vietnamese war."

He said that on the basis of what he observed on the Intrepid, he did not think the majority of pilots favored the war.

"But they prefer to remain silent," he said. "This personal indifference was one of the main reasons we decided to do something."

On the Moscow television program Monday night, broadcast in Russian and English and apparently recorded, the four answered questions put to them by three members of the Soviet peace committee.

Bailey said U.S. troops are imposing "Americanism" on the Vietnamese and that the antiwar movement in the United States will mushroom.

"It appears I have lost a son," said Bailey's father, Homer Bailey, in Jacksonville, Fla. When he last heard from his son, the father said, "he was very proud of his uniform and his contribution to his country."

Shelling Delays Evacuation

Yank Toll Hits 239

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. artillery and planes today pounded dug-in North Vietnamese gunners delaying the evacuation of scores of wounded U.S. paratroopers trapped on a hillside near Dak To.

U.S. casualties mounted to at least 239 dead and 822 wounded in the 19th day of fighting around the Dak To valley, the second most costly battle of the Vietnam war for the Americans.

Rivals 1965 Fighting
It rivaled in intensity the 1965 fighting in the Ia Drang valley — also in the central highlands and also just before Thanksgiving — in which 310 Americans were killed.

Brig. Gen. L. H. Schweitzer, commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, said the North Vietnamese were dug in so well on Hill 875 the U.S. guns and bombs couldn't hit their bunkers.

"We're going to have to dig them out man by man," he said. Although the North Vietnamese repeatedly drove off medical helicopters, a few got through and lifted off five wounded men Monday night and 20 more today. But at least 61 wounded were still with the beleaguered battalions on the hill late Tuesday, AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the Dak To command post.

Two Planes Missing
Over North Vietnam, U.S. warplanes hit targets in the Ha Noi-Haiphong area Monday for the sixth consecutive day and the U.S. Command announced two more U.S. planes were lost, one to a Communist MIG21. One flier was missing.

This brought the total of U.S. combat planes announced lost over the North to 751, including 13 planes and 16 pilots since last Thursday.

The wounded trapped on Hill 875 near Dak To were part of the 173rd Airborne Brigade's 2nd battalion that had been battling Red troops on the hill since Sunday morning.

U.S. spokesmen reported 71 Americans killed so far in the battle for the hill, at least 20 of them when a bomb from a U.S. plane mistakenly dropped onto their position.

Murderous Volleys
Three companies of the 173rd's 4th battalion joined the 2nd battalion on the hill Monday night, but an assault to try to knock out the enemy guns driving off the evacuation helicopters was postponed for the time being while U.S. artillery and planes kept up their attacks.

Attempts to reach the wounded men 300 yards from the crest of the hill by helicopter met with murderous volleys of North Vietnamese fire. At least 10 choppers had been disabled since the beginning of the bloody battle.

The key strike in Monday's raids over the North was on the Duc Noi railroad yard and petroleum products storage area six miles north-northeast of Ha Noi. A U.S. spokesman said the yard, hit for the first time in three months, was jammed with 118 railroad cars and three locomotives.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Conservative opposition readied a House of Commons campaign today to censure the government but dissident factions of the Labor majority closed ranks behind the new $2.40 pound to insure that the government will remain in office.

Heath Sets Tone
Conservative party leader Edward Heath set the tone for the two-day attack on the government's economic policy when he told a national television audience Monday night: "We have reached the depths of disappointment and frustration. Last Saturday night (when devaluation was announced) was failure. It was an admission of defeat."

In attacking the 14.3 per cent drop in the pound's ratio to the U.S. dollar, Heath reminded viewers that Wilson had pledged 20 times in his 37 months in office not to devalue the pound.

However, left-wing Laborites who have fought government deflationary policies for months rallied around Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan in the House of Commons Monday as he told jeering Conservatives: "You left us in this state."

Callaghan said the devaluation from $2.80 to $2.40 would give British exports an edge in world markets but only if wage and price increases were checked at home. This means more belt tightening for the British working man and more unpopularity for the Labor party, but unless there is a whole-sale rebellion within the party, the government does not have to face the voters for another three years.

Needs Friends

Increased earnings overseas for British manufactures, Callaghan argued, should put the balance of payments in the black in about 18 months.

Michael Foot, the Labor lefts most articulate spokesman, told him, "Many MPs now rejoice that we have got this albatross off our necks."

Deserters Tell Story on TV; Reported Resting in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Four U.S. sailors who deserted the carrier Intrepid in Japan told the Soviet public today that a majority of American servicemen do not want to fight in Vietnam.

A Soviet "peace committee" looking after the four said they are "resting" in Moscow but declined to give their whereabouts or future plans or to allow foreign newsmen to talk with them.

The four young men said on Moscow television Monday night they deserted in protest against U.S. policy in Vietnam. They are Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; John Michael Barilla, 20, of Cantonville, Md.; Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif., and Michael Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

Intrepid was in Japan for a recreation stay after a tour bombing North Vietnam.

A Japanese peace group which looked after the deserters said they went to the Soviet Union because they apparently did not consider Japan neutral in the Vietnam war.

"I think the majority of Americans do not want to fight in Vietnam," Barilla told Pravda, "but many of them lack decisiveness. They are drafted and they do their duty."

Barilla said his officers told him America has to fight in Vietnam to stop communism.

He turned against the war he said, after watching planes loaded with bombs fly off from the Intrepid on raiding missions day after day.

"It became clear to me that we were killing people," he said. "I am convinced that the United States does not have any right to be in Vietnam."

Anderson said, "We would like to be an example to those who are beginning to understand the Vietnamese war."

He said that on the basis of what he observed on the Intrepid, he did not think the majority of pilots favored the war.

On the Moscow television program Monday night, broadcast in Russian and English and apparently recorded, the four answered questions put to them by three members of the Soviet peace committee.

Bailey said U.S. troops are imposing "Americanism" on the Vietnamese and that the antiwar movement in the United States will mushroom.

"It appears I have lost a son," said Bailey's father, Homer Bailey, in Jacksonville, Fla. When he last heard from his son, the father said, "he was very proud of his uniform and his contribution to his country."

"But they prefer to remain silent," he said. "This personal indifference was one of the main reasons we decided to do something."

Laborites Rallying for Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Conservative opposition readied a House of Commons campaign today to censure the government but dissident factions of the Labor majority closed ranks behind the new $2.40 pound to insure that the government will remain in office.

Heath Sets Tone
Conservative party leader Edward Heath set the tone for the two-day attack on the government's economic policy when he told a national television audience Monday night: "We have reached the depths of disappointment and frustration. Last Saturday night (when devaluation was announced) was failure. It was an admission of defeat."

In attacking the 14.3 per cent drop in the pound's ratio to the U.S. dollar, Heath reminded viewers that Wilson had pledged 20 times in his 37 months in office not to devalue the pound.

However, left-wing Laborites who have fought government deflationary policies for months rallied around Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan in the House of Commons Monday as he told jeering Conservatives: "You left us in this state."

Callaghan said the devaluation from $2.80 to $2.40 would give British exports an edge in world markets but only if wage and price increases were checked at home. This means more belt tightening for the British working man and more unpopularity for the Labor party, but unless there is a wholesale rebellion within the party, the government does not have to face the voters for another three years.

Increased earnings overseas for British manufacturers, Callaghan argued, should put the balance of payments in the black in about 18 months.

Michael Foot, the Labor left's most articulate spokesman, told him, "Many MPs now rejoice that we have got this albatross off our necks."

Callaghan thanked him and said, "I need friends at the moment."

Government ministers conferred with representatives of labor and management, seeking ways to prevent rises in wages and prices that would annul the benefits of devaluation.

Sixteen Labor members of parliament representing all sections of the often factious party issued a statement Monday night backing devaluation. They also disclosed they had appealed to Wilson to devalue at the height of Britain's monetary crisis last week.

Shelling Delays Evacuation

Yank Toll Hits 239

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. artillery and planes today pounded dug-in North Vietnamese gunners delaying the evacuation of scores of wounded U.S. paratroopers trapped on a hillside near Dak To.

U.S. casualties mounted to at least 239 dead and 822 wounded in the 19th day of fighting around the Dak To valley, the second most costly battle of the Vietnam war for the Americans.

Rivals 1965 Fighting
It rivaled in intensity the 1965 fighting in the Ia Drang valley — also in the central highlands and also just before Thanksgiving — in which 310 Americans were killed.

Brig. Gen. L. H. Schweitzer, commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, said the North Vietnamese were dug in so well on Hill 875 the U.S. guns and bombs couldn't hit their bunkers.

"Were going to have to dig them out man by man," he said. Although the North Vietnamese repeatedly drove off medical helicopters, a few got through and lifted out five wounded men Monday night and 20 more today. But at least 61 wounded were still with the beleaguered battalions on the hill late Tuesday, AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the Dak To command post.

Two Planes Missing
Over North Vietnam, U.S. warplanes hit targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area Monday for the sixth consecutive day and the U.S. Command announced two more U.S. planes were lost, one to a Communist MIG21. One flier was missing.

This brought the total of U.S. combat planes announced lost over the North to 751, including 13 planes and 16 pilots since last Thursday. The wounded trapped on Hill 875 near Dak To were part of the 173rd Airborne Brigade's 2nd battalion that had been battling Red troops on the hill since Sunday morning.

U.S. spokesmen reported 71 Americans killed so far in the battle for the hill, at least 20 of them when a bomb from a U.S. plane mistakenly dropped onto their position.

Murderous Volleys
Three companies of the 173rd's 4th battalion joined the 2nd battalion on the hill Monday night, but an assault to try to knock out the enemy guns driving off the evacuation helicopters was postponed for the time being while U.S. artillery and planes kept up their attacks.

Attempts to reach the wounded men 300 yards from the crest of the hill by helicopter met with murderous volleys of North Vietnamese fire. At least 10 choppers had been disabled since the beginning of the bloody battle.

The key strike in Monday's raids over the North was on the Duc Noi railroad yard and petroleum products storage area six miles north-northeast of Hanoi. A U.S. spokesman said the yard, hit for the first time in three months, was jammed with 118 railroad cars and three locomotives.
